STATE OF CALIFORNIA, DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
SACRAMENTO, January 4, 1937.

To the Legislature of the State of California:

I herewith transmit to you an initiative petition which has been submitted to the Attorney General as follows:

Fishing Control. Initiative measure for the presentation to Legislature. Adds new section to Fish and Game Laws. Prohibits operation in State waters of fishing boats which carry any load, including ice, exceeding the weight, to points beyond State waters, which load exceeds the amount for State Fish and Game Commission. Any person committing to such violation, subject to such delivery, including to such cases as persons shall try to put the species or obstruct the operation of such law. Therefore petition for legislation.

Enclosed upon each section thereof is a statement of justifying necessity of law received by this office.

The number of qualified electors entitled to voting equal has been verified as equal in number to at least five per cent of all the voters upon the last condition of Governor at the last preceding general election at which a majority was elected.

Very truly yours,

FRANK C. JORDAN, Secretary of State.

Proposed Initiative Measure.

The People of the State of California do enact as follows:

The Fish and Game Code of the State of California, is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to be known as 1110 and to read as follows:

1110. No person shall use or operate or permit to be used or operated in this State or the waters thereof any boat or vessel used in connection with fishing operations, irrespective of its home port or port of destination, which carries more than seven deliveries or by which there is delivered to any point or place other than within the State any fish, mollusks or crustaceans which are loaded on or taken aboard said boat or vessel from the waters of the Pacific Ocean within the State or on the high seas or elsewhere, unless in person authorizing the same shall have been issued by the Fish and Game Commission.

Where it appears to the commission that such permit will not tend to prevent, impede or obstruct the operation, enforcement or administration of this code it may provision thereof, and will not tend to result in fish, mollusks or crustaceans in the waters of this State being taken or used otherwise than is authorized by this code, the commission may issue revocable permits under such rules and regulations and upon such terms and conditions as it may prescribe, to deliver fish, mollusks or crustaceans by the use of such boat or vessel outside of this State, provided that nothing herein shall authorize the transportation or carrying out of this State or any district thereof, of any fish, mollusks or crustaceans where the same is prohibited by law, and no permit shall be issued which may tend to deplete any species of fish, mollusk or crustacean, or result in waste thereof. Any person who uses or operates or assists in using or operating any boat or vessel in violation of the provisions of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor and such boat or vessel and the net, gear or other equipment of said boat or vessel is a public nuisance and shall be forfeited. It is the duty of every person authorized to make an arrest for the violation of any of the provisions of this code, to seize and keep such boat, vessel, net, gear or other equipment and to report such seizure to the commission. The commission shall thereupon commence, in the superior court of the county or city and county in which or nearest to which the seizure is made, proceedings for forfeiture of the seized property for its use in violation of this section, and such proceeding shall be had in the manner and according to the procedure provided by section 845 of this code for the forfeiture of nets.

Opinion of Legislative Counsel.

The following opinion of the Legislative Counsel, addressed to the President of the Senate George J. Hatfield, was ordered read, and printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, January 4, 1937.

*Hon. George J. Hatfield, President of the Senate,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.*

Subject: The procedure to be followed by the Legislature on receiving from the Secretary of State an initiative petition filed with him.

DEAR MR. HATFIELD: By Article IV, section 1, of the Constitution, it is made the duty of the Secretary of State, who has received such a petition properly signed, "proposing a law set forth in full," to "transmit the same to the Legislature as soon as it convenes and organizes."

Article IV, section 1, continues by directing what course shall be followed by the Legislature with such petition, referring to it as a "law proposed". The language is, "The law proposed by such petition shall be either enacted or rejected without change or amendment by the Legislature, within 40 days from the time it is received by the Legislature."

From the above language it seems to be clear that in the Legislature such petition must be treated as a bill proposing a law and that it must follow the same procedure as any other bill, and that, under Article IV, section 15, of the Constitution, it must "be read on three several days in each house." It should, on the day of its receipt, be referred to committee, as any other bill, unless the house votes to consider it without reference to committee.

The above quoted provision of the Constitution requires that it shall be "enacted or rejected" without specifying by what vote. It follows therefore, there being no contrary direction, that it can be enacted or rejected by a majority.

Article IV, section 1, of the Constitution continues, "if no action is taken upon it by the Legislature within said 40 days, the Secretary of State shall submit it to the people." It is possible, therefore, for the Legislature to adopt the course of letting such measure go by default.

It is to be remarked further that the same section of the Constitution provides that "no act, law or amendment to the Constitution, initiated or adopted by the people, shall be subject to the veto power of the Governor." The language here used is undoubtedly sufficient to embrace the sort of measure we are considering.

It is to be noted, also, that the Constitution prescribes that such a petition contain "a law set forth in full." This view is strengthened by the consideration that such a proposed law "shall be either enacted or rejected without change or amendment by the Legislature."

If, as now seems to be contemplated, the Secretary of State presents the petition to the houses in joint session, there will be a new problem presented which we will be glad to consider if desired.

Very respectfully,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel.
By ARTHUR P. WILL, Consultant.

Upon order of the President of the Senate, the initiative measure was read, and ordered referred to the Temporary Committee on Rules.

Proclamation

The following proclamation from the Council of State Governments was received, read, ordered printed in the Journal, and referred to the Temporary Committee on Rules.

The official delegates to the Assembly will deliberate and take action upon important problems involving cooperative action by the states with each other and with the Federal Government. Specific recommendations made by the group of prominent state legislative measures, social, economic, or other legislative programs will be presented to the Assembly by the following official addresses of the Council of State Governments:

Interstate Commission on Conflicting Traction	Interstate Commission on Canal Development

THE IMPERATIVE OF THE MOMENT

When the Council of State Governments addressed a call for the Third Assembly, which was held in 1932, President Roosevelt issued the following statement:

The plan to hold an Interstate Assembly of Legislators to secure a better coordination of the various agencies of the Federal Government and of the 48 States is a splendid idea. Many extremely important public questions are pressing for solution and upon the open minds of those in the early line with which your association proposes to deal.

"In the past, the Federal Government has passed revenue legislation and too little consideration the States has shown that on one side and the States have legislated with little reference to the Federal position and with almost no consideration for the tax position of other States. This is not as it should be. I have given considerable thought to this problem, and it is my hope to make it less a source of controversy to a better coordinated Federal, State and local taxing system. And I shall eagerly follow the proceedings of your conference, being hopeful that from it some good ideas will develop.

"I do hope that every State Legislature will be represented in the conference and that our Governors of the several States will participate in I to the importance of this movement and lend their support by sending representatives to the meeting."

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

TO THE GOVERNOR, THE SENATE, AND THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF EACH OF THE FORTY-EIGHT STATES:

During the two years which have passed since the Second Assembly was held in Washington on February 28, March 1 and 2, 1935, the Council of State Governments has carried through the recommendations made there for the expansion of machinery for intergovernmental cooperation. New agencies, concentrating on specialized subjects and focusing their attention on the solution of problems in separate fields, have been organized. Tangible reports are now being prepared by these agencies for submission to the Third General Assembly.

Further than this, the Third General Assembly has been developed with particular regard to a need of State legislators—a need for organization which will guarantee them an outlet for serious and practicable study and action upon whatever new intergovernmental problems they feel call for attention at this time.

Substantial benefits can be derived from the Third General Assembly out of the close contacts between legislative, executive, and administrative officials of the State and Federal Governments.

The specific model legislative measures which will be presented to the Assembly delegates include, among others, legislation dealing with problems of social security, crime control, conflicting taxation, and certain administrative functions. The 10 agencies reporting to the Assembly will be:

- Interstate Commission on Conflicting Taxation
- Tax Revision Council
- Interstate Commission on Crime
- Interstate Commission on Social Security
- Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin
- Interstate Commission on Council Development
- Interstate Commission on Conservation
- American Legislators' Association
- National Association of Attorneys General
- National Association of Secretaries of State

It is with the sincere conviction that intergovernmental cooperation in these United States has proved its importance to the Nation, that the Council of State Governments issues a formal Call to the Third General Assembly.

CALL TO THE THIRD GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

The Third General Assembly of official delegates of the 48 States of the Union is hereby called for Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, January 21 to 24, 1937, in Washington, D. C.

Official Delegates.

Each State is entitled to send as its delegation to the Third General Assembly three official delegates—one representing the Governor, one representing the Senate, and one representing the House of Representatives of the State Legislature.

Appointment of Official Delegates.

By Commissions on Interstate Cooperation: In States where Commissions on Interstate Cooperation have been established, these commissions are hereby invited to appoint the official delegations representing these States, in accordance with the plan stated above.

By Governors and Legislatures in Some States: In those States where Commissions on Interstate Cooperation have not as yet been established, official delegates should be chosen in the following manner:

The Governor of each of these States is hereby invited to send to the Assembly an official delegate, or delegation, to represent him;

The Senate of each of these States is hereby invited to send, as its delegation, one or more of its members chosen as the Senate may determine;

Similarly, the House of Representatives of each of these States is hereby invited to send, as its delegation to the Assembly, one or more of its members, chosen in such manner as the House of Representatives may determine.

The Governor of every State is an Honorary Member of the Assembly.

Voting.

Each State is entitled to send as many delegates as it may desire, but each of the three delegations representing the Governor, the Senate, and the House of Representatives shall be entitled to only one vote, regardless of the number of individuals who compose it.

Date of Designations.

All delegates should be designated on or before January 15, 1937. And on or before that date, official notification of the names of delegations from each of the States should be mailed to the Chicago office of the Council of State Governments.

Expenses of Delegates.

In most cases the expenses of legislative delegates to the Assembly will be provided from legislative contingent funds and other funds, and the expenses of delegates representing the executive department will be paid by funds of the executive or administrative departments. In some cases, however, special legislative action may be necessary. But in every state, executive or administrative provision for the delegation has been made, within limits. Here, the committee should be appointed and their report filed by early date. Also, STATE is strongly urged to take action promptly to remove the members of the committee to the Assembly. The Assembly will have no other means of contact with any State which fails to designate its representatives.

Time, Place, and Correspondence.

Registration will begin at approximately ten in the forenoon, January 15, 1937, at the meeting place of the Assembly—the Mayflower Hotel, Washington, D. C. All committees known should be addressed to the Council on State Government, 1500 Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street, Chicago.

Article VI, Title I, Part III, comprising sections 273 to 283, inclusive, of the Political Code, shall govern, except that no contest shall be dismissed for failure of the statement of contest and depositions to be delivered to the President of the Senate on or before the second day of the session, if the contestant shows to the satisfaction of the Senate or an appropriate committee thereof, that he has used all possible diligence, both in the filing of his statement of contest and in his subsequent prosecution thereof, including delivery to the Secretary of State, to have his statement and depositions delivered to the President of the Senate at the earliest possible moment.

II.

Upon receipt of a statement of contest and appropriate depositions from the Secretary of State, the President of the Senate shall immediately announce such receipt and appoint a committee of five Senators to try such contest.

IV.

The committee, except as in these rules otherwise provided, shall be governed as to procedure and the introduction of evidence by the law applicable to the trial of civil actions in superior courts. The contestant is the plaintiff, the contestee, the defendant.

Communications Regarding Election Contest.

The following communications from the Legislative Counsel regarding the election contest were received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

Memorandum of Election Contest to Seat in California State Senate.

Swearing in of Senator whose seat is contested.

Rules of procedure.

Vote necessary to decide contest.

In an election contest in the California State Senate, the following questions have arisen:

1. Should the Senate administer the oath of office to a person holding a certificate of election which is fair and regular on its face and certifies that the person is a duly elected Senator?

2. What rules, if any, should the Senate adopt and follow in an election contest?

3. If a person is sworn in as a Senator, what vote is necessary to unseat him in an election contest?

We have concluded that a person holding a certificate should be sworn in as Senator, even though the Senate is notified of a pending election contest. The ordinary method of procedure in an election contest is to refer the matter to a committee.

A majority of those voting, providing a quorum votes, is sufficient to determine an election contest either way, regardless of whether the contestee has previously been sworn in or not.

I. THE CONTESTEE SHOULD BE SWORN IN.

We have examined the reports of a number of contests in the State Senate, besides two or three in the Assembly, and in none of them have we been able to find that there was any objection to the swearing in of the contestee. Cushing, in "Law and Practice of Legislative Assemblies," at page 91, says:

"240. * * * The principles of parliamentary law * * * are as follows: First, that every person duly returned is a member, whether legally elected or not, until his election is set aside; second, that no person, who is not duly returned, is a member, even though legally elected, until his election is established; third, that conflicting claimants, both in form legally returned, are neither of them entitled to be considered as members, until the question between them has been settled; and, fourth, that those members, who are duly returned, and they alone, (the members whose rights are to be determined being excluded,) constitute a judicial tribunal, for the decisions of all questions of this nature."

This is quoted with approval in the case of In re Gunn, 50 Kan. 155, 32 Pac. 470, at 472, 19 L.R.A. 519. In this case, the House of Representatives in Kansas refused to allow certain members to be sworn in. Beginning at page 473 of 32 Pac., the court says:

"* * * Every person duly returned to a House of Representatives, and having a certificate, is a member thereof, whether elected or not, whether eligible or not, until his election is set aside. And this must be set aside by the house, not by the individual members before organization, not by any one member, not by any contestant, not by any mob. Before organization, a few members properly elected, meeting in caucus or otherwise, can not pass upon the 'elections, returns, and qualifications' of the members of the house to be thereafter organized. If one member, before organization, can object to any other member duly returned and having a certificate, then all members can be objected to, and there could be no one left to organize any house. In McCrary on Elections (2d Ed., Sec. 204) the practice is thus stated: 'Where two or more persons claim the same office, and where a judicial investigation is required to settle the contest upon the merits, it is often necessary to determine which of the claimants shall be permitted to qualify and to exercise the functions of the office pending such investigation. If the office were to remain vacant pending the contest, it might frequently happen that the greater part of the term would expire before it could be filled; and thus the interests of the people might suffer for the want of a public officer. Besides, if the mere institution of a contest were deemed sufficient to prevent the swearing in of the person holding the usual credentials, it is easy to see that very great and serious injustice might be done. If this were the rule, it would only be necessary for an evil-disposed person to contest the right of his successful

Congress, and we perceive no reason why we should reach a different conclusion. * * *

In a footnote to this case, found at 279 U. S. 615, 49 S. Ct. 455, 73 L. Ed. 872, the court said:

"Among the typical cases in the house, where that body refused to seat members in advance of investigation although presenting credentials unimpeachable in form, was that of Roberts, in the 56th Congress, where it was so decided after full debate by a vote of 268 to 50. Cong. Record, Vol. 33, Pt. 2, p. 1217.

"It was stated at the bar in this case that the Senate in 29 cases, had, in advance of investigation, seated persons exhibiting prima facie credentials, and in 16 cases had taken the opposite course of refusing to seat such persons, before investigation and determination of charges challenging the right to the seat."

This case can be reconciled, however, with the Kansas case above quoted by the distinction pointed out by Attorney General ex. rel. Works vs. Rogers et al., 56 N. J. Law, 480, 28 Atlantic 726, 29 Atlantic 173, 23 L. R. A. 354. In this latter case, the majority opinion at great length argues and concludes that the New Jersey Senate is not a continuous body, but that it newly comes into existence once every two years. From this it is concluded with very little argument that, therefore, the hold-over Senators, i.e., those Senators who had been Senators at the previous session of the New Jersey Senate, had no right to refuse the oath of office to those persons holding certificates indicating that they were new Senators-elect. One of the Justices dissented, claiming that the Senate of New Jersey was a continuous body, the same as the Senate of the United States. He apparently agreed that if the Senate were not a continuous body, then the hold-over Senators would have no authority to refuse the oath of office to persons holding credentials indicating them to be newly elected Senators.

The distinction used by the New Jersey court seems reasonable. It has been held that the Senate of the United States is a continuing body. Wilson vs. Vane, 6 Cannon's Precedents, 346 at 347, section 18; 4 Hinds' Precedents, 922, section 4544. Obviously a continuous Senate does not need to swear in a member in order to organize. A Senate which has to be resurrected once every two years, however, has no existence until its organization. The members of that body can therefore determine nothing until it is organized, and it can only be organized after swearing in all those persons who appear, by their credentials, to be members.

In French et al. vs. Senate, 146 Cal. 604 at 607, 80 p. 1031, 60 L. R. A. 556, the plaintiffs had been expelled by the Senate for taking bribes and requested a writ of mandamus to restore them to membership. In denying the writ, the court said:

"Even if the court should attempt to usurp this legislative function, there is no means whereby it could carry its judgment into effect and give the relief demanded. The thirty-sixth session of the Legislature has adjourned sine die; it is a thing past, and can not be reconvened upon the mandate of the judicial power. (Const., Art. III.) * * * The next regular session of the Senate will be composed of different persons and will be a different body from that now supposed to be before the court. * * *

Apparently, therefore, the California Senate reassembles as a new body once every two years, the same as that in New Jersey, and is not a continuous body as the United States Senate. We feel, therefore, that the reasoning of the Kansas and New Jersey cases, as above set forth, would apply, and that the contestee, if his credentials are in good order, should be sworn in, even though the Senate has notice of a pending election contest.

Section 238 of the Political Code provides that the Senate shall meet at the hour of noon on the first day of the session, and at that time the members-elect must present their certificates, take the constitutional oath of office and assume their seats. Section 281 of the Political Code provides that in an election contest the statement of contest and depositions are to be delivered to the house in which the contest is to be tried on or before the second day of the session. Apparently, when the Legislature provided that the oaths of members holding certificates of election to the Senate should be administered on the first day of the session, but that the statement of contest need not be delivered to that body until the second day of the session, it did not consider that an election contest should prevent the administration of the oath of office to the contestee.

II. RULES OF PROCEDURE.

In almost all election contests, the general procedure has been for the Speaker to announce the receipt of the papers in the election contest of ----- vs. ----- from the Secretary of State. The matter is then referred to a committee of Senators to investigate the matter and make a report.

We see no reason why this committee, if it deems best, should not be allowed to take additional testimony. It seems to us that the general rules of evidence found in the Code of Civil Procedure might carry well against. When the committee has made its report, then a motion is to order it to adopt or reject the report, upon a resolution that be adopted declaring that none of the motions in the bills motion Senator from such and such a district. It is necessary to make both motions be presented, and it seems rather probable that it is the committee's policy, instead of the majority report, which is adopted.

III. A MATTER OF A QUESTION OF PRECEDENT

It seems obvious to us that section 9 of Article IV has nothing to do with an election contest. However, it is necessary to find authority, however, on this point. The nearest we have is the following statement from French, Commissioner on the Constitution of the United States, Chapter XII, section 62, page 367:

" * * * It has often been held by the House of Representatives that a member who is elected could not be expelled for a crime not within the Constitution, such as treason, and that the grounds for such a case, if such, are excluded. The distinction between one right to refuse admission and the right of expulsion upon the most general of charges, under the former rule, is made by a majority of the members. Where members receive the vote of two-thirds. * * * "

This is quoted with approval in the case of Ex parte Benjamin W. Johnson, 5 House Proceedings, 537, section 419.

In all places in which either section 7 or section 9 of Article IV is discussed, it is assumed that section 9 applies in the case of a duly elected Senator or Assemblyman who was expelled for misconduct in office. Where members refuse to take an oath where the general question of the constitutionality of the members is under consideration. For example, in Ex parte of the Senate, 140 Cal. 602, 119 P. 80, 1912, 60 L. R. A. 536, which on habeas corpus that it was shown the grounds had been expelled from the Senate for violating Article IV, the court, without making that section 9 of Article IV was the exclusive provision. On the other hand, in Allen vs. Edwards, 164 Cal. 56, 117 P. 645, which it was assumed that a certain candidate was not eligible because of a violation, the court assumed without discussion that section 7 and section 9 of Article IV of the Constitution applied. Sections 7 and 9 of Article IV are substantially the same as the first two paragraphs of Article I, section 5 of the Federal Constitution, and it has always been assumed that the expulsion of a member was a proceeding to oust a member who had been duly elected and, because of his conduct, was no longer fit to be a member of the body concerned.

It seems very reasonable to assume that in cases of expulsion, members are necessary, while a motion to expel is sufficient to remove a member from the office of a member. Whether a person has property, more or less, and whether a person has the requisite qualifications to be a Senator, and both property which may be determined with some precision, and fit the requirements of members and well-defined rules.

On the other hand, whether a member's conduct is such as to remove him from office in a legislative body is a matter of opinion, of such opinion, and the power to expel a member duly elected, and also disqualify in such cases, is not, therefore, in doubt.

In construing the Constitution

A special provision is made in the case of a member elected a person, without relating thereto, and with respect to the appointment to the judicial office, as far as coming within the jurisdiction of the Senate. * * *

When section 7 of Article IV is construed, it is found that the subject of the election of members is not a question of the election of members, but a question of the election of members.

Another rule of constitutional construction is found in 5 Calif. Jur., 583, Constitutional Law, section 29.

"Effect Given to Every Part. It is a settled rule of interpretation that Constitutions, like laws, must be so construed that they produce effect in giving to every part of the Constitution some effect, and no part of the Constitution is to be construed as being inoperative. The first principle is that each and every clause has been intended to have some effect, and when rightly construed, each clause should have some effect. * * * "

If the reference is to section 9 of Article IV, it is found that the subject of the election of members is not a question of the election of members, but a question of the election of members.

Having concluded that section 9 of Article IV does not apply, it necessarily follows that a majority of the question is sufficient. It is a rule of construction, however, that in the absence of any provision to the contrary, the majority vote of those present, if a quorum is present, is sufficient to pass any act or resolution. United States vs. Joseph Ballin & Co., 144 U. S. 1 at 6, 12 Sup. Ct. Reporter 507, 36 Lawyers' Edition 321 at 325; Commonwealth ex rel vs. Fleming, 23 Pa. Sup. 404 at 408; 46 Corpus Juris, page 1380, Parliamentary Law, section 14; Frost et al vs. Hoar et al., N. H., 160 At. 51 at 52.

Section 75 of the Senate Rules, found at page 117 of the book containing these rules, states:

"In all cases not provided for by these Rules or by the Joint Rules of Senate and Assembly, the authority shall be Mason's Manual."

At page 199 of this Manual, section 270, it is stated:

"When a quorum is present, a majority of the votes cast is sufficient for the adoption of any motion that is in order, except those special matters which require a two-thirds vote or a majority vote of the members elected."

It might be contended that after the oath of office is administered to a contestee, he is thereby a member of the body and can only be removed by expulsion. We can not agree with this contention. While it is true that a person holding a credential is prima facie a member of the Senate, this is because of the certificate and not because of his having taken the oath of office. A contestee who has been sworn in needs no more protection against the arbitrary act of the Senate in an election contest than he would if the oath had not been administered. In fact, just the converse might be the case.

Subject: Attorneys' Fees in Election Contests. Binding Effect of Sections 273-283 of the Political Code.

An opinion of the Attorney General, dated March 12, 1931, holds that in an election contest, money can not be appropriated by the house in which the contest is pending to pay the attorneys for either of the parties. In a Kentucky case exactly the contrary has been held. In Mercer et al. vs. Coleman, 227 Ky. 797, 14 S.W. (2d) 144, both the successful contestant and unsuccessful contestee to a seat in the house joined in a suit to obtain payment of money appropriated to the payment of the attorneys' fees of both parties. Beginning at page 145 of 14 S.W. (2d), the court quoted the statute:

"7. The costs of the proceeding shall be adjudged against the unsuccessful party * * *" and then said:

"The statute, if controlling, would only apply to legal costs. Attorneys' fees are not a part of the legal cost, and so would not be within the statute. But aside from this, the house, being the sole judge of the election and qualification of its members, has an implied power to take such proof and incur such expenses, as may be reasonably necessary for it to decide the contest intelligently. In any contest the house may appoint its own committee to take further proof and may authorize a committee to employ legal counsel to assist him. If, instead of doing this, where other counsel has been employed and has done the work which the house might well have provided for, there is no sound reason why the house, in its discretion, may not pay for the work which has been done, which saved the committee the expense of doing this work. It is an important public matter who shall constitute the members of the legislative body of the State, which has supreme legislative authority subject to the restrictions placed upon it by the Constitution. A poor man living in a distant part of the State might be slow to incur the expense of defending a contest or of prosecuting one. But the interest of the State being greater than the interest of the individual, the custom has been, both in the Congress of the United States and in the State Legislature, for the house in which the contest is pending to make such appropriation as it sees proper for the expenses of the contest as constituting a proper part of the contingent expenses of the body. * * *"

The court then quoted McCrary—American Law of Elections (4th ed.), beginning at the bottom of p. 333:

"Sec. A contested election case, whatever the form of the proceeding may be, is in its essence a proceeding in which the people—the constituency—are primarily and principally interested. It is not a suit for the adjudication and settlement of private rights simply."

Among others, the California case of People ex rel. Budd vs. Holden, 28 Cal. 123 at 139, is cited to sustain, and does sustain, the text.

No section of the Kentucky Constitution was discussed in the opinion. Section 3 of the Kentucky Constitution, however, does provide in part:

"Sec. 3. * * * no grant of exclusive, separate public emoluments shall be made to any man or set of men, except in consideration of public services; * * *"

While not as explicit, it is submitted that the effect of this provision is the same as that in Article IV, section 31 of the California Constitution:

"Sec. 31. The Legislature shall have no power * * * to make any gift or authorize the making of any gift, of any public money or thing of value to any individual * * *"

Special Investigating Committees

23. No committee for the investigation of any special subject shall be appointed except pursuant to a resolution which shall be adopted by the Senate and referred to the Committee on Rules, and which shall be approved by a vote of a majority of the members elected to the Senate. The subject and purpose of the investigations shall be expressed in the title of the resolution and the scope of the investigations shall be consistent with the subject and purpose so expressed. No such committee shall have authority to extend its investigations to persons not so expressed, nor beyond the scope so indicated in the resolution. Various amendments stated in the resolution may, however, be introduced and shall be reported within twenty days after the adoption of the resolution.

Introduction of Bills by a Committee

24. Any committee may introduce a bill pursuant to any action within the proper consideration of such committee, whereupon the bill shall immediately be read the first time, ordered to print and placed on the second reading list.

Introduction of Bills After the Constitutional Session

25. The Committee on Rules shall constitute a standing Committee on Introduction of Bills to receive after the constitutional session. All motions for bills to introduce bills after the constitutional session shall be sent to the desk of the clerk under the order of the Committee on Rules. The Senate shall give the bill of the bill and shall be a majority of the bill. The bill shall be referred to the Committee on Introduction of Bills.

The committee shall examine bills referred to it with particular reference to the question as to whether there is already any bill of similar kind of the same character which might be amended to effect the result sought and generally as to the propriety of introducing the measure.

No bill shall be introduced during the session of the Committee of the members after report thereupon by the Committee on Introduction of Bills, nor shall more than two bills be introduced by any one member after the constitutional session.

Joint and concurrent resolutions and constitutional amendments shall not be referred to the Committee on Introduction of Bills, and shall not require a vote to authorize their introduction, nor shall the number to be introduced by any one member be limited.

Bills in CommitteeReference of Senate Bills*

26. At the time of introduction the President shall first indicate to what committee a bill or resolution ought to be referred, and it shall be so referred, unless upon a motion, without debate, the Senate by a majority vote of the members present refer it to some other committee. No debate shall be allowed on any motion to refer a bill or resolution to a committee.

Order of Reference.

27. When a resolution shall be offered, or a motion made to refer any subject and a different committee shall be proposed, the question shall be taken in the following order:

1. The Committee of the Whole Senate.
2. A Standing Committee.
3. A Select Committee.

Amendments on Third Reading

28. In order to amend a bill on second or third reading, it shall be necessary for the member offering such amendment or amendments to send the same to the desk in triplicate. Adoption of amendments to any bill in the Senate prior to third reading, other than by roll call, shall not preclude subsequent consideration in committee or on the third reading of the bill, of such amendments or any part thereof, by the Senate.

Reference of Assembly Bills.

29. When an Assembly bill has been received by the Senate, with a message announcing that it has passed the Assembly, such bill shall be read the first time and be referred by the President to a standing committee; provided, however, that when an Assembly bill is received, the text of which is stated by a member to be identical with that of a Senate bill which has already been considered and reported by a standing committee of the Senate, such Assembly bill shall be referred to the Committee on Engrossment, Enrollment and Printing for comparison, which committee shall report without delay whether or not such bill is identical with the Senate bill. If reported identical, such Assembly bill shall be substituted for the Senate bill, shall take its place on the second-reading file and be considered as having received the same committee recommendation as the Senate bill; provided, that the fact that the bills are identical shall be entered in the Journal. Such Senate bill shall thereupon be placed upon the file of unfinished business.

All committees shall act upon bills referred to them as soon as practicable, and when acted upon each bill shall be reported back to the Senate forthwith, and the chairman of each committee is charged with the observance of this rule; provided, that the Senate may at any time, by a majority vote of all the members elected to the Senate, recall a bill from any committee.

Order of Considering Bills.

Order of Making Files.

34. When bills are reported from committee they shall be placed upon the General File, to be kept by the Secretary as follows: All bills when reported to the Senate by the committee shall be placed at the foot of the second-reading file, in the order in which the reports are made, and after the second reading they shall be placed at the foot of the third-reading file, in the order of reading, and precedence shall be given in the consideration of bills in the following order: Second-reading file and third-reading file, unless otherwise ordered by unanimous consent of the Senators present or by a two-thirds vote of the members elected to the Senate. The bills upon third reading shall be considered in the order in which they appear upon the file, unless otherwise ordered by unanimous consent or by vote of a majority of the members present, such vote to be taken by roll call. If a bill is passed on file for any reason, other than absence of the author by leave of the Senate, vote of the fact shall be made in the General File, and when passed on file a second time, the bill shall be ordered at the foot of the file, and notice of the fact of the bill having been passed on file prior to the order placing it at the foot of the file shall be omitted from the General File.

Amendment or Division of Question

41. When an amendment proposed to any pending measure shall be laid on the table, it shall not carry with it or prejudice such measure.

If the question is before a committee, and if amendments are offered, the committee may have the same divided, but no motion to divide may be made until the committee has reported. The rejection of a motion to strike out and insert one proposition shall not prevent a motion to strike out and insert a different proposition, and shall not prevent a motion to simply strike out, nor shall the rejection of a motion to strike out prevent a motion to strike out and insert, and nothing in this rule shall be construed as a part to be applied to and the part to be inserted shall not be rejected for the purpose of amendment as a proposition. Motions to amend the part to be rejected out shall have precedence.

Restrictions as to Amendments

42. A substitute or amendment must conform to the same scheme as is expressed in the title or is provided for in the text, whichever in the case applies, of the original bill, resolution or constitutional amendment under consideration. ### The Previous Question.

48. The previous question shall be put in the following form: "Shall the question be now put?" It shall be admitted only when demanded by a majority of the Senators present upon division; and its effect shall be to put an end to all debate except that the author of the bill or the amendments shall have the right to close, and the question under discussion shall thereupon be immediately put to a vote. On a motion for the previous question prior to a vote being taken by the Senate, a call of the Senate shall be in order.

Executive Session.

Report.

The following report by Special Committee on Intoxicating Liquors was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

REPORT OF THE SENATE LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE ON INTOXICATING LIQUOR PURSUANT TO SENATE RESOLUTION ADOPTED JUNE 10, 1935 SUBMITTED TO THE SENATE OF CALIFORNIA ON JANUARY 7, 1937.

COMMITTEE MEMBERS:

Nelson T. Edwards

Arthur R. Sweeney

A. L. Friedman

Ralph E. Swing, Chairman

In re: Liquor Investigation. Transmitted to Senate Reading Room June 10, 1937.
To the Senate of the State of California.

Your Committee on Liquor Investigation and Study was here to report.

Realizing the necessity for a careful study of the problem involved in the sale and use of alcoholic beverages, SENATE JOINT SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION NO. 3, adopted on June 10, 1935, authorized the committee for that purpose. The Senate Joint Resolution, however, was not made public until the 24th day of January, 1937. Accordingly thereafter, the members met and organized. During the first session the Assembly authorized a similar committee and these committees have held joint meetings and have conducted their staff work.

Because of the nature of the subject involved, your committee determined at its first session that it would confine itself to investigations and research strictly within the scope of the purposes as outlined in the resolution authorizing the appointment. If the committee's work was to be effective, it was necessary to hold numerous hearings and to steer clear of unmanageable issues which might in any way confuse the committee as one seeking the benefits of that free society.

We are not unacquainted with California as a large State and land of abundant people of many natures and with many and varied ideas as to the proper method of solving not only this but all other public problems. We are further convinced that there are communities that demand strict prohibition, and others are convinced that they are agreeable to any reasonable luxury which moderation allows may afford. The committee, therefore, has concluded that it will take its views strictly on the problem from a state-wide standpoint rather than endeavor to fit the problem to local questions or in personalities. In this report, then, we have chosen to particular classes of businesses, our remarks are not to be viewed as solution upon the general business conducted by any particular firm or class of firms, and will be directed the method of business of such firms in so far as it affects the solution of the problem here being considered. We have not endeavored to determine the consequences of various situations and tendencies developing from the means of the regulated use of alcoholic beverages nor to prejudge the benefits and loss and regulation may be effected in the report by any political effect upon the committee, which is free and free discussion of the problem involved requires. We wish, therefore, that there be no real and this report will bear in mind that we are dealing with the subject from a state-wide standpoint and not from the viewpoint of any particular local community. Many as such viewpoint may affect the State problem, but here we attempted to weigh the evils or benefits flowing from the regulated use of intoxicating liquor against the evils and benefits of prohibition. Our inquiries were open, impartial and disinterested. All persons were invited and given an opportunity to express their views. Public hearings were held in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Sacramento, at which all interested parties and organizations were given an equal opportunity. Much valuable material was assembled and some valuable suggestions made to the committee.

When initiative petitions were filed submitting proposed constitutional changes relating to this subject, the committee found it necessary to delay further study until after the result of the election was known. The measures referred to were defeated at the November election.

Since that time the members of the committee have not been able to continue their studies and therefore are unable to submit in detailed form the recommendations which it believes necessary if our laws are to provide for an effective and proper administration of the sale and use of alcoholic beverages. We do feel, however, that it will be helpful to the members of the Senate and to the public generally to be advised as to some of the suggested changes, as well as some of the complications which might interfere with the enactment of desirable regulation.

The Situation Upon Return from Prohibition.

While legalizing the use of alcoholic beverages was anticipated for some time before it became a realization, the return from prohibition found this State poorly and inadequately equipped to meet the many complications and situations which developed when the return became effective. Not only was the State poorly equipped in regulatory measures but the drinking public was in no frame of mind to immediately submit to strict enforcement and strict regulation. This was due to the fact that during prohibition many people felt that they were being deprived of their constitutional liberties by the prohibition of the use of alcoholic liquor as a beverage and, as a result thereof, there grew up among a great number of our people a general disregard for law and order and constituted authority in so far as alcoholic liquor was concerned, and it was difficult to reestablish in the minds of these people a belief that strict regulation and control was necessary if the use of alcoholic liquor as a beverage was to continue. The legalization of the use of such beverage was accomplished by initiative measures which did not have the benefit of open discussion, constructive criticism and argument which similar measures usually have when they emanate from the Legislature. The drafters of such measure were controlled, more or less, by the dominant demand for legalization of the use of such beverages, rather than with the idea of providing proper enforcement machinery. No doubt, such drafters thought, and perhaps rightly, that the peace officers of the various communities were adequate to and would see that no abuses grew from the use of such liquors.

In casting about for a proper agency upon which to confer the duty of licensing the sale of alcoholic beverages, the drafters of such proposal selected the State Board of Equalization. The fact that revenues were to be derived from licenses and taxes imposed upon the privilege of selling intoxicating beverages prompted the selection of this board.

At that time, the Board of Equalization had little or no experience in matters other than those pertaining to taxation and no experience in enforcing police regulations and were unequipped with an organization for such purpose. But by the return measure this board was endowed not only with the duty of licensing and collecting taxes, but also authorized and directed to enforce all laws, rules and regulations which might be adopted or provided for a proper regulation of the sale and use of such beverages.

Perhaps in the first instance it would have been far wiser to have created a special department to handle all matters pertaining to the use of alcoholic beverages, but however that may be, the Board of Equalization having been selected for such purpose, and the people by their vote having imposed these duties upon it, the members rose to the occasion and undertook the job, perhaps without enthusiasm, but at least with as much vigor as could be expected from any commission or board.

The constitutional amendment so imposing these duties upon the board was indefinite and uncertain in many respects and the board, in attempting to function, found itself in a realm of uncertainty not only as to its powers, but likewise as to its authority to impose and enforce proper rules and regulations.

The board likewise was without any organization and without qualified or experienced enforcement officers to aid in the performance of the many duties which necessarily developed when it took on these new functions. Not only was the Board of Equalization surrounded by uncertainty as to the meaning and effect of the repeal amendment, but the public generally was confused as to the power and authority of the board and not infrequently assumed that the board was endowed with power that it never in fact possessed. Because of this situation much unjust criticism has been made of the board and of its various members.

After four years of experience, and of "trial and error", to use our President's expression, we find that the board has built up an organization well equipped to meet any contingency if and when the laws are amended in some of the particulars which we will hereinafter mention. But complete and satisfactory enforcement and regulation can come only through cooperation of local police and of local peace officers. The entire enforcement of all police regulations was never intended to be and is not in fact vested in the Board of Equalization. All regulations looking to the general welfare must still be enforced by local police and not by the Board of Equalization.

One of the frequent criticisms directed against the Board of Equalization is that there are too many licensees as well as that many of them do not possess a sufficiently good moral character to justify their engaging in the liquor business. Perhaps there is some truth to the charges, but when one stops to consider that upon the repeal of prohibition many of the applications for on-sale licenses were made by persons theretofore engaged in the illicit sale or the illicit purchase and might be utilized to exempt certain areas from a dry statute, but in practice local option is employed to enact a local prohibition law in an otherwise wet State. Consequently the Local Option Law as administered is welcomed as a weapon by the militant drys, who, defeated in nearly every State of the Union, are seeking opportunities to check liquor selling town by town, city by city, and county by county, with the view of reaching ultimately Nation-wide prohibition. Every victory on the question of local liquor sale brings them nearer their goal, and every defeat is to them merely a lull until the next vote. Local option thus serves to keep alive agitation and uncertainty in regard to the status and legitimacy of liquor in a particular community. This is especially true of localities where wet and dry sentiment is nearly even. Thus, where a vote is necessary to resolve the issue, it becomes, on the contrary, a vital factor in prolonging the strife. Communities are constantly torn apart over a social issue in regard to which some element of certainty and continuity would seem to be desirable."

Mr. Archer Bowden, City Attorney of San Jose, and Chairman of the Public Relations Committee of the League of Municipalities, when before the committee at its hearing at San Francisco, suggested that certain licenses be designated "local license" and that certain local control over the issuance thereof be extended to local authorities. He said:

"The things we are primarily interested in are:

"Limitations on Issuance of Local Licenses. The following types of licenses are designated as local licenses:

On-sale beer, on-sale beer and wine, off-sale beer and wine, off-sale liquor, and hotel and restaurant.

The board shall not issue any local licenses until thirty (30) days after written notice to the chief of police and the city clerk in the city in which the premises of the applicant are located, or the sheriff and the county clerk of the county in which said premises are located (if outside of incorporated territory) of the making of said application, and the furnishing to said respective officers of a copy of the application for said license."

Mr. Bowden further said:

"I do not think it (the license) should issue for a longer period than three years, and provide that after a license was issued it could not be revoked unless you found the men guilty of a violation of a law or conduct against the public interest, or it was felt that the number of licenses should be reduced. In other words, give the licensee a measure of protection against a revocation which was, you might say, arbitrary. In other words, you could not have an arbitrary revocation, at least during the life of the license; and one draft put in provides for automatic renewal of a license, but the wisdom of that, I do not feel. But, after all, the industry is entitled to some measure of protection in that, if the man's license is taken away from him during the period, or if they do not renew it, if it is a short license, that that should be done only in the event that there has been some violation or the board feels that the number of licenses should be reduced."

In speaking in favor of local option, such as was presented at the last election, Senator E. E. Grant, representing the Local Option League, appeared before our committee at Los Angeles and in support of his contention that local option was desirable, said:

"There was a clamor for 13 years for the right of the people to determine whether or not they wanted prohibition. That clamor finally took effect and resulted in the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Now, it is just as logical, conceding that the opinion of the country at least was that prohibition after 13 years was a failure, that State control has failed too, and in presenting our amendment (the local option amendment) to you today, we are presenting it on the basis that State control has proven a positive failure, in attempting to handle the liquor problem in the State of California, and merely shifting the control from the State Board of Equalization, as has been suggested by City Attorney Bowden of San Jose, will by no means solve the problem, but merely complicate it by giving a little more red tape to work with when your municipalities go up before the State Board asking for revocation of certain licenses, or asking that certain licenses that are sought be denied.

In saying that State control has failed and in saying that the administration of the State Board of Equalization also has failed, does not necessarily mean an indictment of the State Board of Equalization as such, because I think the stress under which they are working has absolutely proven that you can not handle the subject of liquor administration by remote control, and the vice of that situation is a body meeting in Sacramento, or possibly, as has been suggested, having local branches attempting to handle a local problem, which they can not handle nearly as well as can local officials, and under that particular plan you will merely find the local officials, the police departments, the mayors and city councilmen going up before that body in Sacramento, presenting their case before them, why a saloon should be denied here or a saloon license revoked there,—he merely presenting that before a body which they know in their hearts that they know more about the local situation than the ones who are going to pass judgment on it.

I do not attempt to compete with the experts on city government we have addressed you today. They have studied the question of municipal administration over a period of years, and it would take me a good many years to be even in a position to speak intelligently on such a subject.

But whatever benefits may flow from local action, or a question about it, may be resorted to in the full sense of the word under our present constitutional provision. As we view the Constitution, however, it does not modify the local authority from providing for some supervision by municipal authorities. The system of local supervision believed by municipal students to be desirable, was well stated by Mr. E. H. Spoor, a councilman from Redlands, and president of the recent fall session of the California League of Municipalities to the committee at its meeting in Los Angeles on December 4, 1936, at which time Mr. Spoor said:

"Among the numerous proposals the committee has received from constituents was that on-sale liquor establishments, to which my entire reference is made, be limited according to the population. There has not been any particular crystallization of that sort. There has been a very definite preponderance of sentiment in favor of higher on-sale licenses, possibly not less than $1000 a year, which would cause a little fostering point. As Mayor Dodge of Indio just stated, perhaps 85 per cent of their difficulties are caused by which, while it is a small town of 800, but they have the same metropolitan aqueduct group, comes from transients and whores by dozens coming in there to take care of these boys. They have quite a problem there, probably far in excess the size of the town would indicate. Mayor Dodge said that some 85 per cent of their difficulties locally are caused by 15 per cent of the on-sale liquor places. There seems to be a very definite opinion that the high license would be desirable, because it would tend to keep the places and less desirable places, and keep the trouble down to the hands of more responsible people.

"The constitution is on that point, which is fairly very strong, and the one point which will be stressed in its recommendations to the exclusion of all others, is that all Board of Equalization licenses should be approved by the local division of government, or the local board of supervisors, or the local boards of supervisors. Note that we are not the license and the board of supervisors. We do not say that the local division of government is the one to appoint. I must not go into details that I have no intention of doing, and police or sheriff departments. But the common sense and the practical side of it is the city councils. In our sixth class cities, which of course predominate in California, our police departments are all appointed by the city council, and they are consequently not accountable to the people as an elected officer. Therefore, we feel it should be limited, either by the city council, I presume that in a large metropolitan city such as Los Angeles, the council would have to have a committee which would act on these things. The council operandi we are not concerned with. We do not want to go into details. We would feel it a little presumptuous on our part to do it. That is the important point, that the license should be approved by either the council or the board of supervisors.

Now as pertains to existing licenses, we feel that we are in a very delicate position when we have trouble. All of the gentlemen present have had trouble in their towns, the selling of liquor to drunks, the selling of liquor to women particularly is coming to the fore. There is a great deal of it, and while we would as a whole perhaps do not give a damn what we do in the trouble, whether we have another drink or get a drunk or not, they do have what happens to the people, they feel very strongly on that point. It is not possible for the local authorities to really accomplish much. They can go on and make a good deal, but you know what happens. The committee proposes as far as existing licenses are concerned that in the event there is cause to take action in a case that the local city council or the local board of supervisors be given authority to close the place of business, not to suspend the license or to revoke the license. But to close the place of business pending a hearing before the Board of Equalization, or its constitutional successor."

During the discussion Mr. Rowden suggested an amendment as follows:

"The board may refuse a license or permit if in its opinion the premises on which the applicant proposes to conduct his business do not meet the requirements of this amendment or the statutes required pursuant thereto, or if, in its opinion, the character of the applicant, or its officers, partners, members or directors is such that violations of said amendment or statutes would be likely to result if a license or permit were granted, or if in its opinion, licenses or permits already granted for the particular locality are adequate for the reasonable needs of the community. Upon written demand by an applicant who has been refused a license or permit, the board shall, in writing, state its reasons for such refusal."

concerning which he said:

"We felt that giving the board discretion to say there are enough liquor places in a given area at a given time is better than to put a population limit on, for the reason that it is hard to get a limit which would fit both moist and dry territory, and that the tendency of the board would probably be to go up to a limit if you should have a fixed limit."

These suggestions are worthy of consideration and are probably as far as we can go in that direction.

We are requesting an opinion from the Attorney General upon the power of the Legislature to provide regulations along the line suggested by Mr. Spoor, and upon receipt of such opinion this committee will give further consideration to such suggestions and will thereupon make its recommendations concerning the same.

We have made some investigation as to provisions enacted by other States covering local control of the issuing and revoking of licenses and we find a number of States have provided for some local supervision somewhat similar to that suggested by Mr. Spoor.

The provisions made by some of the other States relative to the issuance of licenses are as follows:

The Nevada Act provides:

"Application for any of the licenses hereinabove described shall be made to the county commissioners of the county in which the applicant resides or maintains his principal place of business. (Sec. 5—Par. 7061 CCH.) The county commissioners shall approve or disapprove such applications, and in the event an application is disapproved by the county commissioners, the county commissioners shall forthwith return to the applicant the license fee accompanying such application. If the county commissioners approve an application they shall forward it to the State Tax Commission of the State of Nevada, together with their written approval thereof and the license fee accompanying the same. Upon receipt thereof the State Tax Commission * * * shall forthwith issue the appropriate license to such applicant. (Sec. 6—Par. 7065 CCH.)"

The New Mexico Act provides:

"The Board of Liquor Control is vested with exclusive control over the issuance of licenses to and collection of license fees from distillers * * * (Sec. 1001—Par. 7245 CCH.) In addition to retailer's * * * licenses herein required to be secured from and provided to be issued by the State Board of Liquor Control, municipal corporations within local option districts are hereby vested with power and authority to * * * prescribe the terms under which such licenses may be issued: * * * Provided, that * * * no license shall be issued by the municipality * * * to any person who shall not as a condition precedent thereto secure a license from the State Board of Liquor Control as herein provided: (Sec. 1002—Par. 7246 CCH.)"

The New York Act provides:

"Every local board shall * * * have the following functions, powers and duties:

(1) To recommend to the liquor authority the issuance or the refusal of the issuance of licenses to sell alcoholic beverages at retail. (Sec. 43, Par. 7088-7089 CCH.)"

Indiana also has a law which might very well be adopted as a model for California.

Limitation in Number of Licenses.

In Mr. Spoor's statement to the committee, hereinbefore referred to, he emphasized the desirability of reducing the number of licenses. Many others also took the same view. It is generally felt that there is no real necessity for so many such places and that a restriction in number would facilitate enforcement and promote the general welfare without any inconvenience to the consuming public. It has also been suggested that the number of licenses issued to one person or one corporation likewise be limited. Some go so far as to suggest that the sale of alcoholic beverages should be conducted in an establishment maintained for that purpose alone, thereby eliminating drugstores, grocery stores and similar places.

One of the suggestions concerning limitation was that licenses be issued upon a population basis. It was, therefore, desirable to know not only the number of licenses now issued but also the ratio they bear to population.

Mr. George Stout, the present Liquor Administrator under the Board of Equalization, furnishes the following information:

"RATIO OF 'ON-SALE' LIQUOR LICENSES IN CALIFORNIA TO POPULATION.

NOTE: An "on-sale" license authorizes the sale of the alcoholic beverage specified in the license for consumption on the premises where sold, and to be eligible for an "on-sale" license, the premises must be a public eating place.*

An "on-sale" beer and an "on-sale" wine license also authorizes the exercise, with respect to the particular beverage or beverages mentioned in such license, of the rights and privileges granted by an "off-sale" beer and wine license. On trains and boats under such licenses, alcoholic beverages may be sold only to passengers or employees.

* Does not apply in the case of "beer only" licenses.

In connection with the matter of reducing the number of licenses, it was also suggested to the committee that there should be a limit in the number which could be held by any one individual or concern. This, of course, brings into the picture the chain organization and the number of licenses held by such organizations and the effect of the merchandising plan of such organizations.

According to the information furnished us by Mr. Stout, there are 249 multiple license holders, of which at least 145 are properly denominated chain organizations. Of these organizations the Safeway Stores top the list, holding 1142 retail licenses within the State of California. Owl Drug Company comes next with 200. Modern Food Company, 175; Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, 101; Sontag's, 92; United Cigar Stores, 82; Thrifty, 56; and the other being limited in their number of licenses only by the number of places where they operate. The total of such multiple retail licenses being 3238.

It has been represented to the committee that many of the chain organizations openly disregard the fair trade practice rules and that the largest organizations purchase liquor in large quantities, frequently in foreign lots from out-of-state distilleries and distribute it to the various retail establishments within the State. That by so doing they profit as a wholesaler as well as a retailer, which enables them to market at profit many of the popular brands of liquor below the market price. It is contended that by so doing they unfairly compete with the independent liquor dealers.

One of the suggestions made to the committee is that a chain organization should be restricted in the number of licenses which the organization could have in one community, leaving it to the organization to designate which of its stores should handle liquor, and that all such organizations be required to observe the fair trade practice rules.

Mr. Tondan of the Wholesale Liquor Distributors Association, said at the Sacramento meeting:

We believe that the institutionalization of contrary fair trade practice rules in the relation between producers, wholesalers and retailers, would be destructive in the interest of social control.

Other States have been confronted with similar situations and have not been not only by enforcing fair trade practice rules but also by limiting chain organizations in the number of retail licenses which they may hold in any one community. The industry itself, with the assistance of some legislators, has usually to avoid with unfair competition, and we believe should do so. The United States Supreme Court in Old Dominion Dist. Co. vs. Southern Dist. Corp., 31 U. S. Adv. 115, passed the way to a very satisfactory solution of this problem, and the same result at the same time sustained the California Fair Trade Act in Pine Bluff vs. Pines Valley Co., 31 U. S. Adv. 138. Perhaps our Fair Trade Practice Act might be amended so as to take advantage of all the suggestions contained in the decision just above referred to.

Some of the States where limitations of licenses held by chain organizations have been imposed are New York, Texas and Indiana. Perhaps other States also have limitations, but these three have become famous in the question of this limitation. In Texas a chain organization may hold seven retail licenses. In Indiana, nine, and in New York, one.

What we have said concerning chain organizations is not to be construed as an indictment against such organizations as such, nor is it an indictment, and the committee, or any member thereof, is making no such accusation. Our remarks are directed solely to the question of public health, chain organizations dealing and selling intoxicating liquor and the effect the method pursued by such organizations has upon the use and sale of liquor within this State.

Many persons have suggested a limited number of licenses and have previously advocated that the liquor business should be conducted on public accounts and convenience and as an important part of the city, town or county in the metropolitan areas. Some exception, however, should be made in the sparsely settled districts. This entire matter requires further consideration by the committee before making a final recommendation.

Advertising and Indiscriminate Display of Liquor with Food Products

Considerable objection was voiced to the display of advertisements of the various brands of liquor, the contention being that the presence of such advertising tends to mislead the youth as to the dangers which would follow the use of intoxicating liquor. It is a conceded fact that a intoxicating liquor is to be sold as a beverage if then becomes necessary to properly inform the public that the use of such liquor is detrimental both to the mind and body of the growing child and that the use must by an adult must be with moderation.

When considering this suggestion, we found the business very important and many of the objectionable advertisements that have appeared have immediately withdrawn. Further restrictions in advertising are being and will be offered by the distillers themselves. If not, then this subject will require legislation.

Probably the most persuasive argument against the placing of alcoholic beverages in food stores along with food and food products is that such a practice tempts the youth as to the lurking dangers in the use of intoxicating liquor as a beverage. The places most frequently referred to as dangerous with this criticism are the chain organizations frequented by women and children, which conducting household marketing and presents an additional and serious the most powerful argument in favor of limiting the number of licenses which should be issued to such organizations.

The argument is very persuasive that the liquor business should be conducted independently and that persons engaged in general business, other than restaurants and hotels, should not be permitted to handle or sell intoxicating liquor at retail.

Perhaps the most effective indictment against the indiscriminate mixing of the liquor business with general merchandising of food and other similar products was made by Mr. George Young Hammond, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, to the committee at Sacramento, at which time he said:

"If we can do something to decrease the consumption of liquor, crimes and tragedies will decrease proportionately. Now the question is as to what can be done under the present set-up in California as long as the policy of having liquor sold under the law is permitted. I believe there is something very definitely that can be done by the Board of Equalization. I get it that what this committee wants to do is make recommendations that will eliminate some objectionable features. To me the most objectionable feature in the present set-up is the widespread advertising and display of intoxicating liquors. When I came to Los Angeles, I went to a store to get a bottle of milk. There was whiskey along with the milk on the counter. * * * To me, the display of liquor has a greater effect upon the minds of getting people to drink than advertising. * * * This committee could do nothing better than to recommend legislation that would prohibit the advertising and display of intoxicating liquor. There is no other purpose of advertising than to increase the consumption of the thing advertised. As you increase the consumption of liquor you get more money but you get these other things along with it, deaths on the highway, etc. There is no net profit in regard to liquor when you subtract these other things. * * * The State of California should not permit a program that is counteracting what is taught in the schools against the use of alcohol. California has one of the best laws in the country providing for the teaching of scientific truths about alcohol to children in the schools; and outside of the schools you have one of the biggest programs for advertising liquor on billboards, in magazines and newspapers, liquor displays in store windows, and even alongside of milk in food stores. * * * I think that my two boys are in far greater danger today than in the saloon days. My father could warn me against going to a saloon but now where can my boys go and not find it, even where they buy candy. They got people to vote for repeal on the grounds that the saloon could not come back; thinking the saloon is the root of the evil. We say liquor should be sold in saloons where it can be watched. But we don't advocate sale of liquor anywhere. We would not have any part in selling liquor in any way; but would rather have it sold in saloons than in drug stores and milk counters as we have it today."

The committee feels constrained to acquiesce in the contention that many persons now licensed are wholly unfitted to carry on the liquor business and that these persons, because of their disregard for all rules and regulations, have brought more or less discredit upon all engaged in the retail business. A satisfactory plan to eliminate these unscrupulous persons from further participating in the liquor business is absolutely necessary. Strict regulations and strict enforcement is but one of the means by which this can be accomplished. Perhaps a more effective means would be to make the procuring of a license far more difficult and the revocation more certain to follow violation, so that when once acquired a license would have a real and substantial value. The owner would then not wish to jeopardize his license by infractions of the law.

Importation to Avoid Tax.

A practice has been developed in the matter of importation of liquor for use by Federal officers and employees on Government Reserves, such as March Field, Mare Island and other similar places, which would seem to be a fraud upon the State. This liquor is not imported for the use of the Federal Government but for the individual. The practice now followed is for the negotiations for the sale to be made in this State but the actual shipment to be made from some other State, frequently from Phoenix, Arizona. Occasionally, liquor is shipped from California to Phoenix and then from Phoenix back to its destination in California, to avoid the tax. Originally, it was believed that all inter-State shipments were protected by the inter-State commerce clause, but in the recent case of State Board of Equalization vs. Young's Market, the United States Supreme Court held otherwise, and pointed out that the repeal provision of the Federal Constitution prohibits the transportation or importation of intoxicating liquor into any State in "violation of the laws thereof." It therefore would seem that under this decision the State would have authority to impose a tax upon all such liquor, especially where it is not for the direct use of the Federal Government itself. There can be no justification for a Federal officer, whether in the Army, Navy or other branch of the government, evading the payment of the tax imposed by California upon liquor used within the State. Under this practice, a Federal employee, when on a Federal Reserve, escapes the payment of the tax by resorting to the subterfuge of having the liquor shipped to the Federal Reserve. Not only does the consuming individual escape his fair share of the tax so imposed, but it results in an unfair discrimination against such of our local wholesalers who refuse to resort to the practice. Under the present scheme the local wholesaler has his choice of paying the tax himself or losing the sale, or becoming a party to the fraud of shipping out of the State and belonging to the Federal Reserve. Not only is the practice to be condemned but it should be made impossible. The present practice should be imposed upon any one who is asked to give us his contribution to either Federal or industrial bonds. The provisions of the Federal Council Act of 1914 should be made the subject of any law enacted here for the Federal Reserve Bank of the State.

Complications Resulting from Changing Social Status.

In preparation for the future use of land from our very largely overrated or more Western and Eastern State public lands, we should have a more efficient state controlled land grant system. During that time there should be a more efficient state controlled and managed land grant system, and a more efficient state controlled and managed land grant system, and a more efficient state controlled and managed land grant system.

Without suggesting to the State that the change of a State's fact that during the past the State has been a very important part of the State and that the State has been a very important part of the State and that the State has been a very important part of the State.

While our Supreme Court has frequently ruled that the State has been a very important part of the State and that the State has been a very important part of the State and that the State has been a very important part of the State.

The present trend of thought seems to be that all men should be given equal rights, and that the State should be given equal rights. We should have a more efficient state controlled and managed land grant system, and a more efficient state controlled and managed land grant system, and a more efficient state controlled and managed land grant system.

The whole question has been brought up by the State and the State has been a very important part of the State and that the State has been a very important part of the State and that the State has been a very important part of the State.

General Conclusion.

From what has been said it is apparent that there are a number of very important questions of policy which must be considered before recommending the form of legislation as to the proposed betterment referred to.

Before passing the general conclusion, we have to call attention to the fact that the many important matters now pending upon the State Board of Education would seem to require the active participation of a large number of the members. Under the present Constitution the Board of Education is made up of four elected members and one or more members. If the Constitution of the State is to be changed, it is necessary to consider the question of the State Board of Education.

Under the present system the members of the State Board of Education are one-half the voting population and one-half the members of the State Board of Education. It has but one elected member in the north. This number should be changed and an additional elected member given to the southern part of the State. We say this without any disrespect to the present State Controller, for he has rendered as efficient service as his other duties permit.

Additional Suggested Amendments.

At the last legislative session, Senate Bill No. 919, introduced by Senator Pierovich, was adopted as the measure regulating the sale and handling of intoxicating liquor within this State. While this measure was carefully drawn and contains many helpful regulations, there are some particulars wherein it could be amended which would be helpful in enforcement and in aid of the general welfare of society and of the State. The following are some suggested amendments which we submit for your consideration:

(a) A provision should be incorporated prohibiting the sale by any licensee of any preparation, except liquors, containing more than 60 per cent of alcohol by volume. Alcohol as such has no legitimate use as a beverage and if alcohol is to be purchased it should be purchased at a drug store upon prescription, yet many unscrupulous persons sell alcohol knowing it is to be used for beverage purposes.

(b) In the interest of promoting fair trade practices, retail licensees should be prohibited from giving premiums or free goods in connection with the sale of alcoholic beverages. Not infrequently, some organizations within the State selling well advertised and well-known national brands of alcoholic beverages, as an inducement give a premium, such as a lemon squeezer, a quantity of limes or other merchandise. At first blush this provision perhaps does not seem to be important, but in view of the fact that the United States Supreme Court has recently upheld the Fair Trade Practice Act in California, it would seem desirable to prevent its violation both directly and indirectly.

(c) No manufacturer, rectifier, distiller, importer or wholesaler, licensed under the California Act, should be permitted to have or to be interested in more than one off-sale license or conduct more than one off-sale business for the selling of alcoholic beverages at retail, nor be permitted to be a director or stockholder in any corporation holding such license, nor be permitted to hold any mortgage or lien upon any personal or real property used in the conducting of a retail business. The purpose of this provision is to prevent a retailer from procuring a wholesale license when he is not really engaged in the wholesale business, but only secures the wholesale license for the purpose of enabling him to purchase from the distiller or rectifier liquor at wholesale for the use in his retail establishments. In connection with this subject one of the retailers made the following observation:

"We have very fine high-class places that have both a retail and wholesale department and it is a very legitimate business; but there has been and is a lot of abuse particularly by the chain outlets in the holding of both wholesale and retail licenses. We do not want to restrict anybody that is legitimately operating. On the other hand, take for instance firms like Thrifty and Sontag. They obtain a wholesale license which enables them to go direct to the manufacturer and distiller and get merchandise at prices comparable to those paid by the wholesaler and yet they have none of the expense or overhead of the wholesaler; the only expense they have is for the distribution of their merchandise to their retail stores, which is very small in comparison to what the wholesaler's overhead is. In other words, they are enabled to take double profit on all their liquor sales and the chains have been hard to control on the retail price for that reason. They are in great competition with your independent liquor store, grocery store and drug store and also that ties in with what we will discuss with reference to limitation of licenses. It is difficult to compel them to maintain retail prices as they can afford by virtue of their wholesale buying to undersell the larger types of retailer and consequently obtain a far larger volume than they are entitled to. In other words, chains like Thrifty Drug and Sontag should be compelled by law to make a choice between the wholesale and retail business."

(d) Re-define and re-classify manufacturers so as to prohibit the distiller from selling direct to the retail licensee, and add an amendment that an importer's license can be held only by wholesaler, rectifier or manufacturer. The purpose of this is to correct another abuse and prevent the distiller from selling direct to the retailer. It is said that some distillers come into the market and sell to the wholesalers and then compete with the wholesalers by selling in large quantities to the retailer at a price comparable to that charged the wholesaler;

(e) License all brokers engaged in the alcoholic beverage business at a rate comparable to that paid by the wholesaler. The present practice is for the broker to sell warehouse receipts. They are not engaged strictly in the sale of alcoholic liquor but indirectly they are and they compete in this manner with the wholesaler. Such a license would put them on the same basis as wholesalers.

(f) Provide for uniform opening and closing of all retail places and businesses. The provision now for closing at two o'clock a.m. is not in the Liquor Control Bill. Hours for opening and closing should be directly provided for in the bill itself.

(g) The provision relating to delivery of alcoholic beverage during closing hours should be changed. Wholesalers should be prohibited from making any deliveries to the retailer on Saturday or on certain days or during closed periods.

(h) In keeping with our suggestion that a license be made a thing of value so as to be a deterrent against violation of the license, we believe that the provision for automatic expiration of license in the present act should perhaps be changed so that in some cases when cause should remain until revoked. In connection with this there should also be a provision for the transfer of the license from one person to another with the consent of the Board of Equalization. There are a number of ways now relative to transfer of business. In some instances there may be abuse in a provision to creditors. The present act should be so amended that these provisions of the general law can be brought within the license and not be stricken without the necessity of closing the place of business during the transfer.

(i) The license fee should be increased. There is no real reason for requiring a person on a contract social community dance give a small business, to pay the same amount for an one night or a smaller business in the center of a metropolitan area. Perhaps a minimum fee could be established, plus a certain percentage on the gross sales. This would remedy one of the objections now made against large hotels receiving a number of licenses in their premises all under one license.

(j) Bond should be required from all persons engaged in the business, both retail or wholesale, not only to insure adherence to law but also as a guarantee for the payment of all tax.

(k) A stiff penalty should be assessed for any person or person selling alcoholic beverage upon which the State and Federal tax has not been paid. In this connection it would be well to incorporate a comprehensive provision in the present act, to make all persons who attempt to evade the payment of any tax or who attempt to make use of the services of the act, guilty of a conspiracy. This would have a more wholesome effect upon persons not directly engaged in the business, and would cause a more wholesome respect for the law.

(l) Provide for confiscation by the State officers of all liquor found in the possession of a business person which he has been fined. Also authorize the confiscation of automobiles and other property used in connection with producing, manufacturing or delivering of alcoholic beverages in which no tax has been paid. At the present time it is necessary for the State officials to call in Federal officers in order to confiscate property belonging to them. If we could broaden the powers of the act, the State officials could take action directly without waiting for the Federal officers to arrive. In connection with this the State officials must be given the same powers which the Federal officers now have for confiscation of illicit liquors and for the disposal of the same.

(m) Directly authorize the local police the right of enforcing all police regulations such as the possession of liquor in one's home for use for the general welfare.

(n) The license issued upon Federal registration and bond fee of $5, serving only the members of social groups should be made non-transferable for such organizations are not engaged in the business of selling intoxicating liquors in the strict sense of the word but merely wish to have safety for the use of their members and their premises.

Summary.

When considering the public welfare in connection with the use of intoxicating liquors we are faced by the problem that the use and sale of such liquor for beverage purposes must be permitted and confined to those places and conditions which will afford the greatest protection against the abuse of the privilege inconsistent with the individual's rights as guaranteed by the constitution. Not only must the individual be restricted to a minimum but he must be made aware that he shall not indulge to such an extent that he becomes a menace to society. Experience extending back over many years, both before and since prohibition, shows that a proper regulation of the problem will come when and conditions under which sales may be made, is the basic element and that the more strict such regulations are the better it will be for all concerned. But strict regulation with strict enforcement will avoid nothing and great achievement can not be had without the cooperation of the public itself. Social regulations, with willing and efficient enforcement officers, together with public cooperation, will do more than anything else to continue the use of liquor as a beverage with the least detrimental effect. Wise and thoughtful lawmakers realizing this to be so are anxious that the use of intoxicating liquor be brought under complete control by licensing regulations and strict enforcement.

While we have arrived at certain general conclusions and made a number of specific recommendations, we have not attempted to place these in the form necessary for adoption. We are, however, having the Legislative Counsel Bureau prepare measures covering the suggestions made in this report which will be introduced, not with the idea that they will be adopted in the form originally presented, but as a basis for discussion and further consideration, not only by the members of the Legislature, but by the public generally.

From the foregoing report it can be seen that the work assigned us has not been fully completed. This, however, was through no fault of our own. The delay in our work was inevitable under the circumstances.

In view of the investigations thus far conducted, we believe it would be helpful to the Senate and beneficial to the State if this committee were permitted to continue until after the constitutional recess, and that it be permitted to hold further meetings and hearings at various times and places until it shall have completed the matters heretofore assigned it. We will at a proper time submit a resolution so continuing the committee.

Respectfully,

NELSON T. EDWARDS,
A. L. PIEROVICH,
HAROLD J. POWERS,
RALPH E. SWING, Chairman,
Senate Committee on Intoxicating Liquor.

Sacramento, California, January 7, 1937.

While I agree in the main with the statements and recommendations contained in the report of the committee, in view of the fact that the problem is such a broad one, I desire to file a separate statement setting forth my own views in the matter. I am sure that every member of the committee has made a study of the problem and that the views of the individual members of the committee on certain phases of the problem should be of value. I am therefore filing a separate report.

Communications.

The following opinions of the Attorney General were received and ordered printed in the Journal:

By Senator Swing:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, LEGAL DEPARTMENT,
SAN FRANCISCO, January 7, 1937.

*Honorable Ralph E. Swing,
Chairman, Senate Legislative Committee on Intoxicating Liquor,
State Capitol,
Sacramento, California.*

DEAR SIR: Your communication of December 29, 1936, requests opinions from this office upon several questions, which will be stated and answered in order.

Q. Has the Legislature the authority to fix the license fee to be paid by on- and off-sale licensees engaged in the sale of intoxicating liquor?

A. As to on-sale licenses for liquor other than beer and wine the Legislature has no authority to fix the fees therefor since the Constitution (Art. XX, Sec. 22) gives this authority to the State Board of Equalization. Upon this subject an opinion (No. 9888) was heretofore rendered and a copy of it is herewith enclosed.

As to off-sale licenses and on-sale beer and wine licenses the Legislature has the authority to fix this fee under its general authority to regulate the subject of intoxicating liquors (33 C. J. 512, Par. 41; id. 568, Par. 169).

Q. Can the license fee be graduated, with a fixed amount plus a percentage on the gross sales?

A. I see no legal objection in fixing the amount of license fee in this way since the manner of computing the fee is a matter of policy for the Legislature to determine (37 C. J. 188, Par. 39).

Q. Can the Legislature require a bond from all licensees before the granting of a permit to engage in the liquor business?

A. In my opinion the Legislature can impose this prerequisite (33 C. J. 557, Par. 155). Indeed, in many States bonds are required of all licensees. In California, at the present time, only beer and wine manufacturers and importers are required to give bonds, and those bonds are for the purpose of assuring the payment of the excise taxes imposed.

Q. Can the Legislature require all applications for licenses to be approved by the mayors and councils of cities, where the application is within a city, and by boards of supervisors where the application is for outside of cities within the Board of Equalization powers on the application?

A. In section 22 of Article XX of the State Constitution it is provided that:

"The State Board of Equalization shall have the exclusive power to request the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors in this State, § 22, and shall have the power in its discretion, in case of license was issued before license of it shall determine the good cause that the granting of continuation of such license would be contrary to public interests of society.

Under this constitutional provision the State Board of Equalization is granted exclusive authority to issue licenses. In case of license issued the authority to prevent license applicants from having their applications considered at all by the board would necessarily limit and interfere with the State's authority, authority in that respect and therefore should be removed by the constitutional provision and yield. Under the present Alcoholic Beverage Control Act the board, before granting an application for a license, must notify the local sheriff, chief of police and district attorney and the city clerk and the city planning commission, upon request, this notice being for the purpose of notifying and advising the authorities so as to give them an opportunity to protest. The city person had no authority would be added the public health commission. The commission has such preliminary notice would probably be added to the notice but any further procedure with the board's exclusive authority to issue license would not be.

Q. Can the Legislature delegate to any committee or body of members the power to close, not amend or revise the license all being issued and give information or where it becomes a license or a contract or a permanent license?

A. In my opinion this may not be done because the constitutional provision (Art. XX, Sec. 22) gives to the State the exclusive authority to regulate the trade in intoxicating liquors and to authorize the board of equalization for the State Legislature and not the delegation to that legislative authority to issue legislative bodies. In this connection I will now attempt to explain the effect of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act which at the present time provides for the licensing of license holders of alcoholic of such and such and such as to require the State to a minimum to permit the license of license to be granted.

Q. Can the mayor and council by ordinance limit the number of license places which will be within their city or the town and the town within the city?

A. The answer to this question would be in the negative. Under the constitutional amendment (Art. XX, Sec. 22) and ordinance, and primary may be subject to the public in intoxicating liquors (C. C. License, C. C. Act of the Assembly, S. C. A. [22] and Ordinance, S. C. A. [22]).

7

Q. In respect of the answer to the question that committee shall not kindly give an opinion as to the extent to which they can regulate and control activities, very closely, and license in important, given some are having and some of license and some are the regulation of the sale of intoxicating liquors?

A. Because of the provision of the Constitution (Art. XX, Sec. 22) we will power can be granted. A discussion of this matter is included in Ordinance, S. C. A. [22] of which is enclosed.

8

Q. Can the State either directly or indirectly tax liquor which is imported to this State for use in any government agency where the use is for the officers and employees and not by the Federal Government?

A. Answering this question, the answer is that it is not proper to say that the State may impose the tax. Under the present act where liquor is imported from without the State directly to a business which is exempt from paying the Federal Government tax, excepting, depending on the act, the Federal Government is to sale made on territory where the State has jurisdiction and have made alcoholic beverages are produced at present have under (A. B. C. Act, Sec. 22 and 24, Ordinance 10015). However, the State has exclusive jurisdiction over intoxicating liquors which are for sale or use within the State, where such liquor cross the State boundary line (U. S. Constitution, 21st Amendment, Young v. Market Co. vs. State Board of Equalization, 289 U. S. 1, 54 S. Ct. 263, 76 L. Ed. 1001). Whether delivery for use to a person located in territory over which the Federal Government has exclusive jurisdiction constitutes a violation of the "within the State" is an undecided question. If it is ultimately held that a Federal Reservation constitutes territory within a State within the meaning of the Twenty-first Amendment then the State could impose the tax; otherwise, not.

9.

Q. Can the Legislature, under the present Constitution, prevent women and/or children from entering places where intoxicating liquor is sold to be consumed on the premises?

A. In my opinion the Legislature can so provide both as to minors (33 C. J. p. 514, Par. 46) and as to females (33 C. J. p. 515, Par. 53). (See also 33 C. J. p. 590, Par. 204).

10.

Q. Can the Legislature limit the number of licenses which should be issued to any one person or organization? For instance, some chain organizations have a great number of licenses. It may be desirable, if the Legislature has the power, to limit the number which any such organization may hold either within the State or in any one city or county.

A. While I know of no authority specifically approving such legislation it is my opinion that such legislation would be upheld since the regulation of the traffic in intoxicating liquors is peculiarly within the province of the Legislature. There is no right to engage in the liquor business; it is but a privilege which may be granted by the Legislature on such terms and conditions as it sees fit.

Very truly yours,

U. S. WEBB, Attorney General.
By SEIBERT L. SEFTON, Deputy.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 22, 1933.

State Board of Equalization, Sacramento, California.

GENTLEMEN: Those portions of your request under date of November 14, 1933, which deal with the power and right of political subdivisions of this State, such as counties and municipalities, to regulate, license, control or tax the subject of intoxicating liquors are herewith considered together for the purpose of having in one expression of opinion the various questions that might arise in regard thereto. The questions are:

1. May a county or a municipality exercise local option?
2. May a county or a municipality regulate, license or control intoxicating liquors?
3. May a county or a municipality pass zoning ordinances relating to the places where intoxicating liquors may be sold or manufactured?
4. May a county or a municipality tax intoxicating liquors?

1. Local Option.

Local option is commonly understood to mean the right of a locality to prohibit or control the subject of intoxicating liquors as it sees fit.

The people of the State, however, have given to the State, itself, the exclusive power to regulate and control intoxicating liquors. In section 22 of Article XX it is provided that:

"* * * the State of California * * * shall have the exclusive right and power to control, license and regulate the manufacture, sale, purchase, possession, transportation and disposition of intoxicating liquor within the State * * *"

Under this constitutional provision there can be no question as to the lack of power of a county or municipality to regulate or control intoxicating liquors as an original proposition in the exercise of local option.

With the further question whether or not the State Legislature, in the exercise of its exclusive right and power to control and regulate intoxicating liquors, could provide for a system of local option we are not now concerned, for the State Legislature to date has not attempted to do so. Chapter 658 of the Statutes of 1933, which was enacted in furtherance of section 22 of Article XX of the Constitution, is silent upon the question of local option.

2. Controlling, Licensing and Regulating.

The question as to the power of counties and municipalities to license, control or regulate intoxicating liquors within their territorial limits is answered by the express provisions of section 22 of Article XX of the Constitution which provides that:

"* * * the State of California * * * shall have the exclusive right and power to control, license and regulate the manufacture, sale, purchase, possession, transportation and disposition of intoxicating liquor within the State. * * *"

This Constitutional provision is all inclusive and permits the State alone to control, license and regulate intoxicating liquor.

3. Zoning Ordinances.

The enactment of a zoning ordinance by a county or a municipality is nothing more than an exercise of the general police power. The Constitution of this State has provided in section 11 of Article XI that "Any county, city, town or township may make any orders within its limits all such local, police, sanitary, and other regulations as are not in conflict with general laws."

However, the people of the State have provided in section 22 of Article XX of the State Constitution that the State shall have the exclusive right and power to control and regulate intoxicating liquors, and this is a general law in section 11 of Article XI is subject.

However the right of municipalities to adopt ordinances having effect upon or furtherance of the objects of municipal government is well established. An illustration, and business may be excluded from particular areas, or blocks, or districts. A business which is dangerous to the health, comfort and convenience of persons may be excluded from residential areas. There are law abiding and lawless, slaughter houses and abattoirs, and other businesses, and it is conceivable that in this group might be included business activities on highways. Retail stores of many character have frequently been excluded from particular described areas, and such a general law would include liquor retail liquor stores. Restaurants, cafeterias, dining rooms, and other places, where serving beverages which have been upland have been excluded from certain sections, and under the ban of such an ordinance public dining rooms where food and drink may be sold with meals would be included.

zoning and control of the character of business must have a general and uniform operation, and it is obvious that ordinances which particularly in places where liquors are manufactured or sold, would be violating in that particularity intended to sustain them.

4. Taxation.

Much that has been said in regard to the fact that there is no power in the fourth. However it is recognized that a municipality authorized by law to impose a tax upon business for the purpose of revenue. The liquor business would be included in an ordinance levying general business taxes. In this particular, however, a reasonable equality of business must be observed and no ordinance levying against the liquor business a special tax. Discrimination in this respect against other business, could not be upheld, and such an ordinance be declared that stepped out any phase of the liquor business and sought through a revenue tax to control, regulate or prohibit such business.

In considering this subject it must be remembered that by section 22 of Article XX of the Constitution of this State, which is an income deriving upon the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, and by Chapter 15, 1935 and this passed at the last session of the Legislature the first time of which are now in force and the last of which is to become effective upon the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, what was designed as a complete plan for the control, regulation and taxation of intoxicating liquors has been established. The plan being now full execution upon the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the business by now, therefore to let the business must fit all other general laws, this general plan. When this plan was become fully effective the business of liquor regulated and controlled as a lawful business and local governments may not desire that business of the community to be fully under the control of the Legislature of the State.

It is recognized that where the power to tax is surrendered, to the Legislature has said that such power is the power to destroy. And the conclusion that the business which will be exercised by the State will prevent a tax which would prohibit or destroy the business.

Very truly yours,

L. S. WEEB, Attorney General.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 9, 1937

State Board of Equalization, Sacramento, California.

GENTLEMEN: In your communication of June 28, 1936, you state that:

"Under instructions of his city council, Mr. D. C. Williams, City Clerk of Hanford, has asked us if the passing of an ordinance prohibiting the drinking of liquor in automobiles and in the streets within the city would be in conflict with State law. He expresses regret the municipal authorities are having difficulty with persons who persist in using the streets and sidewalks as well as motor vehicles for drinking lairs. In such a manner as to be a nuisance to public morals and decency. It further appears that if persons are asked to desist from such practices, violence is made to the city officers that the persons so drinking have the right to do so, and the State law and that it is no concern of the municipality."

While this board is anxious to comply with the request sought to be attained by such an ordinance, we are dubious as to the authority of the city council to enact the measure in view of the language of section 22 of Article XX of the Constitution, which apparently gives the State exclusive control of liquor regulation.

This often comes in the view of the board that the power of the State to control and regulate intoxicating liquors is exclusive under section 22, Article XX of the State Constitution which provides in part that:

"The State of California * * * shall have the exclusive right and power to control, license and regulate the manufacture, sale, purchase, possession, transportation and disposition of intoxicating liquor within the State * * *"

In your communication you comment upon the apparent omission of anything in the State Liquor Control Act authorizing the board to make rules having specific application to the practices described by the city clerk.

Section 7 of the act provides that:

"The board shall make rules and regulations pursuant to the provisions of this act."

I am unaware of any other provision of the act which would give to the board the power to make rules and regulations governing the practices above described and in the absence of any such further provision, it follows that the board has no power to make rules and regulations in regard thereto.

Very truly yours,

U. S. WEBB, Attorney General.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, LEGAL DEPARTMENT.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12, 1935.

State Board of Equalization, Sacramento, California.

GENTLEMEN: In your communication of April 10, 1935, you state that a bill has been introduced in the Legislature providing for the graduation of fees for "on-sale" hard liquor licenses according to the amount of gross receipts derived from the sale of liquor under such licenses. You question the power of the Legislature to change the fees for on-sale hard liquor licenses in view of Article XX, section 22 of the Constitution, and ask to be advised whether the Legislature has the power to change or fix the fee which is provided for in the above constitutional provision and, if so, whether the Legislature has the power to graduate the fees in the manner above indicated.

A similar question was before this office in November of 1934 and on November 28, 1934, this office stated that in view of the constitutional provision the Legislature would have no power whatsoever to change the fee provided for in the constitutional amendment.

Article XX, section 22 of the State Constitution as amended in 1934, provides in part that:

"Until the Legislature shall otherwise provide, the privilege of keeping, buying, selling, serving, and otherwise disposing of intoxicating liquors in bona fide hotels, restaurants, cafes, cafeterias, railroad dining or club cars, passenger ships, and other public eating places, and in bona fide clubs after such clubs have been lawfully operated for not less than one year, and the privilege of keeping, buying, selling, serving, and otherwise disposing of beers on any premises open to the general public shall be licensed and regulated under the applicable provisions of the so-called State Liquor Control Act, California Statutes 1933, Chapter 658, in so far as the same are not inconsistent with the provisions hereof, and excepting that the license fee to be charged bona fide hotels, restaurants, cafes, cafeterias, railroad dining or club cars, passenger ships, and other public eating places, and any bona fide clubs after such clubs have been lawfully operated for not less than one year, for the privilege of keeping, buying, selling, or otherwise disposing of intoxicating liquors other than beers and wines, shall be $250 per year, or $62.50 per quarter annum for seasonal businesses, subject to the power of the State Board of Equalization to change such fees."

If it be contended that the license fee of $250, and the power of the State Board of Equalization to change such fee are merely temporary "until the Legislature shall otherwise provide," an analytical examination of the amendment discloses that these provisions are not temporary, but permanent in nature.

It should be noted that the ballot title to the constitutional amendment stated that the amendment:

"* * * permits possession, sale, consumption or disposition of all liquors in bona fide hotels, restaurants, public eating places, and in bona fide clubs after one year's lawful operation; fixes license fees therefor, giving Board of Equalization exclusive power to change same,* * *" (italics ours)

It will be observed that such title conveys the thought that the license fee for hotels, etc., is fixed by the constitutional amendment with the exclusive power in the State Board of Equalization to change such fee. The thought that the Legislature or any body other than the State Board of Equalization has the power to change such fees is expressly negated.

It should also be observed that the argument which was submitted to the voters at the general election on November 6, 1934, in behalf of the passage of the above constitutional amendment contained much matter addressed to the proposition that the amendment would permit the sale of all liquors by the drink in hotels, etc., and with or without meals. In this connection the following pertinent language is used:

"The elective State Board of Equalization is given power to fix fees * * *."

This argument to the voters also indicates that the power given to the State Board of Equalization to change the $250 fee for hotels, etc., was not to be temporary in nature, but permanent. This negates the thought that the Legislature, or any other body, should fix the fee.

While the views indicated in such ballot title and in such argument could not of course alter the true construction to be placed upon the language of the amendment if it had unequivocally declared to the contrary, yet they at least indicate that such amendment was so interpreted by those who framed such title and argument. It was such interpretation that was presented to the people, and it was in the light thereof that the people accepted such amendment. These circumstances are therefore entitled to some weight—certainly if there be any ambiguity as to the true intent of the amendment.

Again it will be noted that the provision fixing the fee and giving to the State Board of Equalization the power to change the fee is an amendment to the provisions immediately preceding it. The language, "and excepting that," etc., is used so that it is as though it had said, "provided that," etc.

In this connection the decision of the Supreme Court of this State in the case of Sandelin vs. Calmes, 1 Cal. 121, 147, is of natural occurrence. In that case the Supreme Court considered the effect of certain provision in Article XX, section 22, as originally adopted. As to those provisions the court said at page 145:

"The purposes are included in the constitutional amendment. The effect of each is to place limitations on the power themselves in the action found in the law-making department of the State."

And so here, the provision in all parts of the amendment to my opinion places a limitation on the power themselves vested in the Legislature.

Nor can it be argued that the phrase "Until the Legislature shall otherwise provide" qualifies all that thereafter follows in that section, and that therefore the further phrase, "and excepting that," merely excepts that the provisions thereafter set forth presently, from such removal in line of the time provided in the State Liquor Control Act until the Legislature shall otherwise provide, and that the power vested in the State Board of Equalization is only that of changing such time so prescribed in the present law until the Legislature does so otherwise provide.

As to such argument it should be noted that the construction at this point in dealing with the matter of the House tax for selling fermented kind liquors, is to be drunk on the premises where sold, while liquor can now be sold and drunk off in the State Liquor Control Act for the obvious reason that until the constitutional provisions could not be logically said to be drunk on such premises where sold. Therefore, had the matter following the phrase "and excepting that," etc., not been placed in the amendment, there would have been no time for such action, so that the purpose of that phrase in question could not have been to actually remove the power of the State Liquor Control Act which would otherwise have been removed in favor until the Legislature otherwise provide. It would require provision that the purpose of such phrase was to limit or qualify when it could not would that it qualify, namely, the power of the Legislature to act in the matter of such time.

It is of course well settled that the power of a State Legislature is limited by restrictive provisions in the State Constitution.

15 Corpus Juris p. 805, Par. 287.

Western Accn. vs. R. R. Commissioners, 173 Cal. 802, 804.

For the foregoing reasons it is my opinion that the fee of $250 which is provided for in the amendment is a fixed fee, and that it is not to be changed until by the State Board of Equalization, which power of the board is permanent, and not merely temporary "Until the Legislature shall otherwise provide."

Since the fee is fixed and subject only to the power of the State Board of Equalization to change it, it follows that the Legislature has no power to alter without the fee set by the constitutional provision or any fee subsequently created by the board.

Very truly yours,

U. S. WHITE, Attorney General,
By SEYMOUR J. SUTHER, Counsel.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, LEGAL DEPARTMENT,
SAN FRANCISCO, September 8, 1936.

State Board of Equalization, State of California,
Sacramento, California.

Attention, Mr. Hugh J. Stincham, Assistant Tax Counsel.

GENTLEMEN: In your communication of August 15, 1936, you state that liquor is being shipped from out of the State for the use of military reservations and that no California excise tax is being paid thereon and you ask whether the State can collect any tax on such liquors so sold and delivered.

In my opinion the tax can not be collected from liquors which are sold without the State and delivered directly from a point without the State to a point on a military reservation within the State. There is nothing in the Alcoholic Beverage Control Act which permits the State to interfere with the transportation of liquors except where the liquors are to be delivered to a person located within this State (section 49) and this, of course, must be construed to mean located on territory over which this State has jurisdiction. The jurisdiction over military reservations is exclusively in the Federal Government, and not in the State of California.

Very truly yours,

U. S. WEBB, Attorney General.

Report.

The following separate report by Senator Schottky was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

SEPARATE REPORT OF SENATOR ANDREW R. SCHOTTKY, MEMBER OF THE SENATE LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE ON INTOXICATING LIQUOR.

Pursuant to Senate Resolution Adopted June 10, 1935.

To the Senate of the State of California:

While I agree with many of the statements and recommendations contained in the report of the committee, yet in view of the fact that the problem is such a broad one, I desire to file a separate report setting forth my own views in the matter. I am sure that each individual member of the committee has to some extent made an independent study of the problem, and has listened carefully to the various persons who have appeared before the committee, and the views of the individual members on certain phases of the problem should be of value.

The problem of the regulation and control of the sale of intoxicating liquors is as old as the Nation itself. A careful student of history will learn that there have been fluctuating stages of public opinion with reference to the handling of the problem. Abuses by those engaged in the industry have at various times caused public sentiment in various States to pass prohibition laws, which laws were after a period of time repealed. As our Nation grew in population and our political problems increased, the participation of the saloons and the liquor interests in local and State politics, together with the other evils and abuses inherent in the business itself, caused public sentiment in favor of prohibition to increase in the United States, with the result that many States adopted State-wide prohibition. The movement for National prohibition then gained in strength until finally the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted in 1919, and went into effect in 1920. It is not necessary to go into greater detail as to the causes which resulted in the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment, except to state that those causes should not be lost sight of in considering the present problem. The persons engaged in the various phases of the liquor industry, by an honest and sincere effort to minimize the evils attendant upon the consumption of alcoholic liquors, could have prevented the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment, but their shortsightedness, greed, and arrogance created a state of indignation in the public mind, which brought on the Eighteenth Amendment. To quote from the interesting and informative book, "Toward Liquor Control", which was the result of a study made by the Rockefeller Foundation, published in October, 1933:

"It was only 20 years ago that the saloon, backed by the brewers and the distillers, had a throttle grip on local and State Governments alike, a grip which it maintained by systematic corruption. As late as 1915 the organized liquor traffic tried to blacklist 49 American firms, including railroads and manufacturing concerns, which in the interests of efficiency had forbidden their employees the use of intoxicants while on duty. It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that the liquor business, as organized before prohibition, stood for everything that decency was opposed to and fought everything that decency desired. That there were individuals here and there in both the retail and the wholesale business who were respectable and socially responsible citizens must, of course, be admitted. But their voices were unheard in the clamor of the trade for increased profits. The belief that National prohibition was "put over" by fanatical moralists is a common fallacy. In large measure the Eighteenth Amendment was the final result of angry public reaction, accumulating over a long period of years, against a system that debauched personal character, corrupted public life and defied control.

The younger generation, perhaps, has no vivid recollection of this old regime, but the older generation remembers it: and the warning we would pass to those who must handle the responsibility in the future is based on memories of a Nation fighting for temperate standards against a lawless trade."

After the Eighteenth Amendment had been in effect for 12 years, both major political parties in their platforms of 1932 urged its repeal, but in the same sentence declared that the saloon must never return. President Roosevelt, then the nominee of the Democratic party, reiterated the same statement in his acceptance speech at the Chicago convention. The Eighteenth Amendment has been referred to as a "noble experiment," and it is generally declared that the Eighteenth Amendment was a failure. In the sense that conditions were almost factory under the Eighteenth Amendment, the statement that it was a failure is undoubtedly true, but it must also be considered that no honest, sincere effort was ever made to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment, which was due to the fact that there was not sufficient sentiment in its favor to bring about its proper enforcement. Mark Twain once was asked the question: "Is capitalism a success?" And his reply was, "I do not know, it has never been tried." Similarly, it could be answered that the Eighteenth Amendment could hardly be considered a failure, because it had never been really tried.

During the agitation for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, the cry of those seeking to legalize the liquor industry was to permit the consumption of light wines and beers, but to forever and completely outlaw and prohibit the so-called saloon. To those who are old enough to remember back to the prohibition days, the saloon has a rather definite meaning. It was a place, the principal part of which, outside of the liquor itself, was the customer's bar with the high top and the cuspidor, and is not to be confused with the modern, comfortable smoking lounges, to which the younger generation has become accustomed. The old saloon was, to quote the words of Senator Augustus of Arizona, "A place for 'hard-core' drinking." In California in the election of 1912, when the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment appeared imminent, there was passed what the United States Institute of Constitutional Amendment which was introduced and introduced by those representing the liquor interests. In the title of this constitutional amendment, it was stated that it "prohibits public saloons, bars or smoking rooms where alcoholic liquors are kept, sold or consumed; persons smoking pipes and beer with certain exceptions in good faith to purposes of business, including business institutions and public eating places." In the official argument appearing in the various pamphlets, and written by Judge Matt I. Sullivan, it was stated that the adoption of the constitutional amendment would result, among other things, in the "permanent treatment of the public saloon, and suppression of its activities, the latter subject being equally easy." The constitutional amendment was adopted by the people of California, and upon the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment less than a year following, it went into effect. It is unnecessary to recount the details of California that the constitutional amendment referred to was not identical in California. It limited the sale of spirituous liquors to licensed purveyors, yet the sale of spirituous liquors by the drink was permitted by the famous cocktail ruling of the California State Board of Equalization in ruling which virtually nullified the original, complete provision limiting the sale of spirits to licensed purveyors. This was done by the board through it ruling that cocktails, which they suggested as wine should be sold and served for consumption in bona fide bars during meals and entertainments. As a result of this ruling cocktails were served freely and freely as though they were nonspirituous. It is perhaps true that the ruling of the State Board of Equalization upon this point were in accord with the desires of a majority of the people of California, but it is also true that the ruling was not in accordance with the constitutional provision.

In the election of 1914, reaffirming the prohibition nature of the constitutional amendment adopted in 1912, the liquor interests placed upon the ballot by initiative, another constitutional amendment, which was designed to permit, permit, sale, consumption or possession of all liquors in bona fide homes, restaurants, public eating places and in bona fide clubs. This constitutional amendment was adopted by the people, and with the recognition of the necessity of liquor being to be served with meals, the purpose of the amendment was completely nullified. It is true that the amendment purported to prohibit the consumption of intoxicating liquors in public saloons or bars, but it did not prohibit the consumption and sale of intoxicating liquors in saloon rooms without meals, the only requirement being that the place selling the intoxicating liquor be required to serve meals if they were required by the patron, a provision which public experience has demonstrated amounts to little.

As is stated in the main report of the committee, the problem of enforcement and administration of the liquor laws in California was placed in the hands of the State Board of Equalization. This great responsibility was suddenly placed upon the board, and it is only fair to the board to say that they were not prepared to handle a problem of such magnitude. Under the law, they accepted the statement that the administration of the liquor laws in California by the State Board of Equalization was justly subject to much criticism, and that there was a considerable sentiment all over California in favor of placing the administration of the liquor laws in other hands. At the various hearings held by the committee in Sacramento, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and elsewhere, the general consensus of opinion seemed to be that the problem was too great for the Board of Equalization to handle in addition to its other manifold duties, and that there should be set up in California a State Liquor Authority. Indeed, the Board of Equalization itself proposed to the committee at a hearing in San Francisco the setting up of such a liquor control board which would take the administration of the liquor laws out of the hands of the State Board of Equalization. Neither the various interests involved, or the committee itself, were able to agree upon the details of a measure to be submitted to the people, and as a result two initiative constitutional amendments were placed on the November ballot of 1936, one seeking to set up a State Liquor Authority and to take the administration of the liquor laws out of the hands of the State Board of Equalization, and the other providing for a form of local option. Both were defeated by the people by decisive margins, leaving in effect a constitutional amendment adopted in 1934 and the statute carrying out same. I do not believe that the defeat of the measure setting up a State Liquor Control Board was defeated because of the fact that it set up a separate board, but my opinion is that it was defeated because of other defects in the measure, which it is not necessary to here enumerate.

It is always easier to call attention to faults or defects in any system than it is to suggest a remedy or solution. In fact, as I pointed out in the beginning of this report, the problem of the regulation and control of the sale of intoxicating liquors is as old as the Nation itself. Many systems and methods of regulations have been tried, but none have ever worked to the satisfaction of the people generally. The conclusion, therefore, is irresistible that it is impossible to work out any system of control or regulation that can eliminate entirely the evils that are necessarily connected with the consumption and sale of so dangerous and destructive a substance as intoxicating liquor. In view of what has been attempted in the past, we can only continue our efforts to work out some system that will minimize the evils of intoxicating liquors.

At the present time experiments are being carried on in the 48 States of the United States. No two States are dealing with the problem in an identical manner. A few States are still nominally bone dry. A number have adopted the so-called State monopoly system. Another group, more numerous than the others, has adopted the so-called license system. Still another group has adopted a combination of the so-called State monopoly system and State license system. It is not my purpose to go into any detail as to these various systems, because anyone interested in the subject will be familiar with them or can easily get information concerning them. I have endeavored to study the problem in its various aspects and to familiarize myself, so far as possible, with the workings of the various systems of regulation. I have also listened carefully to the representatives of the various groups and organizations that have appeared before our committee at its various meetings. I have arrived at certain conclusions that I wish to express for what they may be worth. I realize, however, that very few people will agree as to what is the best system of regulation or control. I omit any opinion or discussion as to the merits of State-wide prohibition because it is quite apparent to me that the temper of the people generally at the present time would make any prohibition law useless because it would not and could not be enforced. A prohibition law can only be effective or of value when an overwhelming percentage of the population is in favor of it and when an overwhelming percentage of the population does not desire to drink intoxicating liquors. I believe that the truth of these statements is amply borne out by our experience during a 13-year so-called trial of National prohibition.

I have reached the conclusions hereinafter set forth:

THAT THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE LIQUOR LAWS OF CALIFORNIA SHOULD BE TAKEN OUT OF THE HANDS OF THE STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION AND PLACED IN THE CONTROL OF A SEPARATE BOARD OR COMMISSION COMPOSED OF THREE MEMBERS APPOINTED BY THE GOVERNOR FOR TERMS OF NOT LESS THAN SIX YEARS, SAID TERMS TO BE STAGGERED SO THAT ONE WILL BE APPOINTED EVERY TWO YEARS, AND AT A SALARY THAT WILL ATTRACT MEN OF THE PROPER CALIBER TO ADMINISTER SUCH A LAW.

This board should be given ample powers so that it could really regulate the sale of intoxicating liquors in a proper manner. The advice of local authorities should be sought and should be considered, but in the final analysis, decisions as to number of licenses, issuance of licenses, and revocation of licenses should be left to the discretion of the State board or commission. I believe our experience in California demonstrates that the liquor business can not be handled and regulated best by a board such as our State Board of Equalization, which is an elective board, and which has so many other duties and responsibilities in addition to the administration of the liquor laws. In such a system as we have at present in California the participation of those financially interested in the liquor business in political campaigns is inevitable and would eventually exert as harmful an influence as it did in the days before prohibition.

II.

There Must Be a Great Reduction in the Number of Licenses Granted in the State of California.

The importance of the problem of limiting licenses to the proper number can not be emphasized too strongly. As is stated in that very well-considered and impartial study of the liquor control administration set forth in the book "After Repeal" just published.

"The problem of limiting licenses to the proper number has been touched on. Likewise the problem's importance for local employment. Indeed, no single matter is more important for all communities of minor municipalities can wield any liquor control system, however well conceived otherwise. At the present time, due to considerable part to the economic situation, and crowding in perhaps more waste than in any other method of legal sale. In many places there are far more liquor outlets than consumers could handle. The seriousness of such a situation is greatly apprehended when it is remembered that even without such overcrowding the normal tendency of any liquor business is to push its sales and increase its profits. The liquor business has a reputation for greediness and for a disposition to shirk the tax duties of the law whenever the latter hinder its profits. Indeed, it has been contended that the primary weakness of the license system is that it frustrates the private profit motive which permeates the entire liquor industry from manufacture to ultimate local sale. Frustration of that drive tends to decrease its efficiency, and the third cause for the reputation of the license system by a number of our States. If the profit motive in the dominant feature of private trade as such, it is easily seen that under such crowded conditions this license will be accomplished. First, government, who would not otherwise resort to illegal practices, will, when competing to secure a license, engage in whatever financial methods—whether legitimate or illegitimate—will insure a reasonable profit.

The obvious remedy for such undesirable conditions is reduction in the number of such outlets."

The evils mentioned in the above quotation are illustrated by a comparison of California with the States having fewer liquor licenses in proportion to its population than any other State in the American Union, as the following table will show:

	Ratio for each liquor license	Ratio for each house- hold	Ratio off- side liquor license
Arizona	495	1,081	197
Arkansas	None	1,749	406
California	11,511	25,167	8,178
Connecticut	917	1,172	543
Delaware	268	39	69
Massachusetts	1,168	1,224	1,001
Massachusetts	1,171	1,088	1,525
Nebraska	24	1,226	643
New Jersey	19,888	—	1,732
New Mexico	696	—	1,401
New York	11,290	10,776	1,827
Rhode Island	1,464	—	696

Comparing the State of California with the State of New York, a State which has considerably more than double the population of California, it will be observed that California has 11,511 on-sale liquor licenses while New York has only 11,290. It will be observed further that California has 25,167 total on-sale liquor licenses while New York has only 10,776. It will be observed and further that California has 8,178 off-side liquor licenses while New York has only 1,827. These figures certainly demonstrate that there are too many places licensed in California for the sale of liquor and that the license system can not be given fair trial under such conditions. It is therefore of paramount importance that there be a very great reduction in the number of liquor licenses granted in California and that there be a strong, independent State board with ample powers to limit the number.

III

If After Two Years Further Trial of the License System In California, Conditions Do Not Improve, Then We Should Seriously Consider Putting the State-Monopoly System Into Effect.

In that very interesting book entitled "Toward Liquor Control", published in October, 1933, the authors recommend State control of the sale of stronger alcoholic beverages. They state:

"We firmly believe that any system of control which does not attack the private profit motive in the retail sale of spirits is merely touching the problem at its fringe. Unless we eliminate the incentive behind the speculation of sale, we have not dug to the root of the difficulty, and the weeds of abuse will thrive no matter how we look at the tops.

"It is possible to set up a system of control in which administrative integrity and integrity are not interfered by the bargaining with unscrupulous dealers. It is precisely this reasoning that leads us to prefer the State authority system. Instead of being pitted at the start against a business that is looking for maximum profits at any cost, the administrators of such a system could develop their policies protected from the hazard of an immediate and insidious warfare. Plenty of enemies would remain to be fought, but among them would not be the one that in America at least, has upset every governmental attempt in a hundred years that looked toward temperance and moderation, i. e., a hungry liquor traffic with an eye only to larger profits."

In the book, "After Repeal," just published, the authors state:

"The entry of 15 State Governments into the liquor-selling business constitutes the most noteworthy and far-reaching attempt to place restraint on the newly legalized liquor traffic. In these States liquor monopolies have been created after the pattern of the Canadian Provincial Liquor Commissions and they bear some resemblance to the Scandinavian State-control plans. In the face of opposition by private liquor interests, all of the State store systems have survived thus far without encountering a major threat of dissolution.

In nearly half of these States, however, private dealers are licensed to sell all kinds of alcoholic beverages by the drink, and in more than half, the private sale of all wines and beers is permitted for on-premises consumption. Indeed, the licensing aspect of monopoly-control administration presents virtually the same problems that are found in what are known as the private-license States.

As we have examined the workings of State monopolies over the past two years we have gathered the impression that only a few of them are measuring up to expectations in serving the particular needs of their States. At the time of our field examinations the most successful monopoly-control systems were found in New Hampshire, Vermont, Virginia, and Washington. The others may be appraised as mediocre or poor, depending on the occurrence of disrupting political changes and the extent to which the benefits of monopoly control have been negated by admission of private sale of liquor control for on-premises consumption.

The cardinal requirements for successful administration of a State-store system are that it be administered by men who are free from all political or commercial influences; that in the jurisdictions where the sale of liquor by the package and by the drink is permitted, the restrictions be in keeping with the views of a large majority of the citizens; and that among both administrators and legislators the aim of getting profits be definitely subordinated to that of promoting temperance and the general welfare.

A monopoly can not really achieve success if any of these requirements is lacking. No matter how competent a control board may be, it can not accomplish much by conducting a monopoly sale of liquor by the package when there exists, alongside, a far-flung private-license system for sale by the drink. With the admission of private interest in pushing the retail sale of liquor the principal objective of the monopoly plan is surrendered, and that at the very point where the greatest social hazards are encountered. But the restrictions of on-sales which may be regarded as consistent with State sale of liquor by the package would, under present conditions, doubtless be too severe for a number of the monopoly states. If so, there is little justification for State sale of liquor by the package.

We are convinced that the best of the State monopolies have in them greater potentialities for curbing the evils arising from the use of liquor than have the best of the private-license systems. A further comparison of the rival systems will not be attempted, for it is idle to state a preference between inferior monopolies and inferior license systems. It should be observed, however, that more is expected of monopolies because their pretensions to beneficial social control are greater. It is not enough, therefore, for a monopoly to be merely as good as a license system in a State having similar conditions; it must be better in order to justify its existence."

I have incorporated the above quotations in this report because I believe that in considering the liquor problem we should definitely have in mind the so-called State monopoly system, and we should, so far as possible, compare the working and results of such a system with the working and results of the license system now in effect in California. In view of the provisions of our Constitution, it is, of course, necessary that the State of California continue under the license system until the Constitution is changed by vote of the people. It is unfortunate that the Legislature does not have the power to make a change in the system without the amendment of the Constitution. I believe that experience has shown that it is unwise to place in the Constitution laws relative to the regulation, control, or prohibition of the sale of intoxicating liquor, and particularly is this true when, in order to improve conditions, it will be necessary for many years to experiment with one system or another. While it is true that public officials and legislators will desire to be relieved from the necessity of stating their views upon this important question, yet it is likewise true that the problem will never be solved or conditions materially improved until legislators and other public men are willing to face the issue fearlessly, frankly, and in the public interest.

Whether California shall embark upon the system of a State liquor monopoly in the handling of the liquor traffic will depend very largely upon the manner in which those engaged in the sale of intoxicating liquor conduct their business during the next two years. If they will honestly seek to minimize the evils consequent attendant upon the sale and consumption of intoxicating liquors and will refrain from high-powered competitive methods of accumulating concentrations of a substance inherently dangerous to human beings, then it will not be necessary for the State to enter upon a State liquor monopoly. But, unless I suppose the spirit and temper of public opinion, there is no disposition to allow the growth and increase of the old evils which caused the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment. I know there are sincere and thoughtful consumers with the same business who realize the gravity of the problem and the necessity of a higher standard of business conduct in the retail sale of liquors, but these men are too few and it is doubtful if their voices will be heard and their counsel heeded by the great number who put private profit to be derived by them from the sale of intoxicating liquor above the welfare of human beings.

Taxation and Revenue.

The repeal of prohibition was brought about as much by the need for revenue as from a desire to eradicate the evils growing out of that experiment. The accompanying depression made it impossible for either the Federal or the State Government to derive enough funds from the already overburdened taxpayers. As income diminished and the need for unemployment relief increased, it became of increasing importance to solve the financial problem. It was merely a question that whether liquor provided a partial solution and hence the general repeal movement received impetus. "Turn the bootleggers' profits into public revenue," became a watchword.

Upon the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, liquor was taken for the dual purpose of raising revenue and placing a check on crime. Having no defense against the taxgatherers, it has been eagerly sought upon in the search for additional revenues needed in Federal State treasuries. But the bootlegger has to be reckoned with when liquor taxes are laid at large levels. The legal liquor dealer has to recover from the consumer the costs of his goods and the taxes imposed by the Government in addition to any profit the bootlegger can command him and still make a larger profit from his illicit, untaxed goods. What then is to determine the rate of liquor taxation? Is it need for revenue, desire to limit consumption, or the desire to eliminate the bootlegger? All of these aims are laudable, but the aim to get abundant revenue has been the decisive factor. Any proposal for a change in rate of taxation can be countered by a valid objection, that is a reduction will lead to greater consumption and an increase will increase the profits of illicit production. Hence we witness the negotiation of a tax level which was arbitrarily fixed at the time of repeal without knowledge of its effect on excessive consumption, or the bootlegger. The dual system of Federal and State taxation and licenses is not satisfactory. The States will not surrender their taxing rights and the Federal Government will not consider lowering its taxes on spirits and beer because it is convinced that if it would the States would raise their taxes by that amount. Thus we are confronted with an indefinitely continuing through which the possible advantages of flexibility are lost. Moreover, the dual tax collection is cumbersome and wasteful. What is most needed is an agreement whereby the Federal Government will collect all excise taxes and share the income with the States. But the working out of this sensible solution will doubtless have to wait upon reform and integration of the entire State and Federal tax structure.

In case of taxation on light wines and beers the difference is present to consumption and bootlegging are relatively slight. Here we find the pure revenue motive in taxation stripped of any countervailing factors. If the prohibition rates on wines and light beer had been eliminated, the case of temperance might have been furthered. Actually the tax burden is so heavy that it keeps down the consumption of lighter alcoholic beverages. Instead of reducing the total use of alcohol, high taxes on light beverages encourage the consumption of the more highly concentrated alcoholic liquors. A decrease in taxes on all beverages would best solve the problem of defeating the bootlegger and would increase the total revenue by displacing illicit liquor with tax production. Decreased taxes, particularly on light beverages, would contribute to the promotion of temperance.

The problem of the bootlegger will be dealt with more in detail in my discussion of enforcement, but when responsible public officials, both State and Federal, estimate that the volume of illicit liquor reaches from 25 to 50 per cent of the total amount consumed, it can readily be seen that the bootlegger has not been eliminated and it will be well to consider to what extent the high liquor taxes are responsible for the continued flourishing existence of the bootlegger.

V

Law Enforcement.

A law enforcement problem arises whenever alcoholic beverages are produced. This has been found to be equally true under regimes of prohibition, strict control, and liberal regulation. And the problem will persist so long as liquor is specially taxed and legal limitations are placed upon its sale. Some notion of the magnitude of the liquor-law enforcement problem may be gained by merely glancing at the voluminous Federal and State statutes and administrative regulations which govern supervision of the liquor traffic and collection of alcohol taxes. Gathered together they would make 54 volumes of the average-sized book.

The plain truth is that from the beginning we have not fully faced the job of eliminating the bootlegger; rather we have indulged in mingled hopes that most of the bootleggers would quit business of their own accord, that the Federal Government would drive out the rest, that legal producers would make the task easy by offering better liquor at reasonably satisfactory prices, and that individual consumers would sense a patriotic duty to buy only tax-paid goods. These hopes have not been realized and the bootlegger continues to plague every unit of law enforcement and to share in every phase of the commerce in liquor. Evasion of taxes is only one aspect of the difficulty he creates. He produces a vast quantity of liquor and, except for that seized by officials, sells it without the law in competition with legal dealers who are subject to strict regulation; or he sells it to the licensed dealers who can be tempted to cheat the law.

We quote once more from the book "After Repeal," which states on the subject of volume of illicit liquor production:

"It is impossible to determine, with even approximate accuracy, the quantity of illicit liquor produced in the country or the amount smuggled in. The estimates made by persons interested in the liquor business or its regulation place the volume of untaxed liquor at from 15 to 60 per cent of the total quantity consumed. Of course, no one knows a thing about the actual mathematical percentages and the more cautious observers are content to say that the illicit traffic is 'of vast proportions,' or that it is 'rampant.'"

Mr. Joseph H. Choate, Jr., commenting on the bootlegging situation when he was in charge of the Federal Alcohol Control Administration, has this to say:

"The persistence, year after year, of the immense numbers of seizures shows that illicit distilleries are replaced as fast as they are seized. This could never happen unless they were needed to meet the demands of the bootleggers' business. If any great proportion of them were used much below their practical capacity, the replacements would grow fewer and fewer, and the seizures would decrease. It seems probable, therefore, that the bootleggers are now turning out from their stills alone, not counting smuggling and alcohol-divertings, a quantity of spirits which can not be much less, and may be more than we drank before prohibition. All this means * * * that the Government is losing more taxes than it gets, and that a colossal criminal industry, necessarily highly organized, still exists, and still exerts its debauching tendencies on every governmental agency."

Mr. Ammon McClellan, executive director of the League of Distilled Spirits Rectifiers, stated in April, 1935, that reports reaching his office indicated that 'there is just as much illicit liquor manufactured and sold in this country as there was shortly after repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. It is variously estimated that illicit channels supply from 50 to 60 per cent of the alcoholic beverage demand.' In a study of liquor taxes and the bootleggers prepared for the National Municipal League, Mr. Paul Studenski stated that 'the consumption of bootleg liquor, both domestic and smuggled, in this country, may be nearly as large today as the consumption of the tax-paid product.'"

So much for the bootlegger, who, it will be observed, is still a problem in connection with liquor administration and liquor law enforcement. Another great problem connected with law enforcement is the matter of curbing violations of the law by licensed liquor dealers.

The real test of the efficacy of a license administration lies in the use it makes of the power of revocation. Revocation is the only reliable and complete remedy for violations, harassment with warnings and threats, and the infliction of occasional minor penalties serve only to give the business a bad name and fail to bring about strict observance of the law. The right to revoke is in my opinion the only enforcement weapon needed for the elimination of violations by licensees, and the licensing administration should be the principal law-enforcement agency.

In a very real sense the whole administrative task of liquor control is one of law enforcement. It consists in keeping unauthorized persons from manufacturing or selling liquor and in seeing that those who are given the privileges abide by all of the restrictions contained in statute and regulations. The responsibility for disobedience of law is to be laid at one door only, that of weak and incompetent administrators. Two decades ago, the public believed that the evils connected with the liquor traffic would not or could not be corrected by public officials and that prohibition was the only remedy. A national revulsion against the breakdown of law enforcement was what caused prohibition's repeal. The liquor issues of the future will be decided, as always before, on the basis of success or failure in enforcement of whatever kind of control is attempted.

VI.

Education.

It must always be borne in mind that the principal reason for a liquor problem is the liquor itself. And the thing that makes it a problem is the harmful effect upon human beings of the indulgence in alcoholic liquors. Moderation in the use of alcoholic liquor will, of course, lessen its harmful effect but it will not eliminate it. All that regulation can do is to minimize the evil. No sense of the legislature could accomplish a solution of the problem. While laws are one of numerous wholesome influences so deeply rooted in human nature to be used out for salutary process. We must not be blind to the present conditions and future process involved in the word "education".

That there is need for education in relation to the problem of alcohol will scarcely be doubted by anyone who considers the habits of the age in which we live and live living. A century ago, in the democratic agricultural community of America, the consequences of alcoholic excess were limited largely to the harm done to the members of his family, and to his more immediate associates. Today it is living in a machine age. The railroad engine, the truck, the automobile, the airplane, are the symbols of a new pace and tempo, instruments by which our moving being expresses itself in terms of speed. Indeed, the whole economic and social structure of our social order is held together by machinery, machinery that thrives and hands and steady nerves to run it, machinery, educated, mechanical machinery, capable, if misdirected of wrecking the social system itself and causing death and suffering in wide circles.

This conception of the evils of intoxication is a situation far from alive in America long before the advent of prohibition. As early as 1870 the Liquor Rule G was in operation on most of our railroads.

"The use of intoxicants by employees when on duty is prohibited; that use, or the frequenting of places where they are sold, is sufficient cause for dismissal."

That rule was not written by fanatics or by moralists. It was written by engineers in the interest of better safety. By the same token there is another link in an argument against liquor; except now mechanical invention is a part of the machine. It is this point of view that gives rise to apprehensions among thoughtful people even where as they face a new era of liquor, and with the machine growing, fastening itself more securely each year on all the details of human life. There was there a greater need for complete better and education. There was the necessity for education so compelling.

I would not presume to outline a course of education in the school lines of the term. That must be left to the intelligence of our teachers. I want, however, point out that, just as the schools must recognize the importance of scientific and unbiased instruction in the field of statistics or chemistry, for example, so they should fairly be asked to perform the same service in regard to the fairly and neutral aspects of alcohol. But just as in America the public schools are forbidden to take a biased attitude in respect to politics or religion, so they ought to educate them taking a biased or prejudiced attitude toward any other subject, politics or personal conduct or manners.

The possibility of a new approach through the schools is indicated in a recent report on health problems in education, issued by joint committees of the National Education Association and the American Medical Association. With the sanction of the Technical Committee of Twenty Seven. I am of opinion will not permit me to quote at length from this report, but the following paragraphs are significant.

"The instruction concerning alcohol, tobacco, and other narcotics should be, in the main, a part of the general work in training to personal health habits and to promotion of community health and welfare. The keynote should be, 'Teach by facts and illustrations, not by exhortation.'"

Ideally, the instruction should be positive and illustrative. Practically, the persistence of erroneous traditional beliefs about these substances, especially about alcohol, makes necessary concrete knowledge of their nature and effect as reason for practicing abstinence.

The choice of material, therefore, involves: (1) Recognition of the individual and community advantages resulting from sobriety; (2) correcting of current fallacies as to the nature and effects of these substances in which much of their use finds excuse; (3) definite knowledge of modern scientific experiments and observations on this subject; (4) the application of this information to practical conditions of modern life in meeting individual and community problems. There are, for example, industrial and transportation conditions now which make the use of alcoholic liquors even much more dangerous in their results than was the case a century ago. The physiological lesson should be deftly interwoven with the concrete instruction.

Facts taught should be graded to meet the interest and psychological development of pupils. Motivation may be given through the appeal to desire for fitness for sports, efficiency in play and work, vigorous health, safety, service of others, character qualities such as self-control, kindness, sportsmanship, self-reliance, duty, reliability, truth, good workmanship.

cooperation, loyalty. Incidental training may be given in connection with or through arithmetic, language, history, geography, biography, English, drawing, projects. Much of this information will find its way through the children back into the home, and if constructively developed, will often react on the home environment favorable to the child's physical, mental and moral development.

In this outline positive ideals around which physical facts may be taught are suggested solely as a guide to the teacher, but are never to be made a basis for 'moralizing.' The success of this training will depend in no small degree upon leading young people to discover for themselves from the facts that sobriety has a value which makes it desirable to them in promoting activities or ideals in which they have interest."

If systematic temperance education is to be truly effective, it must be pushed beyond the limits of the schoolroom. It is at this point that a significant opportunity is developing in the new era which we are now entering. With the old wet and dry controversy out of the way, the argument for sobriety, for temperate living, for a clean and orderly country can be made in a manner that will stir the Nation. It is possible that this activity could be assisted through the State Boards of Education and other public bodies; but here is a field well adapted to private societies—Chambers of Commerce, Parent-Teacher Associations, civic agencies, churches, as well as organizations specially created for this purpose.

It is possible that a new society for temperance, set up perhaps on a National basis and divorced from old groups and methods that have outlived their usefulness, might be of genuine service. Such an organization could focus specialized attention on the problem and could bring together behind intelligent programs men and women interested in the maintenance of a sober country, and determined that the legalized return of alcohol shall mark the beginning of real temperance.

While education can do much, yet it is still true that the influence of example is far more potent than instruction or teaching. This is clearly recognized in the main report of the committee where it is said:

"The present trend of thought seems to be that all bars should be open to all people, irrespective of sex, and that they should be permitted to partake of alcoholic beverages in such bars, with the doors wide open and in full view of the passing school girls and school boys. We hesitate to predict the effect on the oncoming generation of a continuation of this situation."

The main report of the committee further says:

"The whole problem here being considered deals with the social and economic welfare of our people and perhaps, therefore, the remedy should start in the home rather than at the bar. A complete answer can not be found in enforcement alone and experience shows that it can not be found in prohibition. Home training, proper instructions at school and moderation in the use of intoxicating liquor by the parents, would at least be helpful. In suggesting home training and school instruction we are not depreciating the present instructions given at school nor the training now given at home, but the changed social conditions and the relaxation of our people toward enforcement of rules and regulations designed for their own welfare, justifies our emphasizing the necessity for bringing home to the youth, during his formative period, the effect of the excessive use of alcoholic liquor upon his mental and physical development."

The main report of the committee therefore recognizes the danger to the "oncoming generation" of our present method of liquor regulation and stresses the importance of "home training, proper instruction at school, and moderation in the use of intoxicating liquor by parents."

I believe, however, that the main report places too much emphasis on the terms "moderation in the use of intoxicating liquor," and "the effect of the excessive use of liquor." If this substance called "intoxicating liquor" is so dangerous that it requires such strict regulation and control, surely it is dangerous enough to justify us in warning our "oncoming generation" against its use altogether.

The use of intoxicating liquor by parents, lending citizens, and public officials must inevitably have a tendency to increase its use by youth, and the greatest contribution that such persons can make to the cause of true temperance is not by using intoxicating liquor "in moderation" but by abstaining from its use entirely.

I quote again from "After Repeal":

"The final aim of governmental control over the sale of liquor is the promotion of temperance. An imposition of legal restraints serves the cause of temperance in a negative way but does not check appetite nor instill capacities for self-control among individuals. The task of influencing personal attitudes toward the use of liquor is one for which democratic governmental agencies are not well equipped. How is a liquor-control body to formulate a temperance-education program which will not suffer violent attack from some group of citizens? Can a licensing authority undertake to undermine a business, the pursuit of which it authorizes? Will consumers of liquor tolerate instruction by public servants? So far as we have been able to determine there have been no significant contributions in the field of temperance education during the two and a half years since repeal.

The difficulties are great and we are not prepared to submit a plan of action that would give promise of conquering them. But the bulk of positive efforts to further the cause of temperance shall be cited as a serious discussion in the development of rational control of the socially hazardous liquor business."

In Conclusion.

In the separate report I have endeavored to set forth briefly some conclusions arrived at by me during my study of the problem as a member of the committee. Because these conclusions are and expressed in the main course of the discussion, and also because I do not agree with some of the recommendations made by the report of the committee, I am filing the separate report.

I believe that the present handling of the problem in California is not satisfactory, and that the people demand an improvement in conditions. I agree without comment the first item in Editor Chas. J. Lacey's front-page column in this morning's Sacramento Union:

"A parent remarks: 'My young daughter went to a dance at the new Olympic auditorium the other night. There was so much drinking among the boys and girls that she had to leave. Where do young people of 14 or 15 get their liquor? Who sells it to them?'"

I am convinced that the handling of the problem in California would be improved by taking the administration of the liquor laws off of the hands of the State Board of Equalization, and placing it in the hands of a strong, independent, non-political separate Liquor Authority, as has been done in six other States. I am convinced also that there must be a great reduction in the number of places licensed to sell intoxicating liquor in California. I am moreover further that a greater effort must be made to curb the bootlegger, and that more attention must be given to the matter of education as to the harmful effects of intoxicating liquor. No doubt, if the committee is satisfied with the constitutional issues, more further recommendations will be made by the committee.

I concede that personally persons may and do differ in their views on the liquor problem. No one can afford to be too hasty in accepting the position, and I make no criticism of the views of others upon the question of liquor control. I realize that it is a problem that has engaged humanity for over 2000 years. I believe, however, that it is a great social problem, and that more be regarded seriously, one that can not be neglected without great harm resulting to society. It will require the constant thought and study of serious and hardworking men and women who approach it, not in the interest of any group or business, not with any narrow or prejudiced view, but with a desire to solve it, finally, at a solution that will be for the highest welfare of the race, and particularly for the highest welfare of the coming generation.

Respectfully submitted,

ANDREW R. SCHOTTKY

Member of Senate Committee on Intoxicating Liquor

Sacramento, California, January 7, 1937.

4. Whenever any bill has been referred by the Senate to one of its committees, and the same or a like bill has been referred by the Assembly to one of its committees, the chairman of the respective committees, when in their judgment the interests of legislation or the expedition of business will be better served thereby, shall arrange for a joint meeting of their committees for the consideration of such bill.

When a bill is amended in either house, the first or previous markings shall be omitted. When a law amendatory of a prior statute or general law is engrossed, all figures or symbols shall be omitted.

In the case of an amendment to a resolution bill, which amendment initially sets up, for the first time, the wording of the bill, this rule shall not apply, but the use of italics and brackets shall be as in an original bill.

Distribution of Legislative Publications.

13. All requests for mailing or distributing of bills and legislative publications shall be filed with the Secretary of the Senate or the Chief Clerk of the Assembly. When a bill (if it be a Senate bill) has been received from the Senate by the Assembly, after its passage, or (if it be an Assembly bill) has been received from the Assembly by the Senate after its passage, it shall be taken up by the Senate or Assembly, as the case may be, under the regular order of business ("Senate messages" or "Assembly messages"), read the first time, and shall then be referred to the proper committee, unless otherwise ordered, who shall act upon the same as soon as practicable, and report the same back to the Senate or Assembly forthwith, and the chairman of each committee is charged with observance of this rule.

Messages to Be in Writing Under Proper Signatures.

22. Notice of the action of either house to the other shall be in writing and under the signature of the Secretary of the Senate or the Chief Clerk of the Assembly from which such message is to be conveyed. A receipt shall be taken from the officer to whom such message is delivered.

Passage and Enrolling of Bills.

Passage of Urgency Provisions in Bills.

23. Upon the third reading of a bill which is an urgency measure within the meaning of section 1, Article IV of the State Constitution, the presiding officer shall direct that the section of said bill setting forth the facts constituting the necessity for such urgency (which shall be known as the urgency section) be then read and put to vote. The question shall be then stated: "Shall this section, setting forth the urgency features of this bill, be passed?" If upon such third vote two-thirds of all the members elected to the house in which the vote is being taken shall not vote in the affirmative, no further action shall be taken on the bill; but, in case an identical bill without such an urgency clause be again introduced into such house, such bill shall be placed on the without order of the next session.

Passage of Bills Preceding Final Adjournment.

24. No Senate bill shall be passed by the Senate, and no Assembly bill shall be passed by the Assembly within seven days of the third day of the adjournment sine die of the two houses of the Legislature in the prevention of action of adjourning to adjourn, unless permission to vote on such bill shall be granted by a three-fourths vote of the house of its origin after being recommended by the presiding officer thereof.

Enrollment of Bill After Passage.

25. After a bill shall have passed both houses, it shall be duly enrolled after being carefully compared by the engrossing and comparing clerk and committee of the house in which it originated, with the original bill as passed by the two houses. It shall then receive the signatures provided for in Joint Rule No. 26, and be presented to the Governor of the State.

Enrolling Committee to Present Bills to Governor.

26. After a bill shall have been thus passed by each house, it shall be presented by the engrossing and comparing committee of the house in which it originated to the Governor of the State for his approval not being first discussed by the presiding officers of the two houses, and by the Secretary of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the Assembly. The said committee shall report the date of presentation to the Governor, which time shall be entered in the Journal of the house in which the bill originated.

Amendments and Conferences.

Amendments to Amended Bills Must Be Attached.

27. Whenever a bill or resolution, which shall have been passed by one house shall be amended in the other, it shall immediately be reprinted as amended by the house making such amendment or amendments. Such amendment or amendments shall be attached to the bill or resolution as amended and referred "reprinted" and such amendment or amendments, if introduced in the house in which said bill or resolution originated, shall be treated "concurrent" and such amendment shall be signed by the Secretary or Assistant Secretary of the Senate, or the Chief Clerk or Assistant Clerk of the Assembly as the case may be, provided, however, that an amendment to the text of a bill introduced after the passage of such bill shall not necessitate reprinting, but such amendment must be introduced in the house in which such bill originated.

To Concur or Refuse to Concur in Amendments.

28. In case the Senate shall not pass an Assembly bill, or the Assembly amend and pass a Senate bill, the Senate (if it be a Senate bill) or the Assembly (if it be an Assembly bill) must either "concur" or "refuse to concur" in the amendments. If the Senate concur (if it be a Senate bill), or the Assembly concur (if it be an Assembly bill), the Secretary or Chief Clerk shall notify the house making the amendments and the bill shall be ordered to enrollment.

When Senate or Assembly Refuse to Concur.

29. If the Senate refuse to concur (if it be a Senate bill), or the Assembly refuse to concur (if it be an Assembly bill), the Secretary or the Chief Clerk shall notify the house making the amendments of such refusal, and such refusal may recede from their amendments. If they refuse to recede, the presiding officer shall appoint a committee of three or more conferees and the Secretary or the Chief Clerk shall immediately notify the other house of the action taken and request the appointment of a like committee. Two of the members composing such committee from each house shall be selected from those voting with the majority on the point about which the difference has arisen, and the other members from each house of such committee shall be selected from the minority, in the event there is a minority vote. The first Senator named on the Free Conference Committee shall act as chairman of the committee from the Senate, and the first Assemblyman named on such committee shall act as chairman of the committee from the Assembly and the chairman thus selected shall arrange the time and place of all meetings and prepare or direct the preparation of reports. The Committee on Free Conference shall report to both the Senate and Assembly.

Report of Committee on Free Conference.

30. The report of the Committee on Free Conference shall not be subject to amendment, and if either house refuse to adopt such report the conferees may be discharged and other conferees appointed, provided, however, that no more than three different free conference committees shall be appointed on any one bill.

It shall require the affirmative vote of not less than four of the members constituting the committee to agree upon a report. No member who has served on a Committee on Free Conference shall be appointed a member of another Committee on Free Conference on the same bill.

When Conference Committee Report Is in Order.

31. The presentation of the report of a Committee on Free Conference shall always be in order, except when the Journal is being read or a question of order or a motion to adjourn is pending, or during roll call, and, when received, the question of proceeding to the consideration of the report, if raised, shall be immediately passed upon, and shall be determined without debate.

Authority When Rules Do Not Govern.

32. All relations between the houses which are not covered by these rules shall be governed by Mason's Manual.

Press Rules.

33. A person desiring recognition by the Senate or Assembly as a newspaper correspondent shall make application in writing to the President of the Senate or Speaker of the Assembly.

(a) The applicant shall state in writing the name of the newspaper or newspapers he represents, together with a letter from the publisher or the editor of the paper so to be represented, and that he is not engaged and will not become engaged as a lobbyist for any person, copartnership, corporation or interest and that he is not and will not become the agent or representative of any person, copartnership, organization or corporation in advocating or attempting to defeat any measure pending in either branch of the Legislature, that he is not employed in any executive, administrative or legislative department of the State Government and will not become so employed while accepting the privileges of a press representative.

(b) It shall be the duty of the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the Assembly to assign one or more rooms for the exclusive use of correspondents during the legislative session, which room shall be known as the Press Room. The Press Room shall be under the control of the Superintendent of the Capitol Building and Grounds; provided, that all rules and regulations shall be approved by the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the Assembly.

Adjournment.

34. Adjournment for the constitutional recess and adjournment sine die shall be made only by concurrent resolution; and the resolution for adjournment sine die shall be passed by both houses at least seven days before the date of such intended adjournment.

Dispensing With Joint Rules.

35. No joint rule shall be dispensed with except by a vote of two-thirds of each house; and Joint Rule No. 24 can be dispensed with only in the manner provided for in said Joint Rules. If either house shall violate a joint rule a question of order may be raised in the other house and decided in the same manner as in the case of the violation of the rules of such house; and if it shall be decided that the Joint Rules have been violated, the bill involving such violations shall be returned to the house in which it originated, and such disputed matter be considered in like manner as in Free Conference Committee. The presiding officers of each house shall appoint committees in like manner and with like power of Free Conference Committees.

Remarks.

The following remarks, offered by Senator Tuck, were ordered printed in the Journal:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate:

In speaking to the resolution, I wish to say these few words. If not my privilege to know Senator Tom Flint personally, and I will recall the kindly advice and counsel to me when I first sought public office. Knowing his sterling character and the great esteem in which he was held by all the people of San Benito County and the State of California and in all walks of life, I was his genuine credit of inestimable value to me. I shall never forget his kindly words and his great understanding of the complex problems of society. His 28 years of life was filled with the experiences of humanity, moment and action, making him stand above everything, honest and courageous, a man of great personal worth, his influence spread throughout the State, for he placed his services to his State, place and beyond any personal ambition. Of course, his heritage goes back a long way and a great understanding. The son of Doctor Thomas Flint is counted with a member of the State Senate from 1876 to 1880. He was kindly representative of that heritage. Senator Tom Flint's public life is known to most of us. He was a member of this body for 16 years serving continuously from 1888 to 1904, eight years of which he was President pro tempore of the Senate.

Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, the State has lost a beloved character but there will remain with us an inspiration and a memory that will endure throughout the years. In closing may I quote the words of "Pope" who said:

"Statesman, yet friend of truth!
Of soul sincere, in action faithful, and in honor clear:
Who broke no promise, served no private end,
Who gained no title, and who lost no friend;
Ennobled by himself, by all approved,
Praised, wept, and honored."

Mr. President, I move the adoption of the Resolution.

The question being on the adoption of the resolution.

Resolution.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Gordon:

WHEREAS, During the years 1924 and 1929 serious outbreaks of foot and mouth disease occurred in California; and

WHEREAS, The outbreak of 1929 was traced to meat brought to the United States from Argentina; and

WHEREAS, Such foot and mouth disease outbreaks have caused serious injury to both industry and agriculture in California; and

WHEREAS, The Argentine Sanitary Convention, now pending before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, is designed to alter the provisions of section 306-a of the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act (effective June 17, 1930), so that, instead of forbidding importation of meat products from any country where rinderpest or foot and mouth disease exists, it would permit zoning of the Argentine and admission of such products from zones declared to be free from those plagues; and

WHEREAS, The Proposed Sanitary Convention would encourage efforts to bring animals from affected areas via free zones; and

WHEREAS, The fact that so many of the outbreaks of foot and mouth disease in the United States have been traced to violation of laws of the Bureau of Animal Industry, governing the importation of meats from infected countries is sufficient reason for the tightening up of restrictions on importations, rather than lessening such restrictions; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the California Senate is opposed to any change or modification in the present tariff laws relating to quarantine of live stock and meats and to any plan whereby countries such as Argentina will be zoned to permit shipment of live stock or meat to the United States; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be, and he is hereby instructed to forward copies of this resolution to the President of the United States, United States Senators Johnson and McAdoo, to all California Congressmen, to Secretary of State Cordell Hull and to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

WHEREAS, The aforesaid affiliates of the Council of State Governments are ready to present tangible recommendations, some in the form of model legislation, based on their studies during the interim since the Assembly of 1935; and

WHEREAS, The Third General Assembly offers an opportunity through special meetings for the consideration by the delegates of other matters pending executive action; and

WHEREAS, It is believed that substantial results would result from this State representation at the Third General Assembly and that such Assembly offers a means of surmounting obvious difficulties arising in governmental conference due to the absence of facilities for conference between governmental units; and

WHEREAS, The Senate of this State is invited to send a delegate to the Assembly now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the State of California do send a delegate and instructs the President of the Senate to transmit a delegate to the Third General Assembly of the Council of State Governments, which convenes in Washington, D. ### Remarks.

The following remarks, offered by Senator McColl, were ordered printed in the Journal:

Last Thursday evening, at a meeting called by the State Master of the Grange to discuss the proposed revenue bond bills, (or so it was reported in the Sacramento Bee and in many other newspapers throughout the State) some remarks were made by a member of this body, which were untrue, and which have reflected upon my honor, upon my sincerity, and which have done untold damage to my reputation. These remarks have also reflected on my community, the city of Redding in Shasta County, which I have the honor to represent in this body.

In order to leave no doubt in the minds of my colleagues and in order to remove the unwarranted suspicion in the public mind which has been engendered by these remarks, I find it necessary to rise on the floor of this Senate to lay the full facts before you.

I read from last Friday's Sacramento Bee some statements written by a reporter of that paper, whose reputation for correct and honest reporting has heretofore been unquestioned:

"State Senator D. Jack Metzger of Tehama County last night attacked Earl Lee Kelly, State Director of Public Works, and Senator John B. McColl of Shasta County as obstructionists of the Central Valley Project.

Speaking before a meeting in the Hotel Sacramento, the Red Bluff legislator said that Kelly and Senator McColl are for Kennett Dam and not the Central Valley Project.

"Now that the Federal Reclamation Bureau engineers seem to favor the construction of dams at Baird and Table Mountain," said Metzger, "they have turned obstructionists and put stumbling blocks in the way of the project."

Continuing his attacks, Metzger stated:

"Kelly and McColl are from Redding. If it were not for the politicians in Redding who insist upon the dam being at Kennett, the project would be a lot further along than it is now."

He was more interested in the site than in the project."

Mr. Earl Lee Kelly, my fellow townsman, happens to be in an ex officio capacity Chairman of the State Water Authority, and while I should like to defend him, on account of the rules of the Senate concerning personal privilege, I am unable to do so. Therefore, I shall discuss the charges as they concern me.

Heretofore my relations with the Senator from Red Bluff have been of the friendliest nature and I had no idea that he was harboring within him the thoughts which he expressed at the revenue bond meeting.

If this were merely a question of a controversy between the Senator from Red Bluff and myself, I should be inclined to let the matter drop, but a great public interest is involved. Hundreds of thousands of people throughout this State are interested in the Central Valley Project. Many of these people are seeking the reason for the delay—unwarranted delay, as many believe—in starting construction. And without one scintilla of evidence, Senator Metzger charges us with being responsible. He stated that our insistence on Kennett has delayed the project. The Senator's statements have tended to arouse suspicion, which, as I learn from every side, is directed toward myself, my community and the Chairman of the Water Authority. Therefore, to protect my honor and reputation, I am forced to reply.

I have discussed the matter with Senator Metzger and he denied making the statements. He has also denied any intention to reflect on my integrity in connection with my activities in behalf of the project. Six days have elapsed but he has made no public denial or retraction; consequently, I have no alternative but to lay the facts before you, my fellow Senators. Had a denial or retraction been made, I would have dismissed the matter, despite the fact that I have been publicly and publicly maligned.

It has been suggested to me that the Senator was playing politics, and that his remarks were made for some consideration. If that be so, that surely certainly over-shot their mark and the resulting wide publicity given this case was a great damage. It has also been suggested that the Senator has been influenced by interests unfriendly to the Central Valley Project for the purpose of offering up a diversionary among its supporters, which, of course, is just what the major companies would welcome. I am not prepared to say that the Senator is playing politics with the voters of his home district or that he is influenced by the criticism that is for the public and for his constituents to determine. I am here, however, to publicly aver that there is not the slightest degree of truth in his statements charging me and charging my community with endeavoring to further our own interests at the expense of the State of California by influencing the Bureau of Reclamation to build a dam at Kennett as against any other site.

It is a man's inalienable right to have the interest of his home community at heart, and to work for that community. Naturally, I am hopeful that the engineers will decide on Kennett which, incidentally, has been examined by every agency which has made a completed investigation of the various sites during the past decade. But that isn't the point. Senator Metcalf charged me, along with others, with the responsibility of delaying the project because I wanted Kennett and he said I was placing stumbling blocks in the way of the whole project because of this selfish interest. This, on its face, and in view of my record during the past four years, is absurd. The problem of all Californians actually working to promote this project was to get it authorized by Congress, financial and started. None of us has either the San Joaquin Valley, or the Delta or in the Sacramento Valley has succeeded in futile quibbling over dam sites when the great common sense of getting it under way was the problem before us.

In the first place, this is a Federal and not a State project and neither Mr. Kelly, although he be Chairman of the State Water Association, nor Senator Metcalf nor myself will finally determine where the dam or dams will be built. The engineers of the Bureau of Reclamation, who are not concerned or influenced by the aspirations of various small communities, will finally determine the location. And they will do it in the interest of the State and of the Nation.

The Bureau engineers, along with State and Federal officials, are still making an investigation of various proposed sites in the upper Sacramento and Feather rivers, but, as yet, no reports or preliminary have been made as to what are all sites are finally be chosen, and no one knows. Speaking for myself, I have never had a conversation with anyone in authority concerning the location of Kennett, Table Mountain, or any other site, nor, up to the time of the Senator's charges, had I written a letter on the subject. When the Senator charged me, and when he charges the politicians of my community with delaying the project, he is making statements which are unfounded. Further, there has never been a congressional resolution, letter or telegram from any community group or any community concerning any subject which, by the widest stretch of the imagination, could be construed as retarding the project.

I challenge the Senator from Red Bluff to show where and through how many placed in the way of the project by myself or by my community which, I can honestly say, has contributed no such serious and well-known effort to get the whole project going as any in the State. As to myself, the Senator Avows that I have spent the greater part of my money and time during the past four years working wholeheartedly for the consummation of this water project.

Senator Metcalf, in the past, has been a friend and supporter of this project, but in this instance he made statements about matters concerning which he had no personal knowledge. I can verify truth his attending a meeting of the State Water Authority, which is charged in the law with fostering the project; he has never had a conversation with Mr. Edward Hunt, the State Engineer, regarding the real reasons delaying construction; he has never attended, during the past four years, a meeting at the Central Valley Project Association and he has never discussed the matter with the engineers in charge of the Bureau of Reclamation. In other words, the Senator made statements against me and against Mr. Kelly (whom I am not under any such pretense as defend), which were damaging and untrue and has to date made no denial or correction.

Therefore, I have taken the only course open to me and have brought the matter to the floor of this body so that the gentlemen with whom I am thus associated may know the true situation. Though there is no need to assert to you, particularly the older members, my sincerity of interest and my integrity of purpose. I reiterate, I am for the Central Valley Project as a whole—I have always been for it, and I believe my record speaks for itself.

Communications.

The following communications were received and ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, LEGAL DEPARTMENT,
STATE LIBRARY AND COURTS BUILDING, SACRAMENTO, JANUARY 14, 1937.

Hon. George J. Hatfield,

Lieutenant Governor, State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

MY DEAR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR: I have your letter asking the opinion of this office "as to the legal sufficiency of the initiative petition regarding fishing control presented to the Senate Monday, January 4, 1937."

The initiative measure which is the subject of your inquiry comes to the Legislature with no title other than that prepared by the Attorney General in accordance with the mandate of the constitutional amendment of 1932. That was an amendment of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, and reads as follows:

"Prior to circulation of any initiative or referendum petition for signatures thereof, a draft of the said petition shall be submitted to the Attorney General with a written request that he prepare a title, and summary of the chief purpose and points of said proposed measure, said title and summary not to exceed 100 words in all. The persons presenting such request to the Attorney General shall be known as 'proponents of said proposed measure'."

Nowhere is it suggested that the initiative or referendum measure, upon submitted to the Attorney General shall have a title prepared by its proponents.

When the present measure reached the Attorney General's Office, it had without title, and the title which it now bears was prepared in accordance with the constitutional amendment above quoted. Section 24 of Article IV of the Constitution of 1879 as originally adopted provided that:

"Every act shall embrace but one subject, which subject shall be expressed in its title."

That section then did not apply to initiative measures, for such methods of legislation did not find constitutional warrant until 1911 and there was no express provision in Constitution or statute requiring that initiative measures have a title until the adoption of section 1197a of the Political Code in 1915. That section provided that prior to the circulation for signatures of an initiative petition, the same should be submitted to the Attorney General, who should prepare a title and summary of the chief purposes and points of said proposed measure.

Long after the adoption of section 1197a, Political Code, first prior to the adoption of the constitutional amendment, the Supreme Court of this State decided the case of Wallace vs. Zornes, 200 Cal. 585, and that decision gave some support for the contention that the title prepared by the Attorney General pursuant to the provisions of section 1197a of the Political Code is not the title contemplated by the Constitution, and I would hesitate to express the view that that case is not now controlling were it not for the constitutional amendment of 1932.

I am rather inclined to regard such constitutional amendment as having been adopted in order to establish a law on this subject differing from that held in said case.

Eliminating further consideration of the Zornes case and the Political Code section, we have the Constitution through its amendment of 1932 providing that prior to the circulation of an initiative petition, the Attorney General shall "prepare a title, and summary of the chief purpose and points of said proposed measure," etc., and limiting the number of words in which such title and summary may be expressed. The next paragraph of section 1, Article IV of the Constitution, as it read at the time of its adoption in 1911 and as it yet reads, provides that an initiative or referendum petition may be presented in sections,

"but each section shall contain a full and correct copy of the title and text of the proposed measure".

The question finally for determination is whether the word "title" as used in the quotation last made requires a title other than that title which since the amendment of 1932 the Attorney General is required to prepare.

Finding the requirement that the Attorney General prepare a title in section 1 of Article IV immediately followed by the requirement of the same section that a "full and correct copy of the title, etc., shall be set forth, I am inclined to hold that the title that shall be so set forth is the title prepared by the Attorney General pursuant to the mandate of the constitutional amendment of 1932. The initiative petition which you have submitted has such title and in my view no other or different title is required.

In all other respects the measure appears to conform to all legal requirements.

Very truly yours,

U. S. WEBB, Attorney General.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, January 13, 1937.

To the President and Members of the Senate of California.

This is in response to a resolution adopted by your honorable body on January 6, 1937, requesting "an opinion on the initiative petition" presented to the Secretary of State of California prior to the commencement of the present regular session of the Legislature, proposing a purported law of which the following is a complete copy:

"The People of the State of California do enact as follows:

The Fish and Game Code of the State of California is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to be known as 1110 and to read as follows:

1110. No person shall use or operate or assist in using or operating in this State or the waters thereof, any boat or vessel used in connection with fishing operations irrespective of its home port or port of registration, which fishing boat or vessel delivers or by which there is delivered to any point or place other than within this State any fish, mollusks or crustaceans which are caught in, or taken aboard said boat or vessel from, the waters of the Pacific Ocean within this State or on the high seas or elsewhere, unless a permit authorizing the same shall have been issued by the Fish and Game Commission.

Where it appears to the commission that such permit will not tend to prevent, impede or obstruct the operation, enforcement or administration of this code or any provision thereof, and will not tend to result in fish, mollusks or crustaceans in the waters of this State being taken or used otherwise than is authorized by this code, the commission may issue revocable permits under such rules and regulations and upon such terms and conditions as it may prescribe, to deliver fish, mollusks or crustaceans by the use of such boat or vessel outside of this State, provided that nothing herein shall authorize the transportation or carrying out of this State or any district thereof, of any fish, mollusks or crustaceans where the same is prohibited by law, and no permit shall be issued which may tend to deplete any species of fish, mollusk or crustacean, or result in waste thereof. Any person who uses or operates or assists in using or operating any boat or vessel in violation of the provisions of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor and such boat or vessel and the net, gear or other equipment of said boat or vessel is a public nuisance and shall be forfeited. It is the duty of every person authorized to make an arrest for the violation of any of the provisions of this code, to seize and keep such boat, vessel, net, gear or other equipment and to report such seizure to the commission. The commission shall thereupon commence, in the superior court of the county or city and county in which or nearest to which the seizure is made, proceedings for forfeiture of the seized property for its use in violation of this section, and such proceeding shall be had in the manner and according to the procedure provided by section 845 of this code for the forfeiture of nets."

We assume that the inquiry arises out of the fact that the "law proposed" by said petition starts out with an enacting clause, and without a title (hereinafter designated "legislative title") such as the title required of a legislative bill by the provisions of section 24 of Article IV of the Constitution of California.

In our opinion, the absence of such legislative title from this proposed law renders the entire proposal nugatory.

We arrive at this conclusion by a careful and thorough analysis of the applicable provisions of our Constitution and statutes, and of pertinent judicial decisions of this and other States.

The third paragraph of Article IV, section 1 of the Constitution as adopted in 1911 reads as follows:

"Upon the presentation to the Secretary of State, at any time not less than 10 days before the commencement of any regular session of the Legislature, of a petition certified as herein provided to have been signed by qualified electors of the State equal in number to 5 per cent of all the votes cast for all candidates for Governor at the last preceding general election, at which a Governor was elected, proposing a law set forth in full in said petition, the Secretary of State shall transmit the same to the Legislature as soon as it convenes and organizes. The law proposed by such petition shall be either enacted or rejected without change or amendment by the Legislature, within 40 days from the time it is received by the Legislature. If any law proposed by such petition shall be enacted by the Legislature it shall be subject to referendum, as hereinafter provided. If any law so petitioned for be rejected, or if no action is taken upon it by the Legislature, within said 40 days, the Secretary of State shall submit it to the people for approval or rejection at the next ensuing general election. The Legislature may reject any measure so proposed by initiative petition and propose a different one on the same subject by a ye and nay vote upon separate roll call, and in such event both measures shall be submitted by the Secretary of State to the electors for approval or rejection at the next ensuing general election or at a prior special election called by the Governor, in his discretion, for such purpose. All said initiative petitions last above described shall have printed in 12 point black-face type the following: 'Initiative measure to be presented to the Legislature.'"

The above passage from the Constitution stands today without any alteration of any kind.

In the ninth paragraph of the same article and section, introduced in 1911 and now a part of the Constitution, we find this language:

"Any initiative or referendum petition may be presented in person, but each section shall contain a full and correct copy of the title and text of the proposed measure."

The above designated section concluded in the following words:

"This section is self-explanatory, but legislation may be enacted by Parliament, its operation, but in no way limiting or restricting either the provisions of this section or the powers hereby reserved."

Pursuant to the powers so granted, the Legislature in 1913 amended section 1197 of the Political Code, (relating to initiative petitions) so as to provide for amendment of the putting initiative measures on the ballot and initiative measure asked thereon. And the Attorney General advised upon request therein a ballot title shall contain this:

"The ballot title may be designated from the legislature in every title of the measure and shall express in not exceeding 100 words, the purpose of the measure."

The statute goes on to explain the purpose of this ballot title given:

"In making such ballot title the Attorney General shall give a full and impartial statement of the purpose of the measure and to every language upon the ballot title shall not be an argument or likely to create prejudice either for or against the measure."

The ballot title thus proposed by the Attorney General was, it appeared so in the Board of Title Commissioners, says the statute:

"* * * shall be the title and designation by which any such question, proposition, proposed law or constitutional amendment shall be designated upon the ballot."

This is the form in which the law stands today. The Legislature itself in 1914, making provision to carry out the mandate of the Constitution, made the distinction between legislative title and the ballot title.

Passing on to 1915, we find that in that year the Legislature added section 1197a to the Political Code making it the design of preparation of an initiative measure:

"* * * prior to circulating any petition for signatures thereon to submit a draft of said petition to the Attorney General with a request that he prepare a title and summary of the said petition and measure, and proposed measure. Such title and summary shall constitute the petition to the board of title commissioners for the preparation of ballot titles in paragraph 1 of section 1197 of the Political Code. Said title and summary shall not exceed 100 words in all."

In 1922, the first and third sentences of this last cited section of the Political Code were, in almost identical language, included in the Constitution.

We thus see that from the beginning of the history of our measures, the Constitution made a distinction between the title and text of proposed measures, and the laws enacted pursuant to our Constitution distinguished between the ballot title and the legislative title. It is clear from the provisions of the third paragraph of section 1 of Article IV, quoted above, that an initiative measure in the year 1922 we are discussing here, when it reaches the Legislature must be treated as any legislative bill.

The case of Williams vs. Freeman, 204 Cal. 185, is noteworthy for the reasoning that an initiative measure proposing a law is to be treated as any other proposed law. Said Mr. Justice Preston in an opinion in which the whole court concurred:

"We do not recognize an initiative measure as having any greater strength or dignity than attaches to any other legislation."

The question is that case related to the sentence of the title under section 24 of Article IV, and subject to be expressed in the title of the Constitution and the court remarked:

"It may be said in passing that section 1197a of the Political Code throws no light upon the question before us, as this act could not have been intended to dispense with this requirement as in 1914."

While the question at issue in that case did not involve the present question being considered here, the inferences from the language at the start in its argument are plain and inescapable.

While the practice of sponsors of initiative acts is certainly not in unison with it, it does afford evidence of contemporary interpretation of the provisions of the law concerning such measures. During the period since the adoption of the initiative amendment to the Constitution in 1911 to the present date, 49 initiative acts have been presented to the people for adoption or rejection. An examination of the ballot pamphlets for this period discloses that the sponsors of all but six of these acts have felt constrained to place "legislative titles" preceding the proposed laws. The six acts which did not bear such titles are all among those measures which were reported by the people, and therefore did not go before the courts for construction. All six acts appear in the ballot pamphlets prior to the adoption of amendment to section 1 of Article IV in 1932. Each of the three initiative acts appearing in the ballot pamphlets since 1932 bears a legislative title.

All of the cases that we have examined indicate that legislation proposed by the initiative is generally subject to all of the restrictions of the Constitution affecting laws enacted by the Legislature except in so far as the initiative provisions of the Constitution expressly provide otherwise. The same principle has been applied in the case of county and city initiative ordinances.

In the case of Myers vs. Stingham, et al., 195 Cal. 672, the court declared that where a city charter provides that no ordinance shall be revised, reenacted or amended by reference to its title only but shall be set forth and adopted in the method provided for the adoption of ordinances, this charter provision applies equally to ordinances proposed by initiative.

That an ordinance can not be validly adopted by initiative if it would be void if enacted by a city council is sustained by Harnett vs. County of Sacramento, 195 Cal. 676, and State ex rel. Davies vs. White (Nev.), 136 Pac. 110, 50 L.R.A. (N.S.) 195.

In State ex rel. Seymour vs. Superior Court (Wash.), 12 Pac. 2d 394, the court refers to the "legislative title" of an initiative measure to determine the intent of an act, and also refers to the "ballot title". In the State of Washington, where that case arose, the statutes provide for the preparation by the Attorney General of an impartial 100-word ballot title prior to the circulation of the petition. This ballot title is required to be set forth in the initiative petition and may be distinct from the legislative title of the measure.

The laws of that State provide further that the Secretary of State shall include in the ballot pamphlet, the ballot title, the legislative title, and the full text of each measure to be submitted to the people.

The conclusion flows naturally and inescapably from the plain and unequivocal language of the third and ninth paragraphs of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, from the history of our legislation affecting initiative measures and ballot title, from the practice of our executive and legislative officers in such matters, contemporary interpretation by sponsors of initiative measures, and every judicial decision which bears directly or indirectly upon any phase of the initiative.

That the initiative petition under discussion furnishes no legislative title to the purported law which it presents to the Legislature, and that therefore this measure can not be dealt with as a proposed law.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel.

IN JOINT CONVENTION.

SACRAMENTO, Thursday, January 14, 1937.

At two o'clock and thirty minutes p.m., the Senate and Assembly met in Joint Convention.

Budget Message of Governor Frank F. Merriam as Delivered to the Senate and Assembly of California in Joint Assembly at Sacramento, Thursday, January 14, 1937.

To the Members of the California Senate and Assembly.

It is my pleasant duty again to welcome the Legislature to Sacramento, and again to extend with hearty good wishes the full cooperation of my office in your service to the people of California.

Two years have passed since the State Legislature convened here in regular session; two years of progress and constructive accomplishment; two years that have witnessed a steady advance from conditions of deep economic depression.

When the Legislature met here two years ago our main purpose not only was to provide for the ordinary and regular needs of the State, but was to discover and apply workable methods for meeting an economic emergency.

At this time, our common endeavors should principally be directed to the preservation and extension of benefits derived from the administrative program submitted and approved two years ago.

As a result of the operation of that program to date I am happy to report the following outstanding facts:

First. The State Government of California is operating on a balanced budget that includes all items for the regular functions of State Government, and also embraces an appropriation of $48,000,000 for unemployment relief. The expenditures of all State agencies have been maintained within the limits of State income.

Second. The 1935-37 deficit, which was estimated as high as $77,000,000 when the Legislature adjourned two years ago, and which included such items as $19,000,000 inherited from the preceding biennium, and $48,000,000 for unemployment relief, has been reduced to a total approximating $18,000,000. In other words, this administration has avoided a deficit on its own account and has reduced by about $1,000,000 the carry-over deficit.

Third. My budget recommendations for the biennium of 1937-1939 are based on the needs of the State and the prospective revenues for the two-year period, and they contemplate the wiping out of the present deficit within two years.

Fourth. If the Legislature does not approve expenditures and appropriations in excess of budgeted items, the people of California two years hence not only will have a State Government operating well within governmental income, but will have a substantial surplus which we now estimate will exceed $21,000,000.

Fifth. When the existing tax schedules and revenue measures were laid before the Legislature during the session of 1935, it was assumed, on the basis of information then available, that the program recommended would be adequate to meet all ordinary and necessary expenses of government. Experience has shown that our estimates of probable revenue were, in most cases, conservative, and that such estimates have been under actual returns occasioned by a general and consistent recovery of agricultural, business and industrial operations in California and elsewhere in the Nation.

No New Taxes.

Sixth. That this fortunate trend will continue without undue abatement we have strong reason to believe and I, therefore, recommend that no new taxes be assessed, and that the existing tax program and schedules be retained unchanged for another two years. To abandon a program that has, on the whole, proven equitable, sound and satisfactory, and adopt a new plan at this time might completely reverse the excellent situation now existing and again precipitate State finances into a perplexing and costly muddle.

All groups in our population will welcome a guarantee that no new taxes will be levied by the State. It is a guarantee which could not be made two years ago. Its ratification by the Legislature at this session will constitute definite and positive evidence both of the progress of economic recovery and of the economical management of State affairs.

Accomplishment of the excellent condition of the State's finances has been made possible by two fundamental factors, the first being the rapid improvement in business, and the second to constant exercise of rigid economy in every branch of the government to which the administration's policies could be extended. Needless to explain, except for the loyal and self-sacrificing cooperation of State officers and employees, this policy could not have been carried out with any degree of success.

Economy, during the last two years, has been an ever-present necessity—a necessity which continues, despite improving prospects. Furthermore, should our improving economic situation encourage us to even greater optimism with regard to expanding business conditions and a subsequent increase in revenue beyond present estimates, I regard governmental economy as a virtue to be practiced at all times in order that the taxpayer may be saved any and all unnecessary burdens and costs.

By spending less than we collect, by saving all that we can, by increasing efficiency without unnecessarily adding to expenses, we shall eventually take the next great step in a return to the normal functions of good government is reduction in taxation.

Budget Kept to Minimum.

Examination of budgeted items recommended for the next biennium will show that with very few exceptions the recommended appropriations submitted to the Governor's authority do not exceed amounts appropriated for the present session. Such increases as do appear are for the most part necessitated by added charges and by recurring outlays of public moneys.

The task which the Legislature and the Governor are invited hereby to perform affords no occasion for the question of political partisanship as far as objective other than the advancement of general public welfare.

It is upon such a premise that I submit this budget and my own consideration of the recommendations contained therein. You may only upon my ready assistance in any matter which involves individually, or the legislative body, the Governor may bring to my attention.

Appropriations for the various State institutions have proved necessary to maintain requirements in most instances. It is almost impossible to meet this while the State has not neglected its charges, the need for additional training facilities, and for other improvements, presents a real and serious problem.

It has been necessary to provide additional facilities for public institutions, primarily for State hospitals, where the average patient for the year 1936. It is estimated that this increase for the coming biennium will be not less than 7 per cent.

State Building Program.

At the Veterans' Home, the increase in population will bring the membership to a maximum capacity of 1500. An appropriation of $449,000 for major construction at the Veterans' Home is recommended. This building program, among other things, will permit the replacement of one of the old and greatly improving buildings.

The construction program proposed for the coming biennium is embodied in recommendations for a total appropriation of $2,000,000 for major construction. For such construction during the current biennium an appropriation of $1,095,750 was made available.

In 1935 there was presented to the people a bond issue for the improvement of State hospital buildings and additions to State Capitol and State office buildings. Refusal of the voters to approve this bond issue brought the proposition and the new buildings and improvements and to the issue of permanent, adequate facilities in many of our institutions may be disregarded for the time being, but it is believed that the people prefer a "pay-as-you-go" plan in the construction of present State buildings.

Construction of two steel and concrete, four-story buildings on sites on the intersection of Twelfth and N Street, Sacramento, has been made possible through funds of the Department of Public Works and the Department of Motor Vehicles. The cost of each building will be amortized over a period of years through rental which each department would have been required to pay in quarters during the present and expiring terms. At the end of five years each construction will have returned to the respective fund the monies advanced for the construction. In each case the rental is computed at a lower rate per square foot than of value-wise available.

New State Prison.

In keeping with the Legislature's authorization for purchase of a site for construction of a prison in southern California for various types of criminals, including proceedings for the commission of a crime of blood, State Prison, in San Bernardino County, have been authorized by the Attorney General.

The site selected was chosen after a careful survey of many locations. It was not offered for sale by the owners, and in subsequent negotiations leading to purchase of the property it was decided that the best interests of the State would be served by condemnation proceedings.

The Federal Government has been asked to contribute funds for the construction of this new prison, and it is probable that a Federal grant will be given the State of California. If such Federal funds are granted during the present session of the Legislature I shall ask for the appropriation of a necessary sum from State revenues.

Budget recommendations for maintenance of existing prisons are far less than over appropriations for the present biennium.

Unemployment Relief.

The unemployment relief program adopted by the State of California and carried out in harmonious cooperation with the Federal Government has demonstrated its sound value. There are indications that assimilation of unemployed men and women by private business will progressively increase during the coming biennium, but the necessity for providing against a slowing down in this general return to normal conditions impels me to recommend an appropriation of $48,000,000 to meet the unemployment situation in California for the period ending June 30, 1939. It is hoped that conditions will be such that the expenditure of this entire sum will not be required.

Because it is evident that the movement of unemployed and indigent transients into this State will not materially decrease during the next two years, and as it is likewise evident that the interstate migrations of such persons is essentially a national and not a State problem, the Legislature of California has been requested to ask the President and the Congress to make provision for reimbursing the States for the care of such transients. It is desirable from the standpoint of efficient administration that the National Government take over this problem and administer it exclusively as a Federal responsibility.

Briefly, the history of unemployment relief in California began with a work program provided by the counties and operated with funds supplied both from local sources and from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

In June, 1933, the people approved a bond issue of $20,000,000 as submitted by the Legislature. This money was loaned to the several counties under supervision of the State Emergency Relief Administration.

During a period of months extending from November, 1933, to March, 1934, the Federal Civil Works Administration provided employment for 160,000 persons in California, and the State Relief Administration confined its activities to residue and special functions.

Between March and December, 1934, the State Emergency Relief Administration developed a work relief program as an operating responsibility and activity of the State. During this time, only a portion of the unemployed could be provided with work relief, and the balance was given direct relief by the counties with the aid of Federal grants made through the State of California from the Federal Emergency Relief Administration upon application by the Governor.

The $20,000,000 bond issue was exhausted during 1934, and at a special session of the Legislature in September, 1934, a $24,000,000 bond issue, to be a direct charge against State revenues, was submitted to and approved by the electorate in November, 1934. By December 1, 1934, the State Emergency Relief Administration had assumed the full responsibility for care of all of the employable unemployed. From this point on, the cost of this activity was borne directly by the State with the assistance of Federal grants and without any financial participation by county or other local governments.

General Description of Activities.

From December 1, 1934, to December 31, 1935, the Relief Administration received substantial grants of Federal funds and operated under Federal policy and regulation. Although the Federal grants were made to the Governor and mixed with State funds in the State Treasury, the State of California cooperated fully with the Federal Government and wholeheartedly followed the policies and procedures of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

The number of persons working out their relief on projects sponsored by various governmental agencies reached a total of approximately 185,000 in March, 1935. The portion of the caseload which could not be provided with work received direct relief and during the time of the operation of the work program an average of approximately half of the relief recipients was provided with project employment.

At the end of February, 1935, the number of families and single persons receiving relief reached a peak of 275,000, or a total of approximately 875,000 persons.

The organization of the Federal Works Progress Administration as a separate Federal employment activity was commenced in July, 1935. Employment under this program began in the latter part of August and by the end of February, 1936, WPA and other special security wage employment activities of the Federal Government reached a peak employment of 160,000 persons. Since then, the number employed has been gradually reduced and on December 1, 1936, approximately 120,000 former relief recipients were employed on all of the Federal work programs. The WPA quota had been reduced to 104,450 and the number employed under this major security wage activity was approximately 101,000.

Federal grants to the State of California for unemployment relief were discontinued effective December 31, 1935, by reason of the direct operation of the Federal work program. An original WPA quota of between 170,000 and 180,000 was expected. The program was reduced, however, without the anticipated number being employed and for this reason, a direct relief caseload remained as the responsibility of the State through the Relief Administration.

Since the discontinuance of the work program of the Relief Administration in August, 1935, because of the inauguration of the employment program of the Works Progress Administration, the principal activity of the administration has been the disbursing of direct relief to needy employable families and single persons. An effort has been made to extend the most adequate relief possible compatible with the resources of the State and at the same time to perfect methods of operation which would insure the extension of relief only on the basis of absolute need and unquestioned eligibility.

In 1933, eighteen states provided more liberal relief budgets than California. In 1935 only New York State provided a higher family budget than California.

Total relief administration expenditures of both the Federal and State funds for the most recent 24 months ending November 30, 1936, are as follows:

	12 mos. ending Nov. 30, 1935	12 mos. ending Nov. 30, 1936	Total
Relief -----	$108,315,028	$22,022,799	$130,337,827
Project supervision, materials and supplies	8,100,754	111,846	8,212,600
Administration	15,547,180	4,719,844	20,267,024
Total cost -----	$111,962,962	$26,853,689	$138,816,651

At the present time, the average expenditure for relief and administration per case per month is between $40 and $45. The expenditures for various of this category including certification work for the Works Progress Administration and the handling of relief applications was 16 per cent for November. Even though the agency must find under care by the relief administration on November 30th over 20,000 blind and service responsibilities of various kinds are needed to the extent completely unimproved level of approximately 100,000 under active care.

In a number of instances a few of these following have been considered to have been budgets on relief work carried on by the various relief agencies are shown additional cost to the relief administration. A general relief program is needed on a social basis, costs from $10,000 to $20,000 per month per thousand persons employed for administration and supervision purposes at minimum. Although work in action for relief is difficult and complicated, some of the agencies are used the State does not have the funds with which to go beyond reasonably adequate direct relief.

The Federal Government is diminishing its security wage program and the Works Progress Administration funds have been reduced to 100,000 dollars, January 1st and there is some doubt as to whether there will be additional funds available to employ this number until Congress has acted to provide additional funds. If the Works Progress Administration reduces its budget to 100,000 dollars during January, February and March, the estimated Relief Administration program is $10,000 in January, $15,000 on February 28th, and $15,000 on March 31st. If the Works Progress Administration reduces its 100,000 dollars in cash from $14,000 to $14,000, 000 available to the State Relief Administration in January 1st will be sufficient.

Aid for the Aged, Blind, Children

Detailed figures setting forth the State's payments for the blind, aged, the blind, and for the support of needy children, since their confinement in and leaving the try in all of these divisions of public support.

Including contributions by the State of California, the Federal Government, and the 58 counties of this State, more than $71,000,000 in expenditures of this kind under the Old Age Security Act during the biennium of 1937-1938. This sum when compared with the total of $9,400,000 paid under the act by the Federal and counties during the period from July 1, 1935, to June 30, 1936, represents a tremendous increase in such aid to needy and aged persons in California.

Liberalization of the California Old Age Security Act has increased the State's payments for aid to the needy aged by roughly $12,000,000 in one biennium period. This amount is entirely exclusive of old age payments which the State has designed as an agent of the Federal Government under Title I of the Social Security Act. During the 1933-1935 biennium the State paid about $4,500,000 in the support of an average of 18,000 persons who were 70 years of age or over and who had resided in this State at least 15 years. During the 1937-1938 biennium the State Government alone will pay approximately $19,700,000 in an authorized average of 40,000 needy aged who have reached the age of 65 and have lived in California at least five years. A similar contribution will be made by California's 58 counties, which $21,900,000 will be added by the Federal Government on the basis of present legislation.

The latest available figures from the Federal Social Security Board, recorded on November 25, 1936, relative to old age beneficiaries in the various States, indicate that California heads the list of all the States in its payments for aid to the aged. The average payment per person for California is $41.45 per month, while the average for the Nation is $18.50.

While the State Government will pay more to aid the aged during the coming biennium than during the present period, the contributions in support of needy blind and children will drop $2,200,000 as a result of Federal participation in this field of governmental activity. During 1937-1938 the State will assist in the care of 5000 needy blind persons with an estimated total of $1,275,000. It will provide further assistance for over 20,000 persons and other needy children with an expenditure of $4,618,000. In each case an additional payment will be made by the counties and Federal Government. California's needy blind will receive a total of $4,200,000 in assistance from the Government during the next biennium, as compared with $3,485,000 in 1935-37, and $2,400,000 in the 1933-1935 biennium.

Similarly, needy children will be supported with governmental assistance of approximately $9,000,000 during the coming biennium, as compared with $8,000,000 this biennial period, and $7,200,000 in 1933-1935.

Department of Employment.

The 1935 session of the Legislature enacted the California Unemployment Reserves Act and created the State Department of Employment. The primary objective of the law is to make California "a part of a National plan of unemployment reserves and social security, and for the purpose of assisting in the stabilization of unemployment conditions."

Beginning January 1, 1936, the statute requires employers and employees within specified brackets to pay a percentage of all subject wages into a trust fund for creation of a reserve out of which unemployment benefits will be paid to qualified employees who may become unemployed after January 1, 1938. The contribution rates are as follows:

Employee	Employer
1938 (and thereafter) 1.00	2.70

During 1936, 17,000 employers have been registered subject to the California law, having in their employ 1,200,000 wage earners. The combined contributions of these employers and employees during 1936 will approximate $15,000,000. Already $11,000,000 has been received by the department, $8,000,000 of which has been deposited with the unemployment trust fund in the United States Treasury. It is expected that $20,000,000 will accrue to the fund during 1937 and $50,000,000 during 1938.

The payment of benefits to employees out of the fund is predicated on a ratio of one week of benefit for each four weeks of wage contributions into the reserve trust fund. The scale of benefits to be paid ranges from $7 to $15 per week.

NOT ONE CENT OF MONIES ACCRUING TO THE FUND IN CALIFORNIA CAN BE USED FOR ANY PURPOSE EXCEPT THE PAYMENT OF BENEFITS IN CALIFORNIA

The department is divided into two field functional divisions—

1. Unemployment Compensation.
2. Employment Placement Service.

The Employment Placement Service is financed from two sources: Legislative appropriation made available by the State, and by Federal moneys provided through terms of the Wagner-Peyser Act. This law passed by the Congress of the United States, is entitled, "An act to provide for the establishment of a National employment system and for cooperation with the States in the promotion of such system." Accordingly the United States Employment Service matches each dollar California provides for this purpose. The budget proposed for this function during the ensuing biennium contemplates a service in keeping with the National standards. The achievement record of the service clearly indicates that it has paid substantial dividends to our State during the current biennium.

During the calendar year of 1936 alone, 249,593 persons have been placed in employment in this State as a direct result of the activities of this service. This figure does not include placements on relief work projects which amounted to more than 80,000. The placements during 1936 exceeded those of 1935 by 89.4 per cent. Registration of applicants for 1936 reached a total of 281,466. The current active file, representing qualified persons who have been vocationally classified, embraces 170,741 applicants as of December 31, 1936. The placements of our service in California have consistently led the Nation.

All other administrative expenses of the Department of Employment are borne by the Federal Government through direct grants from the Social Security Board. In this respect the department is a self-supporting agency. The budget submitted by the commission in this connection can only be approximate as no precedent exists for comparison in its making.

The Social Security Board grants administrative allotments on a quarterly basis in accordance with approved operating needs and subject to the control procedure and constitutional provisions of California.

After one year of careful observation and study of procedure, the California Unemployment Reserves Commission, the administrative authority for the State Department of Employment, has prepared amendments to the act having for their purpose simplicity and economy of operations.

Highways.

The development of the highway transportation system of the State in which are included all public roads and particularly the State highways, because they constitute the major portion of the main traffic arteries, has contributed immensely to the welfare and progress of the State. Since the beginning in 1912 of active improvement, the State highway system has grown and has been developed into a vast network of improved highways covering all parts of the State, giving access to the communities and to the developed agricultural and recreational areas.

This has required large expenditures. It has meant the undertaking of large projects costing millions of dollars, such projects as the Feather River Highway, the Carmel-San Simeon Highway, the Coast Road from Santa Monica to Oxnard, the Ridge Route from Los Angeles to Bakersfield and many others.

However, we are still faced with a serious problem in highway construction. Hundreds of miles of our main trunk lines must be increased, expanded in capacity and further improved to meet the requirements of the ever increasing traffic volume.

The secondary roads leading to recreational areas, serving many smaller communities and providing more adequate means of access to areas devoted to agriculture and development of natural resources, should be improved.

Additional safety should be built into our highways to reduce the mounting number of accidents. Improved roadways, separation of vehicles and bicyclists and intersections, lighting and wider pavements, and are means of securing additional protection against harmful to the road user.

The improvement of our primary and secondary State Highway and the construction of safety measures require all of the funds which are contributed to the road user. It means a continued contribution of new and old funds for highway purposes.

The Bay Bridges.

The San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge has been successfully opened for traffic and is in successful operation. This bridge is another one of the greatest engineering and construction projects known. The approach to this structure have been financed at a cost of $10,000,000 from funds derived from various sources.

The Golden Gate Bridge, now nearing completion, will be opened to traffic within a few months. Construction of approaches to this structure are likewise being financed from gasoline tax funds.

Central Valley Water Project

The Central Valley Water Project is the most important single enterprise under way at the present time. It has three sources of aid from the great Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys and the great San Francisco Bay area and is the main State and to the Nation as well. Through this project the waters of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers will be regulated and controlled and made available for many purposes. Flood control will be secured, irrigation water will be made available to the fertile valleys, there will be controlling and control so that our present development of the valley will be continued through future years can continue to produce enormous crops of high value so that the fertile new lands will be no longer necessary to the farmers of our own state. Our bay, industrial and urban centers and agricultural lands as well as the lands to be freed with less and retrogression due to water shortage. The aim is to directly benefit by the project is some four million people in 40 busy years, according to Redding on the north in Bakersfield on the south. Surely a million population and a highly developed civilization with cities and towns are directly related to and dependent upon the continuation of agricultural and industrial production and prosperity.

The furtherance of this project has received direct attention and endeavor throughout my administration. My efforts and those of the State Department, namely the Water Project Authority of the State of California which is the administrative agency in charge of the Central Valley Water Project, have been directed chiefly to obtaining the cooperation and financial assistance of the Federal Government with the result that it has assured the entire responsibility for the project. It is gratifying to report that careful attention and consideration of different funds to start construction have been made. Efforts will be continued for the purpose of securing additional appropriations and authorizations by Congress at the present session so that the construction of the project can be commenced at the earliest possible date.

San Francisco Harbor.

With respect to the administrative operations by the State Board of Harbor Commissioners, it has been possible, in addition to the payment of all other expenses including bond interest, and also to the loss sustained by the stock, amounting to $2,000 a day, to decrease $660,000 in the sinking fund account for the purpose of retiring the funded debt.

Operating economies instituted by the board resulted in a decrease of $295,000 in expenditures for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936 as compared with the previous fiscal year.

The average number of employees on the pay roll of the Board of State Harbor Commissioners for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, was 429, which was 106 less than the number on the pay roll for the previous fiscal year. This resulted in a reduction of $165,000 in the annual pay roll.

The cash balance in the San Francisco Harbor Improvement fund available for the replacement and rehabilitation of the facilities of the port, amounted to $1,576,000 on June 30, 1936, or an increase of $205,000 over the amount in this fund on June 30, 1935.

Architecture.

The Division of Architecture, functioning since 1907, cares for all construction work at the various State institutions; also regulates, inspects and supervises the construction of public buildings in the State.

During this biennium the division will have completed or have under contract building construction amounting to approximately $6,875,000, the major portion of which is for State hospitalization.

The division during the last four years also has approved plans and specifications for 1887 school construction projects, having an estimated construction cost of $84,000,000. In addition, examination and reports have been made and completed on 969 existing school projects.

Civil Service.

The State Personnel Board was created two years ago by an initiative constitutional amendment which strengthened the merit system and extended it to include under Civil Service some 5000 positions previously exempt. The total number of persons under Civil Service is approximately 20,000. This enlarged scope of activity and increased opportunities for Civil Service employment have combined to increase the work of the State Personnel Board. Additional responsibilities incidental to the classification of positions, the holding of examinations, and more recently meeting problems of turnover due to improved economic conditions, have caused expansion in the staff.

Since the Constitution limits to six months the time during which positions may be filled by non-Civil Service employees, it is imperative that eligible lists be maintained for all classes to prevent the stoppage of essential public function.

Even if it were not necessary that the personnel agency be adequately financed as a matter of legal necessity, I would still recommend such support because I am convinced that a proper personnel program based upon the merit principle is an effective force for economy and efficiency.

The personnel agency, through cooperation with budget authorities, may do much to eliminate useless expenditures. The examination process measures the qualifications of the candidates for employment and affords a method of selection that has proved more effective than other methods. As a result, we have better morale, which in itself is valuable.

The task of the personnel agency can be measured by the fact that in the last biennium about 200,000 applicants have been examined, and the certifying of eligibles to vacancies has increased to the point where former peak loads are now regarded as normal. This condition will continue and be magnified because the salary advantages offered by private employment have begun to draw many workers from the service.

Much administrative confusion and expensive litigation has resulted from the inadequacies and ambiguities of the Civil Service Act. I recommend a revision of the law to correct this condition.

We note that in the record of public administration, the California State personnel agency is regarded as one of the three outstanding in the Nation.

Salary Increases for State Personnel.

Attention has been given to the general subject of salary ratings for all personnel in the State service, resulting in adjustments which have brought more 1000 State workers into the minimum salary brackets. In some departments not having revenues sufficient to justify increases, approximately 100 workers continue to receive less than the minimum salary provided in their classifications.

Adjustments also have been made in most cases where inequities exist, and further studies are being made for the purpose of determining the need for additional increases, particular attention being given to those in the lower salary brackets.

Audit of State Agencies.

For more than a decade, due to a number of causes, principally insufficient revenues, appropriations have not been sufficient for an auditing staff adequate to carry out requirements of the law providing for annual audit of every State agency. The general fund deficit in 1935 was such that funds necessary to proper auditing of State departments were not provided.

I am happy to report, however, that we found it possible to make funds available to the Department of Finance from the emergency fund and that as a result of the increased auditing work thus undertaken the requirements of the law have been more nearly met during the last year than at any time during the last 20 years. An amount sufficient to provide complete annual audits for 1937 and 1938 has been included in the budget.

In addition, when the Assembly Interim Committee on Auditing discovered that lack of funds threatened to handicap or terminate the committee's investigations, $20,000 was made available to the committee from the Governor's secret service fund.

Constitutional Convention.

By concurrent resolution in 1933, the Legislature submitted to the people a proposal calling for a convention to revise the California State Constitution. The question appeared on the ballot at the general election held November 6, 1934 and was approved by the electorate. The vote was, "Yes," 705,915, and "NO," 665,080.

Carrying out provisions of the measure so approved by the people, I issued on January 14, 1935, a proclamation announcing that such convention shall forthwith be called.

Bills providing machinery for calling and holding the convention were introduced at the 1935 session, both in the Assembly, where a proposed measure by Assemblyman Latham failed of passage, and in the Senate, where a measure, promptly sponsored by Senators Daniel S. Brown, Samuel S. May, Pleasant S. Perkins and Remondollar, was not acted upon.

This matter is again called to the attention of the Legislature for consideration and disposition.

Interstate Cooperation.

Growing out of mutual problems and needs, some of the States in the Union have entered into compacts between themselves and for the purpose have formed Commissions on Interstate Cooperation.

Such State agencies have been established principally to aid the States in the prevention, control and punishment of crime. An interstate compact has been entered into, subject to approval by the several legislatures, by the States of Kansas, New Mexico, Wyoming and California and I shall again mention in the Assembly of California a copy of the compact which would give cooperative action in law enforcement together with a series of an act of Congress granting criminal to the States to enter into interstate agreements.

It is my conviction that public security would be greatly aided through the adoption of an interstate compact between California and neighboring States, particularly between this State and Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Nevada, and Arizona, and I suggest a grant of authority necessary relating to the application of criminal law.

Through such cooperation between the States, criminal activity may be better curtailed, and the apprehension, prosecution and punishment of criminals can be made more expeditious and certain.

In Lieu Tax.

Experience having proven the greater efficiency of registering the State of its in lieu tax on motor vehicles over the percentage method of both assessment and collection, reenactment of this law is recommended.

The record shows not only that a greater percent has been paid under the registration system inaugurated by the State, but that motor vehicle owners have benefited by a reduction in taxation on this form of property.

State Oil Drilling Leases.

Favorable action by the Senate and Assembly is recommended in the matter of proposed legislation to enable the people of California to permit some untapped oil deposits.

Under adequate safeguards they will permit the Board of Finance to adopt a program assuring the highest returns to the State. It is proposed that the State of California grant oil-drilling leases to prospective lessees under a system of competitive bidding, or, if such bids show possibilities, that the State itself lease land to drill wells. Estimates of the value of oil deposits at Huntington Beach were, for the Huntington Field is a proven one, and the amount to be derived by the State from proposed operations probably would amount to many millions of dollars over a period of years.

The people themselves reflected at the 1936 general election a proposal for private drilling in the State would be used in the Huntington Beach area. This action by the voters immediately was caused by the small royalties that would have accrued to the State Treasury. Under the terms of the legislation submitted for your consideration, returns to the State will be on a basis commensurate with the value of the oil deposits involved.

Special Messages.

There are many other questions and problems facing the State Government and the people of California which are not discussed in this Budget Message. As occasion arises I shall send additional messages to the Legislature with such recommendations or comments as may be deemed advisable.

Department of Finance.

It is appropriate in this message particularly to call attention to the exceptional efficiency of the Department of Finance under Director Aron E. Strickmeyer, whose outstanding accomplishments in budgetary administration has won National recognition and commendation. The budget herewith presented is the most comprehensive ever submitted to a California Legislature. It shows a more detailed analysis of departmental finances than heretofore submitted and is more readily interpreted through the introduction of a large number of charts and graphs.

Budget In Two Volumes.

The budget for the ensuing biennium is presented in two volumes; the State budget is not alone a program of expenditures for State purposes. It also includes disbursements for, or payments to, local municipal and county governments.

More than 52 per cent of the budget submitted herewith, a total sum in excess of $233,000,000, is allocated to counties, cities and other local districts. Hence, expenditures for essentially State purposes are presented in one volume, and payments to local governments in a second volume.

Volume I of the budget contains the detailed expenditure program of all State departments, commissions, and other State governmental activities. It also contains tables and statements summarizing all revenues and expenses of the State.

Volume II contains summaries and detailed statements of payments and grants to local governments.

Respectfully submitted.

FRANK F. MERRIAM, Governor of California.

Directing an investigation and report upon acquisition of the toll bridge across Carquinez Strait.

Privilege of Floor of Senate Extended.

On request of Senator Fletcher, the privilege of the floor of the Senate Chamber for this day was unanimously extended to Captain W. C. Crandall of La Jolla and H. G. Larrick of Salsola Beach.

Remarks.

The following remarks, offered by Senator McCall, were ordered printed in the Journal:

On last Thursday, my good friend Senator McCall made excellent and interesting remarks. I had made on January 7th, during a discussion of the proposed Revenue Bond Bill. He told me a short conversation there, a short conversation appearing in the Senate Record of January 8, is not enough.

I admit making statements to the effect that we withdrew of my good friend Senator McCall, in connection with certain activities of his constituents, and unfortunately received instructions in the company of one of the Central Valley Project. From the beginning, I remember, I cannot come to the Central Valley Project development.

I am indeed sorry that the Senator has been so to limit the issue through a cloak of personalities. I assure you that my statements for my constituents' safety to get things done, not by any means and enough to it is possible. I have and have no intention of entering in personalities.

I recall when the proposition of the Central Valley Project Act was introduced to the Senate on December 29, 1933, that the Senator's general statement of construction within 90 days. But not recorded as a part of the journal, especially the following:

"Said Central Valley Project as herein authorized, shall consist of the following units:

- (1) A high, reservoir and hydroelectric power plant, on plans, with necessary appurtenances, and engineering equipment, located at the Sacramento River, at or near Kennett, Shasta County, California.

I have long recognized the Senator's honest interest in the dam, for you present as originally conceived, and I realize generally for the 30 days and the 90 days have become three years. It became known that the Central Valley Project as a State project was not to be. When it took on a Federal character and other dam sites were being considered, the great idea of the Senator as he remarks suggested, became motivating. From the Senator's action in the matter of last Thursday.

Many of these people are within the reach for the delay, uncommenced delay, as most believe, inevitable consequence.

I am one of those persons. The Central Valley Project, as I have noted, and to which Senator the Senator has been opposed to his remarks on the Thursday is of far greater importance than anything that anything else can give us for suggesting even of greater importance than what is necessary to us. The honor, reputation, a personal matter, it may then meet. The project is of supreme importance to the people of the San Joaquin Valley, the Delta, and the people of the whole Sacramento Valley. You do it at something to the people of the entire Nation, for those latter people have lost at least the great future.

Are we not therefore, entitled to insure when this project is not now further advanced than it is?

The Federal authorities have considered as alternatives of dam sites at Reed and a dam site at Table Mountain in addition to what was in my opinion in 1933 designated as the units of the Central Valley Project. When these further possibilities are being explored, delay comes the value of the dam. Senator McCall claims for himself good reasons in the Central Valley Project. I cannot see Senator's activities. His great activity of most critics is reasonably. Delay is evident.

When the Senator states, "I am for the Central Valley Project as a whole," I have reason to believe that he refers to the Central Valley Project Act of 1933, in which appears nothing with regard to other possible dam sites at Table Mountain and Baird.

I spoke a moment ago of the general importance of the project to the people of the United States. I am for the Central Valley Project, and not to the utmost of my ability. I want to see a dam passed when it will accomplish the purpose of the Central Valley Project and be so in the most economical manner and to the interests of the taxpayers and those benefited by its construction. If a dam at Kennett will accomplish this, I am for it. If a dam at Reed accomplishes this purpose, I am for it. If a dam at Table Mountain does this, I am for it. I am for the dam at the place where it accomplishes its purpose at the least possible expense. I do not believe that any man should merit this inalienable right to have the interest of his home community at heart" or "his hope for benefit to his home community," stand in the way of immediate construction of the Central Valley Project. It so happens that the Table Mountain site is in my county. Yet, if it will not accomplish the purpose of the Central Valley Project Act, or if it is not the most economical, I will by my every act and word try to speed up the building of the dam at the site which will accomplish this purpose. I had hoped that my good friend Senator McColl might have expressed like sentiments, freed from surplus words and personalities.

In closing, I wish to assure the Senator that his suggestion that I might be under the influence of the power trust is, as he himself in effect admits, as ridiculous as the suggestions I have heard that the Senator is under the influence of the Southern Pacific Company and the construction material men who hope to profit by the construction at Kennett.

In as far as the Senator obviously desired to end this discussion in the interests of his honor and reputation, as he puts it, I shall forego revealing those reports which had come to me and to which I had reference in my remarks at the discussion of the proposed Revenue Bond Bills. As I have stated, the people of the Central valleys have waited over three years for commencement of construction of the great project: I do not believe the Senator can complain of six days delay in the construction of my remarks.

I am satisfied to permit the Senator to show by his further activity and public statements that he is quite as keenly for Table Mountain or Baird as he is for Kennett, if either of such sites are deemed most feasible and economical, and I await the Senator's straightforward statement to that effect with the keenest anticipation.

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, JANUARY 18, 1937

MR. PRESIDENT: Your Committee on Rules, to which was referred certain Initiative measures relating to Fish Control and which added a new section to the Fish and Game Code to the State of California, to be known as section 1110:

The People of the State of California do enact as follows:

The Fish and Game Code of the State of California is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to be known as 1110 and to read as follows:

1110—No person shall use or operate or assist in using or operating in this State or the waters thereof, any boat or vessel used in connection with fishing operations irrespective of its home port or port of registration, which fishing boat or vessel delivers or by which there is delivered to any point or place other than within this state any fish, mollusks or crustaceans which are caught, in, or taken aboard said boat or vessel from, the waters of the Pacific Ocean within this state or on the high seas or elsewhere, unless a permit authorizing the same shall have been issued by the Fish and Game Commission.

Where it appears to the Commission that such permit will not tend to prevent, impede or obstruct the operation, enforcement or administration of this code or any provision thereof, and will not tend to result in fish, mollusks or crustaceans in the waters of this state being taken or used otherwise than is authorized by this code, the Commission may issue revocable permits under such rules and regulations and upon such terms and conditions as it may prescribe, to deliver fish, mollusks or crustaceans by the use of such boat or vessel outside of this state, provided that nothing herein shall authorize the transportation or carrying out of this state or any district thereof, of any fish, mollusks or crustaceans where the same is prohibited by law, and no permit shall be issued which may tend to deplete any species of fish, mollusk or crustacean, or result in waste thereof. Any person who uses or operates or assists in using or operating any boat or vessel or equipment of the contents of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor and such boat or vessel and the gear or other equipment of said boat or vessel is a public nuisance and shall be forfeited. It is the duty of every person authorized to make an arrest by the violation of any of the provisions of this code or code and being with the vessel, net, gear or other equipment used to commit such offense in the Commission. The Commission shall thereupon recommend, on the expiration of the county or city and county or county or county in which the offense is made, proceedings for forfeiture of the vessel, gear or net or the contents of this section, and such proceedings shall be had by the county and according to the procedure prescribed in section 145 of this code, but the Commission of such has had the same under consideration and respectfully requests the passage without recommendation.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

PROCEDURE REGARDING PROPOSED LAW AMENDING FISH AND GAME CODE SUBMITTED BY INITIATIVE PETITION TO THE LEGISLATURE

What is set forth below is what the Legislature has to do in order to amend the law, at the earliest possible date. It is the duty of the Legislature to do so.

Procedure if Petition Is Deemed Sufficient.

Assuming that the petition is found to be sufficient, the following procedure is suggested:

1. In any event the bill should be given an early, but should be introduced by initiative petition.

2. A motion should be made either (a) that the petition transmitted by the Secretary of State under date of January 4, 1937, be referred to the committee, or (b) that the proposed law submitted by the petition be introduced, given a bill number, and either referred to a committee or considered without reference.

3. After the bill is introduced it should be assigned without reference to the print committee, or be referred to the committee on the bill, the Legislature or action thereon could be postponed until such time as may be desired.

4. If the Legislature is to act on the bill it must do so within the time limit of time it is received. It therefore seems desirable that in acting on the bill, section 15 of Article IV of the Constitution providing the bill be in effect on the second day in each house, be suspended.

5. As to the form of the bill, assuming the petition is sufficient, on that point necessary is the proposed initiative measure as it appears on page 5 of the Senate Daily Journal for January 8, 1937. However, a heading alternative might be set forth as a heading to the bill and preceding the enacting clause the following:

"WHEREAS, The Secretary of State, under date of January 4, 1937, has submitted to the Legislature an initiative petition, as provided by section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, proposing a law to be enacted as follows by the Legislature; and

WHEREAS, The Attorney General has prepared a title, and summary of the chief purpose and points of the said proposed initiative measure as follows:

"FISHING CONTROL. Initiative measure for amendment to the Constitution. Adds new section to fish and game laws. Prohibits possession in some waters of fishing boats which collect fish, mollusks or crustaceans, otherwise exempt to points beyond state waters, unless such collection is permitted by State Fish and Game Commission. Authorizes Commission to issue permits for persons for such delivery, declaring it shall issue no permits where it is found to injure the species or obstruct the operation of any law. Penalties provided for violation.

Now, Therefore,

(Here set forth the proposed measure commencing with the enacting clause)."

6. It should be borne in mind that any member of the Legislature may introduce a legislative bill containing the exact text of the initiative measure and setting forth a legislative title in the usual fashion. Such a bill would have the same status as any other bill and would not be subject to any time limit as to enactment. Such a course is probably desirable regardless of whether the initiative measure is considered sufficient or insufficient.

7. If the Legislature adopts the initiative measure the question of its validity then becomes one for judicial determination. If the Legislature rejects the measure or fails to act upon it, the Constitution provides for its submission to the people in the next general election.

The Legislature may reject the proposed measure and propose a different one on the same subject by a yeas and may vote upon separate roll call, and in such event both measures shall be submitted to the electors at the next general election.

Procedure if Petition Is Deemed Insufficient.

1. If no action at all is taken on the measure, the Secretary of State will be required to submit the measure to the people at the next general election, unless legal proceedings are taken to restrain his action in that connection. If he should decline to place the measure on the ballot, an action to compel him to do so would be in order and would determine the legal question of sufficiency of the petition.

2. Any member of the Legislature may introduce a bill identical in form with the proposed law and have a proper legislative title. This bill, if enacted and signed by the Governor, would become law the same as any other bill. It would, of course, be subject to amendment during passage.

3. A motion might be made to introduce the proposed law in the form of a bill, setting forth the law just as it appears on page 5 of the Senate Journal for January 8, 1937.

Then a bill could be introduced by a member, setting forth an enacting clause and the same text below the enacting clause, coupled with an appropriate legislative title.

The Legislature might then, as provided in section 1 of Article IV, reject the measure proposed by initiative and propose the second measure introduced by a member.

In such case, one or another of the following would be the result:

(a) The latter measure, if approved by the people, would become law.

(b) The initiative measure never would become law, whether approved or not approved by the people.

(c) Except that possibly the vice inhering in the initiative measure that bears no title might render abortive and nugatory the entire procedure for presentation by the Legislature of even an alternative measure to the people, in which case the alternative measure introduced by a member would take effect as a law 90 days after final adjournment of the Legislature at its 1937 session.

4. A member could introduce a bill containing the same language as the proposed law and with a proper title, and urge the passage thereof by the Legislature. If enacted, such bill would become law, regardless of the fate of the initiative measure, in the same way and following the same procedure as any other bill.

Initiative Senate Bill No. 1.

Initiative Senate Bill No. 1 — Introduced by Initiative Petition Referred to Committee of the Whole.

Motion.

Senator Young moved that at three o'clock p.m. today, the Senate resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole in order to discuss the proposed initiative measure.

Amendment to Proposed Motion.

Senator Knowland offered the following amendment: "That the Senate meet as a Committee of the Whole at nine o'clock a.m. Tuesday, January 19, 1937, instead of three o'clock p.m. this day."

Amendment adopted.

The question being on the adoption of the motion by Senator Young, as amended.

Motion, as amended, carried.

Report.

The following report by the Special Senate Committee on Civil Service, was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

REPORT OF THE SPECIAL SENATE COMMITTEE ON CIVIL SERVICE PURSUANT TO SENATE RESOLUTION ADOPTED APRIL 30, 1935.

To the Senate of the State of California.

After a careful study into conditions existing under civil service in California pursuant to adoption of Senate resolutions, we beg leave to submit the following report and recommendations.

Senator Henry McGrathness, a member of this committee, died on August 26, 1936. Senator McGrathness had been a member of the Senate for thirty-six and forty-first sessions of the Legislature. He served his constituents judiciously and ably, and as a member of this committee was trusted and to be admired and willing worker. He was a devoted father, husband, child, and neighbor, and we regret his passing. To the members of his family we extend our profound sympathy.

Report of the Special Senate Committee on Civil Service.

For more than 20 years, the State of California has pursued steadily the ideal expressed in section 1 of Article XXIV of the Constitution, namely, that permanent appointments and promotion in the State service shall be made exclusively under a system based upon merit, efficiency and fitness as evidenced by competitive examination. In spite of serious handicaps which still cling to our system and constant opposition of certain groups, we are proud to say that made in securing for California an honest and efficient civil service. For evidence of our progress we need only consult the record. The Civil Service Law passed by the Legislature in 1913, and the other laws passed in Amendment XXIV to our Constitution, adopted by the people in November, 1913, securing the complete elimination of the spoils system from State government and the building of a competent State personnel through fair, competitive examinations.

The act also had for its purpose the protection of permanent, permanent employees from removal for political reasons and protection of permanent employment during good behavior. In spite of the high purpose of the Act of 1913 and the provisions of the law enacted by the Legislature and the amendments added to it, only five years ago as many as 4200 State employees were still on "temporary authorization" in positions which were filled as being under Civil Service. In a few cases, eligible lists of these 4200 persons who had successfully passed competitive examinations were either destroyed or set aside. Improper persons were appointed because of political influence, and no examinations were given to remedy the situation. The Civil Service Law was ignored by many State officials. Salaries above the maximum were paid to many unmeritorious appointees. State bureaus were staffed by persons whose chief qualification for many positions was "political influence." Political debts were commonly paid by State positions. The cost of State government rose chiefly because of the failure of many State officials to live up to the provisions and purposes of the Civil Service Act.

Between 1931 and 1934 the number of temporary authorizations were reduced through a heavy reorganizing program to about 900. On November 20, 1934, Article XXIV began to function, and it is not strange that the transition from a semi-spoils system to a merit system should be slow and difficult. Article XXIV has become the foundation of our merit system and all acts of the Legislature and all rules of the Personnel Board must conform to it.

The Civil Service Act, adopted by the Legislature in 1935, failed to receive executive approval which, in our judgment, was justified because of serious defects in the measure. Therefore, the old Act of 1913 continued in force as far as it did not conflict with Article XXIV. One of the important duties before the Legislature in 1937 is to enact a new Civil Service Law based upon Article XXIV and interpreting its provisions in greater detail.

Abuses Corrected.

Numerous changes have been made in the procedure and structure of the Personnel Agency, because of amendments which the board has adopted in rules and regulations governing and controlling their procedure. Many of these necessary changes have been brought about as a result of the hearings and petitions of this committee. Defects and injustices complained of by State employees and the press during the years of 1935 and 1936 have been corrected. For example, the hearing given the charges against the State Board of Harbor Commissioners improved the unfair method used in compiling efficiency records of employees. From those records lay-off lists were formulated. Testimony before the committee showed that they were used to defeat the purpose of the merit system. As the result of this hearing Rule 10 controlling efficiency records has been widely amended and greatly improved by the Personnel Board. It follows:

Rule 10.

Efficiency records.

Section 1. Ratings shall be made semiannually.

In all offices and places of employment subject to State civil service, the appointing power shall make or cause to be made on forms prescribed for that purpose, reports on the individual efficiency of holders of positions in performing their duties and shall file such records with the board, together with a statement of the credits for seniority to which each employee is entitled. Such reports shall be prepared for each six-months period ending March 31 and September 30 of each year, and shall be filed with the board not later than ten days after the close of each period. Such reports shall also be prepared and filed with the board for each probationary employee within ten days after the end of the second and fourth months of the probationary period.

Such reports shall be prepared by the supervisor in immediate charge of the work of each officer or employee, or by such other officers or employees of the department or other persons as the board may designate. Reports shall be prepared and submitted upon forms and in the manner prescribed by the board, and shall include various factors applicable to the types of employment subject to rating, and a numerical score which shall fairly summarize the relative service value of the employees rated.

Sec. 2. Basis of ratings.

The efficiency ratings shall be based upon:

First: Quality of work—meaning the ability of an employee to perform the duties assigned him and the degree of excellence with which he performs such duties. Consideration should be given to such qualities as accuracy and neatness of work, orderliness, reliability, originality, resourcefulness, initiative, judgment, tact, special knowledge, technical ability, mechanical skill, ability to supervise or direct the work of others, executive ability, and ability to meet the public.

Second: Quantity of work—meaning the amount of work done. In cases where the work is not measurable, rating should be based upon industry, perseverance, diligence, and willingness to work, speed, energy, and alertness.

Quality and quantity of work shall be rated on the following percentage basis:

For excellent or exceptional work.....	90-100
For good or thoroughly satisfactory work.....	80- 89
For fair or not wholly satisfactory work.....	70- 79
For poor or unsatisfactory work.....	69 and below

Eighty-five per cent is arbitrarily taken by the executive member as the marking for an average employee doing thoroughly satisfactory work.

Third: Attendance. An employee who gives all his time during office hours to the performance of the duties of his position throughout the period of rating except for absence during the annual vacation of 15 working days, or absence on duly authorized holidays or half-holidays, or duly authorized absence without pay, shall be rated 100 per cent in attendance. Any absence allowed with pay in excess of the 15-day vacation, or absence by reason of tardiness, or absence without leave for any period whatsoever, shall operate to reduce the rating below 100 per cent. Service beyond office hours where certified as necessary by the appointing power shall be rated under Quantity, but otherwise no credit shall be given for overtime work.

Sec. 3. Inefficiency cause of charges.

If the net efficiency of any permanent civil service employee falls below 70 per cent, the appointing power or the board may file a charge of inefficiency against such employee. If such charge is filed, it shall be the duty of the board to try the said employee for inefficiency. If, after such trial, the ratings shall be found to be just, judgment shall be entered, removing the said employee from the civil service of the State of California, and his name shall be stricken from the list of eligibles.

Sec. 4. Unsatisfactory service of probationer cause for removal from list.

If the efficiency report submitted to the board for a probationer, who has been employed on temporary work, shows that the services rendered by said probationer have not been satisfactory during the period of employment, the board may remove said probationer's name from the eligible list.

Powers and Duties Defined.

A hearing in San Francisco of the methods followed in selecting oral boards and the wide-spread criticism of the press and public resulted in our request for an opinion from the Attorney General which would clarify and define the definition of power and duties of the Personnel Board and of the executive officer. The opinion rendered is of great importance and was largely influenced the acts of the Personnel Board and clearly defined the duties of the board and executive secretary. Herewith is the opinion rendered by the Attorney General.

SACRAMENTO

July 15, 1936

Los Angeles, California.*

MY DEAR SENATOR: Your letter addressed to me is a communication referring to Article XXIV of the Constitution, and particularly sections 2 (1), and 3 (a) thereof, wherein you are asking as to the limits of section 2 the authority of the State Personnel Board is limited to the adoption of rules and regulations, the creation and adjustment of positions and grades, and dismissals, demotions, transfers and other personnel action, duty and whether or not all other powers and duties vested in the board are to be performed and discharged by the executive officers, members of the board, particularly in view of the provision of section 3 (a) of the Article.

Section 2 (1) provides in part as follows:

"Said executive officers shall perform and discharge all of the powers, duties, functions and responsibilities imposed on them hereafter by law and be subject to the board except with the adoption of rules and regulations, the creation and adjustment of positions and grades, and dismissals, demotions, transfers and other personnel action but as in the State Civil Service shall be and remain the duty of the board and in case of a vacancy of the members of said board shall be required to make and submit with reasons thereof advice."

Section 3 (a) provides in part as follows:

"Said board shall administer and enforce and is vested with all of the powers, duties, functions, functions and responsibilities which are now or hereafter may be vested in any other agency under Chapter 220 of the California Statutes of 1911 as amended and all other laws relating to the civil service and shall have the right of any lawfully created, established or proposed by the Legislature."

Taking up section 3 (a) first, it appears evident that this section sets a means used by the draft of Article XXIV to place in one hand or agency all the powers, duties, functions and responsibilities which at the time of the adoption of the constitution were vested in the State civil service under the State Civil Service Act. By this means the action herein all inclusive so that none of the various functions performed by other officers or agencies were excluded as being in the same scope the duties have performed the method of administration or aspects of the various provisions of the law theretofore placing powers or duties under the State Civil Service in such other officers or agencies and having by the method suggested in section 3 (a) through all of those functions which the board or agency at that time had a right to perform and the functions to divide the various functions between the Personnel Board and some other officer or agency. In addition to this, section 3 (a) has confirmed the purpose of limiting the power of the Legislature to vest in any other State officer or agency any powers, duties, functions or responsibilities in connection with civil service.

Having by section 3 (a) through all of those functions which the board or agency, section 2 then assigns the powers of performing certain acts, against the various functions between the board and the executive officer.

It is our duty, whenever possible, to give full force and effect to all statutes, and where different acts or parts of the same are subject to some conflict or inconsistent one with the other, we should if possible give such interpretation as will continue the force and effect of all of them.

It will be observed that section 2 (1) deals with the performance and discharge of powers and duties, while section 3 (a) deals with the administration and enforcement of the same. Two distinct meanings intended to distinguish between the words "perform and discharge" and the words "administer and enforce," and Webster's New International Dictionary, 1928 Edition, defines the word "administer" as "treating or superintending the execution, application or conduct of," to dispose, to serve out, supply, execute, as to administer something; and the word "enforce" is defined as to force, constrain, compel, to enforce discipline. Here we note the two words used together in section 3 (a) directing the board to administer and enforce, that is, to direct or superintend and to enforce discipline, and it appears that section 3 (a) is dealing with laws, and it is proper to say that a person or board shall administer and enforce a law, while it would not be appropriate that such person or board should administer and enforce a duty.

We also find from the same dictionary that the word "perform" is defined as to carry through or execute, to accomplish, to do, to discharge, as to perform a duty, synonymous with accomplish, execute, discharge and consummate; and the word "discharge" is defined as "performing duty, trust and the like." Here we have the two words "perform" and "discharge" used together, directing the executive officer to execute, to accomplish, to discharge and to perform a duty or trust, and in this connection the drafter unambiguously used this language to show that the executive officer was to perform and discharge certain duties distinguished from the administering and enforcing of laws. A failure to recognize this difference would necessarily lead to the conclusion that section 2-(c) and 3-(a) are inconsistent and irreconcilable. The fact that section 2-(c) is dealing with duties is made apparent by the fact that that section states that those things which are excepted from the delegation of the powers, duties, purposes, functions and jurisdiction delegated to the executive officer "shall be and remain the duty of the board."

It is further to be observed that the duties which are reserved to the board must be exercised by the board sitting as such, and by a majority vote of the members thereof, and not by individual members of the board.

It might be argued that the word "shall" used in section 2-(c) is permissive only, and not mandatory, and that therefore the board has the right to perform and discharge all the powers, duties, purposes, functions and jurisdiction vested in the board, as well as the executive officer. This contention is answered by the fact that if the word "shall" was intended to be permissive, there would be an ambiguity in that it would not be clear whether the grant of authority was self-executing so that the officer could himself decide on which duties to perform and discharge, or whether the grant was subject to decision by the board as to which duties he was to perform and discharge or whether he or the board could decide that he was to perform and discharge none of the duties. These possibilities seem unreasonable, and suggest that the word "shall" could not have been intended to be permissive. This conclusion is further supported by the fact that section 2-(c) states that the exceptions to the grant of duties to the executive officer shall be and remain the duty of the board, which clearly indicates that there is to be a separation of duties between the executive officer and the board, which shall be exclusive each of the other.

We must, therefore, conclude that the word "shall" is mandatory and not permissive, and that the board and the executive officer have no duties which may be performed by the other, the board administering and enforcing the civil service laws, the executive officer performing and discharging all duties thereunder except those duties remaining the duties of the board under section 2-(c) of the article, in accordance with the maxim that where a statute directs the performance of certain things by a particular person it implies that they shall not be done by a different person.

It therefore appears that though the board shall administer and enforce the civil service laws, and is vested with all the powers, duties, purposes, functions and jurisdiction now or hereafter vested in any other State officer or agency by such law, yet the duty of performing and discharging the same is vested in the executive officer, except for the exceptions set forth in section 2-(c), and over all, the board sits with the responsibility to administer and enforce the civil service laws to the extent that the executive officer is controlled in the performance and discharge of his duties by the rule-making power of the board, which rules must be authorized by and not in conflict with the Constitution or the acts of the Legislature.

The limitations in the making of rules by the board would be (1) that the board could not by rule or regulation take from the executive officer and place in itself or any other person the duty to perform and discharge any of the powers, duties, purposes, functions and jurisdiction under Article XXIV, or which hereafter by law may be vested in him, and (2) that the board could not adopt rules or regulations based upon a statute the effect of which would be to take the performance and discharge of such duties from the executive officer because the statutes must conform to the provisions of the Constitution.

I believe this interpretation is supported by the history of civil service legislation in this State, and the interpretation given thereto by the persons heretofore charged with its administration and enforcement. The contemporaneous construction of legislation by an executive may be considered by a court in determining the meaning of such legislation.

A review of the legislative history of the laws governing the state civil service from its inception shows that the amendment to the Constitution continues in effect provisions that have existed for some time. Prior to 1929, the Civil Service Commission consisted of an executive member and two associate members, and it was provided in the Civil Service Act that the executive member was to have all of "the duties, powers and functions conferred upon the Civil Service Commission * * * except that the enactment of rules and

Rules Are Amended.

On June eleventh, the Personnel Board amended the rules by adding section 5a to Rule 4, which the committee believes will remove many of the serious defects and much of the criticism made against oral examination as formerly conducted.

In case the amended rule fails to remove the just criticism levied against decisions of the qualifications appraisal boards, further changes should be made.

Here follows a resume of the new rule:

Section 5a, Rule 4.

At its meeting of June 11, 1936, the State Personnel Board amended its Rules and Regulations by adding section 5a to Rule Four, to read as follows:

SEC. 5a. Appraisal of education, experience and personal qualifications of competitors in examinations.

In examinations where the education, experience and personal qualifications of candidates are to be rated, such ratings shall be made by boards to be known as qualification appraisal boards, under the following regulations.

(a) Such boards shall include one member of the staff of the State Personnel Board who shall act as chairman, the head of the department under whom the work is to be performed, or his authorized representative, if the test is given to establish an eligible list for a particular department; and whenever feasible one or more citizens, preferably not at the time in the State service, who are qualified to appraise the education, experience, and personal qualifications of applicants for the classification in question; the number of members of such boards to be determined, and the appointments in each case to be made by the executive officer of the State Personnel Board. If at the time and place set for meeting of any qualification appraisal board, a member or members theretofore notified of said time and place of meeting fail to appear, the board may proceed, the vacancy or vacancies to be filled or not as the chairman of the appraisal board shall determine.

(b) No member of the Personnel Board may serve as a member of any qualification appraisal board except he be the head or a member of the governing body of the department for the use of which the resulting eligible list is to be established, and then only upon previous approval of the Personnel Board.

(c) Ratings of education, experience, and personal qualifications by qualification appraisal boards shall be made on a competitive basis, in that each candidate shall be rated thereon in relation to the minimum qualifications for the classification in question and in relation to the comparable qualifications of other competitors. The term "personal qualifications" includes all such personality traits and personal, moral, and physical characteristics as are necessarily comprehended by the minimum qualifications established for the classification.

(d) Ratings of education, experience, and personal qualifications shall be made independently by each qualification appraisal board member on official forms prescribed by the executive officer and shall be signed before delivery to the chairman of the qualification appraisal board. No member of a qualification appraisal board shall disclose to another his rating of a competitor until after the permanent recordation of such rating. Ratings accorded competitors shall be expressed in percentages, with 70 being the minimum passing rating for open competitive examinations, and 85 the minimum passing rating for promotional examinations. When a competitor is rated below the minimum passing mark by a member of the qualification appraisal board the reason for such rating shall be entered on the rating sheet by the board member. The ratings of the several members of the qualification appraisal board shall be averaged to determine the competitor's final rating on education, experience, and personal qualifications. If the average rating of a competitor is below the required passing mark, or the majority of the members of the qualification appraisal board eliminate or otherwise rate a competitor below such minimum passing mark, that competitor shall be eliminated on education, experience, and personal qualifications. The final average ratings thus accorded competitors on education, experience, and personal qualifications, if above the minimum passing mark, shall have such weight in relation to the written and other tests prescribed for the examination, as shall have been previously specified by the executive officer.

(e) In examinations for positions of trust, involving the handling of money, the exercise of the powers of peace officers, law enforcement or regulation, the collection of taxes or investigations connected therewith, or involving the care or custody of wards of the State, the executive officer or the qualification appraisal board must, and in any other examinations may, make special inquiry into the past records of all competitors; and shall disqualify any whose records or reputation shall in his or their judgment warrant such action.

(f) Nothing in this rule shall be interpreted to prevent the appraisal of education and experience by formula from information and data given on the official applications of competitors without the process of interview by a qualification appraisal board, and without regard to personal qualifications of competitors.

(g) The Personnel Board will consider appeals from the decisions and ratings of qualification appraisal boards made for the reasons and upon the conditions, as follows:

(1) For alleged irregularity, bias or fraud in the conduct of the investigation or interview; or

(2) For alleged erroneous interpretation and application of the minimum qualifications prescribed for the classification; and

(3) Upon receipt by the Personnel Board of a written statement by the competitor setting forth the facts and upon the basis of such statement a determination by the Personnel Board whether or not good cause exists for consideration of the appeal.

(h) If the Personnel Board grants the appeal it shall cause the members of the qualification appraisal board and all other interested persons to be notified of the time and place of the hearing on the appeal.

(i) If, upon considering such an appeal, the Personnel Board decides that the competitor possesses the minimum qualifications for the classification and merits a passing rating, it shall on the basis of the facts of the case of the qualification appraisal board give him a rating or education, experience, and personal qualifications not in excess of the minimum passing grade prescribed for the examination.

Adopt More Liberal Policy.

Other new rules and amendments were adopted by the Personnel Board in September with excellent results.

It is gratifying to learn the Personnel Board has adopted a more liberal policy in the matter of recalled oral examinations, which includes examination times made for this committee, as evidenced by their adoption of article 5a to Rule 4. It is our further opinion that the questions asked during the oral examinations are passed interviews, as they are more properly called, should constitute an entire review of the written examinations and that only such other questions be asked as are necessary to enable the examining board to arrive at a correct, fair and accurate appraisal of the relative value of competitors' education, experience and personal qualification and ability to perform the duties of the position under examination.

We believe that much of the criticism directed toward the result of the oral examinations in the past will not be justified in the future under the present amended rule and proposed new law, however, we consider it of the greatest importance that the persons appointed to conduct the examinations be recognized authorities in the profession or trade covered by the examination, that they be of high integrity and entirely free from prejudice or personal interest in the competitor.

Salary Increases in Lower Brackets.

We are not in sympathy with a continuation of a policy, commenced in 1925, that salary increases should not be made. We feel that it is both unfair and unjust to deny efficient and earnest employees of the State such advances, particularly those employees in the lower brackets. In the past, payment of salaries below the minimum of the classification provided for has been one of the chief causes of discontent.

Promotion for Employees.

One of the fundamental principles of the English system, which is recognized as outstanding in Civil Service is the opportunity for promotion within the ranks, and we recommend greater emphasis be given this phase of our system in order to improve the morale of employees and stimulate initiative and production. In short, when a vacancy occurs in a department it should be filled by promotion.

Moral Responsibility Urged.

We recommend that no employee, probationary or otherwise, who has been relieved of his duties in a department of the State Government for dishonesty or other serious offense, shall be permitted to take Civil Service examinations and have his name stricken from eligible lists.

As a result of our committee hearings on charges made against certain liquor control officials of the fourth district of the State Board of Education, Rule 9 was changed so as to require that probationary employees possess moral responsibility and integrity, as well as other necessary qualifications. In the past these requirements had been omitted from the list of qualifications.

Rule Nine.

Probationary, temporary, and permanent employees defined.

Section 1. Probationary period.

All appointments from eligible lists for original entrance or promotion shall be for a probationary period of six months which probationary period shall not include the time served under certification to temporary positions but shall date from the time of appointment to a permanent position under certification. It shall be the duty of the appointing power during the probationary period of each employee to investigate thoroughly his conduct, capacity, moral responsibility and integrity to determine whether the employee is fully qualified for permanent Civil Service status. A report on these qualifications shall be made to the board at the end of the second and fourth months of the probationary period on forms prescribed by the board. If the conduct, capacity, moral responsibility, or integrity of the probationer is found to be unsatisfactory, it shall be the duty of the appointing power to dismiss him from the service and to report the dismissal, together with the reasons therefor, to the board in writing. If, after thorough investigation during the probationary period, the appointing power shall find the probationer fully qualified for permanent status, he shall so certify to the board on or before the termination of the period on such forms as may be prescribed.

If evidence supported by reasonable proof is filed with the board during the probationary period of any State employee that convinces the majority of its members that the moral conduct, character, or integrity of the employee is unsatisfactory, it shall be the duty of the board to notify the appointing power that the record of the probationer for moral conduct, character, or integrity is incompatible with or inimical to the good of the service.

Sec. 2. Restoration of probationers.

The name of a discharged probationer may at his request be restored to the eligible list with its original percentage in the discretion of the board. Such restoration, however, shall not permit of certification to the position or department from which the probationer has been dismissed, except upon the written request of the appointing power.

Sec. 3. Temporary employees.

A temporary employee is one who has been certified and appointed to a position which will continue for a period of less than six months. The acceptance or declination of appointment for temporary service shall not affect the rights of the eligible to certification for permanent appointment.

Sec. 4. Permanent employees.

A permanent Civil Service employee is one who, having been certified from an eligible list and thereafter appointed, has served more than the required probationary period of six months in the position to which he was certified.

Conclusion.

We recognize that economy in government can not be achieved unless the spoils system in our State Government is abolished. Our people have done their part in writing it into our Constitution by an overwhelming majority vote. It now becomes the duty of our Legislature to adopt a law which will clarify and effectuate Article 24. It is also the duty of our State officials, regardless of their personal views, to cooperate with the Personnel Board and staff for the advancing of the merit system in California.

At this particular time, the Personnel Board consists of appointees of the Governor and the success or failure of the merit system in California is so dependent upon the policies established and made effective by the Personnel Board that it becomes largely the personal responsibility of the Governor.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL.

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, January 18, 1937.

Honorable George J. Hatfield, President of the Senate,

Request: No. 3882.

MR. PRESIDENT: You have asked us whether a bill which contains only a title and an enacting clause, and which does not set forth any of the law which it purports to propose, is in fact a bill.

In your letter requesting this opinion, you illustrate the general form of a skeleton bill as follows:

"An act to amend section ----- of -----, relating to -----.

SECTION 1. -----"

We have made a careful investigation of the reported cases and have failed to find a case which even discusses this type of skeleton bill.

However, in this research we have found several authorities defining the word "bill." We believe these authorities indicate that the model skeleton bill illustrated above is not a "bill."

Webster defines a bill as follows:

"b. a. Orig., a petition to the sovereign praying the enactment of some act or statute usually set forth with the petition. b. Hence, a form or draft of a law presented to the Legislature for enactment; a proposed or rejected law. The petitionary form is still used in private bills in Great Britain." (P. 222. Webster's New International Dictionary)

This definition is enlarged upon in Haddock vs. Leach, (1915) 226 Fed. 135. The court was there considering the validity of a revenue bill which had originated as a nonrevenue bill in the Senate and had been amended into a revenue bill in the House of Representatives.

At page 137 the court says:

"Assuming that the constitutional phrase applies, inquiry may next be made as to the meaning of the word 'bill,' in contradistinction from 'statute' or 'act.' 'A "bill" is a draft of a proposed statute submitted to the Legislature for enactment.' People vs. Reardon, 184 N. Y. 431, 77 N. E. 970, 8 L. R. A. (N. S.) 314, 112 Am. St. Rep. 628, 6 Ann. Cas. 515. This definition has been universally accepted, although the word is often used loosely as synonymous with act or law.' Sedgwick Co. Com'rs. vs. Bailey, 13 Kan. 600. It follows that what the Constitution requires to originate in the House of Representatives is not the final product of the legislative will, not the statute, but a project for a statute, which may by amendment take a very different shape by the time it is ready for promulgation as law. Where, therefore, did the Cotton Futures Act originate, when it was in the chrysalis form of a 'bill'?"

The bill as introduced was the same as amended by the House except that the enforcement provisions as proposed by the Senate were based upon a prohibition of the use of the mails and those added in the House were by way of a heavy tax upon cotton futures contracts sought to be controlled.

Lewis' Sutherland Statutory Construction defines a bill as follows:

"Sec. 67 (60). Forms of legislation.—A bill is a form or draft of a law presented to a Legislature, but not yet enacted, or before it is enacted; a proposed or projected law. This is the meaning of a bill in practice, and has been judiciously commended." (Vol. 1, page 114, Second Edition).

And in Amos vs. Gamm, (1922) 94 So. 615, Florida, the Supreme Court, at page 634, defined a "bill" as follows:

"A 'bill' is a proposition reduced to writing, submitted to the consideration of the Legislature, which when it has received the indorsement or support of a majority vote of the members present of each house and the yeas and nays vote taken upon the final passage entered upon the Journals of each house, is said to have 'passed.' The use of the word 'bill' in section 28 of Article III of the Constitution, providing that every 'bill' that may have passed the Legislature shall, before becoming a law, be presented to the Governor, and in the proviso to section 17, Article III providing that all 'bills' so passed shall be signed by the presiding officers of the respective houses, etc., was not intended, as the Legislature by its rules has indicated, to designate the original written document first submitted. But it has reference to the last writing, which contains all the amendments and changes made by the Legislature in the 'bills' journey through the two houses. It contains the original proposition in its altered or amended form, if there have been any changes. It represents the best thought of the legislature made. It is the repository of the latest expression of legislative purpose and intention concerning the proposed proposition."

These authorities indicate that a "bill" is a draft of proposed legislation which can be enacted into law, or as Webster puts it, "a proposal or legislative law."

These definitions would seem to preclude the contention that if a "bill" as introduced cannot be enacted into law it is not a bill.

This proposition is supported by a consideration of sections 2 and 15 of Article IV of the Constitution.

Section 15 of Article IV provides in part:

"No law shall be passed except on bill."

The use of the word "bill" in this sentence certainly presupposes that a bill is something which may be enacted into law. It is further evident by a consideration of some of the provisions of section 2 of Article IV.

"The sessions of the Legislature shall be biennial, . . . and shall continue for a period not exceeding 90 days. . . . The members of both houses shall be taken for one year from 90 days. . . . The members of the Legislature no bill shall be introduced or passed unless the number of three-fourths of the members thereof be present. . . . No bill shall be introduced by any one member. . . ."

A provision such as this would be meaningless if the word "bill" as used, is remedied. Hilborn vs. Nye, (1911) 15 Cal. App. 208. Cooley in his work on Constitutional Limitations, Eighth Edition at page 198, Cooley further explains as follows:

"The Constitution of Michigan provides that no new bill shall be introduced into either house of the Legislature after the first 90 days of the session shall have expired, and the Constitution of Missouri provides that no bill shall originate in either house within the first 90 days of its session. The purpose of these clauses is to prevent hasty and impetuous legislation, and to compel, so far as any provision law can accomplish that result, the careful examination of proposed laws."

Under constitutional provisions such as these and by Cooley, above it can clearly be ascertained which object is thwarted by the use of skeleton bills. Under the California system this object is of course frustrated by the use of skeleton bills, but still another object is thwarted.

This object is well summarized by Thomas S. Brainerd at Stanford University, writing for the California Law Review. At page 45 of Volume 20 (1934-1935) he says:

"In the first place, it may be regarded as a failure of improved legislative procedure and the conduct of legislative business to require any delay for the introduction of bills during the first portion of the session. . . . Their consideration during the session and their passage during the final session. Secondly, it may be regarded as frustrating legislative publicity, because the general public, as well as the legislature, would be given the opportunity to study the bills that had been introduced and thereby to discuss and help and guide bills. Thirdly, the interval between session would now furnish to legislators an opportunity to make known to their constituents their opinions and wishes with reference to proposed legislation. Thus, legislative legislation could be more easily enacted and reasonable legislation advanced according to the dictates of the people of the State before it is out of consideration. Finally, the restrictions upon the introduction of bills after the session would effectively prevent the passage of hasty and impetuous measures during the closing days and hours of the session. The plan, considered in the abstract, lays claims to many virtues."

Obviously the people can not study or interpret measures regarded as "bill" skeleton bills. It seems to follow inescapably that the word "bill," in view of the foregoing discussion, can not include a skeleton bill.

Another aid to interpretation, if another be required, is well expressed by Cooley at page 130. Speaking of Constitutions he says:

"In interpreting clauses we must presume that words have been employed in their natural and ordinary meaning. As Marshall, C. J. says: 'The framers of the Constitution and the people who created it must be understood to have employed words in their natural sense, and to have intended what they said.' (Cooley's Constitutional Limitations, Eighth Edition, Volume 1)

Prior to the adoption of the amendment to section 2 of Article IV the "skeleton bill" was not used in this State. Barney, 20 Cal. Law Rev. at 49, says:

"The skeleton bill practice, which violates the theory of the biennial session and which destroys its possible effectiveness, seems to have developed about 1919-1921."

On page 50 he continues:

"During the second part of the session the skeleton and partial skeleton bills are filled out. It is obvious that this practice nullifies one of the basic ideas of the divided session. The evil reached alarming proportions in the sessions of 1923 and of 1925 when 303 and 304 such bills, respectively, were introduced. In his inaugural address, Governor Young, who had had long legislative experience and was thoroughly familiar with the situation, criticized the practice and indirectly stated that such bills, if passed by the Legislature, would be very critically examined by him. Indeed, the impression was general that the great majority of skeleton bills faced certain veto. The result was a sharp decrease in this type of proposed legislation both in the 1927 and in the 1929 sessions of the Legislature. In the former there were only 54 in the Assembly and 27 in the Senate, a total of 81; in the latter a total in both houses of 55, including 37 in the Assembly and 18 in the Senate."

Summarizing our opinion, we find that in ordinary usage, a bill is a draft which may become a law. This meaning was attached to the word when our Constitution was adopted and it prevailed when section 2 of Article IV was amended in 1911. To attribute any other meaning to the word would be to defeat the very objects the Legislature had in mind in proposing this amendment, and as Cooley says, the people must have understood when it was adopted.

Of course, we are aware that the question naturally occurs as to how much language must be inserted in the body of a bill to escape the appellation of a skeleton bill. We feel that such question can not be answered in the abstract, can be answered only in relation to the particular provisions of each such bill as and when the issue arises.

Respectfully submitted

SIDNEY L. WEINSTOCK, Deputy Legislative Counsel.

Approved: FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel.

Statement by Hon. George J. Hatfield, President of the Senate.

GENTLEMEN OF THE SENATE: I am herewith handing to the Secretary of the Senate an opinion from the Legislative Counsel of the State of California to the effect that a so-called skeleton bill is not a bill within the meaning of the Constitution.

Basing my action upon this opinion, I desire to notify the Senate that any attempt to amend and pass a skeleton bill through the Senate after the constitutional recess will be ruled by me as a noncompliance with the Constitution, and I will order the bill stricken from the files.

In the event that I am overruled upon an appeal from any such decision, I shall either refuse to certify the bill, or in my certification shall set forth the skeleton bill as originally introduced, together with a history of the amendment thereof, so that all of the facts may be properly certified and presented for any review sought in the courts as to the compliance with the constitutional provisions requiring all laws to be passed by bills.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 14. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1, Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California and shall take effect immediately.

The facts constituting said urgency are as follows:

Palo Verde Irrigation District and the farmers living therein have been for many years in dire financial distress. The lands therein have become greatly in arrears in the payment of taxes and consequently the bonds of Palo Verde Irrigation District, Palo Verde Drainage District and of Palo Verde Joint Levee District of Riverside and Imperial counties, California, are and have been delinquent for more than six years. The great bulk of the property within the said district is and has been subject to tax liens of various kinds for delinquent taxes. Unless extraordinary means were provided for the returning of such lands to the tax rolls it would be impossible to farm in said district and the levees, drains and irrigation system could not be kept up or operated and the great bulk of the property owned by the farmers of said district would be lost to said farmers and danger to life, health and property would shortly exist. Said Palo Verde Irrigation District has adopted and entered upon the carrying out of certain plans of rehabilitation whereby such delinquent property may be returned to the tax rolls. The provisions of this act are intended to clear up and settle many questions relating to the returning of said properties to the tax rolls, both district and county, and to secure the continued payment of district and county taxes, water tolls and charges, to permit the resident farmers to retain possession of their lands and continue farming and to prevent the abandonment of the district and the property therein and to preserve the property of the district and of such farmers and thereby to prevent the destruction of life, health and property.

SEC. 15. In hereby amending sections 68 and 69 of said act as amended it is the intention of the Legislature to repeal and reenact each of said sections with the same force and effect as if each and every provision thereof were for the first time enacted at the time of this amendment to said act notwithstanding any provision to the contrary expressed in section 325 of the Political Code.

Urgency clause read.

The Attorney General has summarized the proposed measure as follows: Fishing Control. Initiative measure for presentation to Legislature. Adds new section to fish and game laws. Prohibits operation in State waters of fishing boats which deliver fish, mollusks or crustaceans, wherever caught, to points beyond State waters unless such delivery is permitted by State Fish and Game Commission. Provides penalties for violation.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,

County (or City and County) of _____

TO THE HONORABLE SECRETARY OF STATE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA:

We, the undersigned, registered qualified electors of the State of California, residents of the (City and) County of _____, present this petition to you and request that you transmit to the next regular session of the Legislature of the State of California, as soon as it convenes and organizes, the proposed law amending the Fish and Game Code of the State of California hereinafter set forth in full for enactment of such law without change or amendment by the Legislature; and we further petition and request that, if the Legislature rejects said proposed law or takes no action thereon within sixty days from the time it is received by the Legislature, said proposed law be passed to the people for their approval or rejection at the next ensuing general election, or at any prior special election that may be called for such purpose or at any previous by law.

The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

The Fish and Game Code of the State of California is hereby amended by adding thereto a new section to be known as 1110 and to read as follows:

1110—No person shall use or operate or assist in using or operating in this State or the waters thereof, any boat or vessel used in connection with fishing operations irrespective of its home port or port of registration which taking land or vessel delivers or by which there is delivered to any point or place other than within this State any fish, mollusks or crustaceans, except as may be permitted on board said boat or vessel from the waters of the Pacific Ocean within the State or on the high seas or elsewhere, under a permit authorizing the same shall have been issued by the Fish and Game Commission.

Where it appears to the commission that such permit will not tend to prevent, impede or obstruct the operation, enhancement or administration of this code or any provision thereof, and will not tend to result in the destruction or commercial in the waters of this State being taken or used otherwise than is authorized in this code, the commission may issue revocable permits under such terms and regulations and upon such terms and conditions as it may prescribe, to deliver fish, mollusks or crustaceans by the use of such boat or vessel within the State, provided that nothing herein shall authorize the transportation or delivery out of this State or any district thereof, of any fish, mollusks or crustaceans, where the same is prohibited by law, and no permit shall be issued which may tend to deplete any species of fish, mollusk or crustacean or result in waste thereof. Any person who uses or operates or assists in using or operating any boat or vessel in violation of the provisions of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor and such boat or vessel and the net, gear or other equipment of said boat or vessel is a public nuisance and shall be forfeited. It is the duty of every person authorized to make an arrest for the violation of any of the provisions of this code, to seize and keep such boat, vessel, net, gear or other equipment and to report such seizure to the commission. The commission shall thereupon cause, in the superior court of the county or city and county in which or nearest to which the seizure is made, proceedings for forfeiture of the seized property for its use in violation of this section, and such proceeding shall be had in the manner and according to the procedure provided by section 845 of this code for the forfeiture of nets.

Communication.

The following communication was received, read, ordered printed in the Journal, and referred to the Joint Committee for the Hearing of Gavin W. Craig:

DEAR SIR: I attach hereto an affidavit setting forth certain facts in re the hearing of the charge against me contained in the joint resolution to remove me from my office.

I am confident that no member of the Legislature can wish to be compelled to vote on this resolution and the charge contained in it with an entire lack of knowledge of facts vitally material to the issues involved.

Based upon that belief and the facts stated in my affidavit I make the following request:

That a sufficient sum of money be appropriated to provide for the preparation of my defense, including a fair sum for the fees of attorneys to act in preparing, and in presenting such defense at the hearing before the Legislature;

That such provision be made for the expenditure of said money as the Legislature may deem right, to the end that it be not improperly spent, and, also, that the use thereof may not be hampered and the purpose of its appropriation be destroyed by unnecessary red tape, since its use is, obviously an immediate need.

If attorneys in charge of the preparation of my defense are provided with funds for investigation purposes at once the number of witnesses will surely be much reduced, because it is believed that certain relevant, competent and material facts are within the knowledge of a number of persons, and it is not my purpose to unnecessarily produce cumulative evidence or to improvidently expend the State's money. Again, some persons whom there is reason to believe have knowledge of such facts may be found not to have such knowledge.

The State has no public defender; and as far as I know, there is no public officer charged with the duty of defending a citizen, who is without funds, against charges preferred under the circumstances here present.

Being in jail, it is apparent that I can not possibly prepare my own defense. Able counsel have been appointed to prepare and present the case against me. In spite of the verdict of the jury in my case in the Federal Court, it would seem that my unblemished record of 25 years in judicial office should suggest that my averment that I have a substantial defense is worthy of provision being made for a reasonable investigation of the merit of that claim before any judicial body should be willing to penalize me by removal from office. It would seem that the accused should be permitted to select his attorneys, and that they should use the money appropriated, subject to a rigid accounting for the same.

Respectfully,

GAVIN W. CRAIG.

COUNTY OF VENTURA } ss.

GAVIN W. CRAIG, being duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is the Gavin W. Craig who is a Justice of the District Court of Appeal of the State of California and who is named in a joint resolution of the Senate and Assembly of the State of California, which said joint resolution sets forth a certain charge as a reason for the removal of affiant from his said office; and that the hearing of said charge, as affiant has been notified, is set for the eighth day of March, 1937;

That affiant is confined as a prisoner in the county jail at Ventura, California, for a term of one year, which does not expire until November 15, 1937.

That affiant has no funds, or any means of securing funds, with which to prepare his defense to the charge set forth in said indictment for his removal from office, or to employ counsel to conduct such prosecution for him, or to present his defense at said hearing.

That because of being confined in jail affiant can do little toward the preparation of his defense.

That affiant has been informed by competent lawyers that he has a good and sufficient defense to said charges, and that by getting lawyers that he has such good defense.

That affiant is informed by said lawyers, and that he believes that the facts which he desires to, and if permitted, will prove at said hearing are pertinent, competent, relevant and material to the issues presented by said charges.

That affiant has reason to believe, and does believe, that there are 700 competent persons now in California, each one of whom has personal knowledge of some or more of the aforesaid facts.

That in addition to the said witnesses, several documents, of which some are voluminous, are, so affiant is informed by said lawyers, and so affiant believes, competent, relevant and material evidence in defense of said charges.

That it will be necessary to the proper presentation of affiant's said defense, to be made at said hearing, that each of said documents be copied and the copies certified, and the necessary expense of making such copies and the certification thereof will be approximately $1000, unless said expense is permitted by statute or otherwise.

That if all of said witnesses are subpoenaed and transported from their respective residences to Sacramento, and maintained about the place of said hearing until the testimony of such witnesses has been given, affiant is informed and believes and therefore states that the entire expense thereof will amount to several thousands of dollars; however, the exact amount of such expense is unknown to affiant.

That affiant is informed that the Legislature of California has authorized and will employ three, perhaps six, lawyers to prepare and present the law against the affiant at said hearing, and affiant says that to properly prepare and present affiant's said defense, affiant is informed and believes and therefore states that the services of three attorneys will be needed for much of the time from this date until the conclusion of said hearing, for all of the time during said getting, and that the duration of said hearing may be as long as four weeks.

Assembly Joint Resolution No. 11.

Relative to the relief of transients problem.

WHEREAS, Natural interstate migrations of persons and families in search of employment are greatly extended during times of general unemployment or by reason of a calamity such as a drought, and conditions during the last five years have greatly increased the unsettled population in the United States and States with mild climates and good wages inevitably receive a disproportionate amount of such unsettled population; and

WHEREAS, It is to be expected in a continuing condition that unemployed transient individuals and families will be found in disproportionate numbers in several States and that public support and care will inevitably be required from time to time for a substantial percentage of such individuals and families regardless of residence laws; and

WHEREAS, During the operation of the Federal transient relief program in California this State had under care through this program 12 per cent of all of the transient cases receiving aid by the United States and 16 per cent of all of the families receiving aid, although the population of California was only 4.7 per cent of the population of the United States; and

WHEREAS, During the 18 month period, February 1, 1934, to August 31, 1935, the average number of transient cases resulting from California was 17,245, and on February 15, 1935, there were 22,458 such cases receiving relief; and

WHEREAS, During the period July 1, 1936, to November 30, 1936, approximately entering California with families obviously seeking employment earned 55,572 individuals, 42,469 of whom were from the drought States and a considerable additional number of families and individuals seeking employment obtained by other means of transportation; and

WHEREAS, There has not been and is not sufficient seasonal or permanent employment for transients entering the State and there have not all those during the past calendar year, and now are under care by the State Relief Administration and employed by the Works Progress Administration large numbers of persons for whom neither temporary nor permanent employment has been or is available; and

WHEREAS, It would be financially impossible for the State of California to continuously extend such aid as it could for transient individuals and families in California and even though emergency aid is extended to transient families, women, girls and boys pending verification of local resources, some States in verifying residence advise that no State aid of such kind is possible and that limitations of Federal security wage program make possible assistance from that source; and

WHEREAS, The emergency and more extended costs in excess of $100,000 per year and this sum covers only a small portion of the emergency and every source of transient persons and families in California and extensive economic and health problems exist to such a degree that some sources have recommended more available public hospital and health facilities; and, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly and the Senate of the State of California, unity, That the Legislature of the State of California respectfully urges the President of the United States and the Congress to take cognizance of the problem of some of the unsettled population of the Nation as a national matter and make provision for an appropriation to be used in reimburse States for care of persons and families needing public assistance by States other than the States of their residence and making provision for the continuance of such aid to the transient classed after residence has been established in a State other than the State of origin.

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 9. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, and as such it shall take effect immediately. The facts constituting such necessity are as follows:

A period of economic crisis and financial distress still exists in this State. Many of the purchasers of State lands are still unable to pay the full balance of the purchase price thereof, because of conditions beyond their control. To permit forfeiture of such lands at this time would be inequitable.

It is necessary for this act to take effect immediately to prevent the loss of lands and homes by a large number of school land purchasers.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 5.

Relative to memorializing and petitioning the Congress to enact legislation distributing the revenues obtained from Naval Petroleum Reserves on the same basis as the revenues from other public lands leased under the provisions of the Mineral Leasing Act.

WHEREAS, Section 35 of the act of Congress approved February 25, 1920 (41 Stat. 437), known as the Mineral Leasing Act, provides that 52½ per centum of all amounts derived by the United States from bonuses, royalties, and rentals from leased oil or gas lands shall be paid into, reserved, and appropriated as a part of the reclamation fund created by Act of Congress approved June 17, 1902, and that 37½ per centum of all amounts so derived shall be paid to the State within the boundaries of which such leased lands are located; and

WHEREAS, This method of distribution of revenues received from this limited, exhaustible and non-recurring natural resource does recognize and does establish the fair and equitable policy, which is in the national interest, that the area of origin should participate in the revenue received therefrom as a measure of compensation for the permanent loss of such natural resources and for the exemption from taxation which occurs due to continued ownership of such lands by the United States; and

WHEREAS, Nearly all of the revenues from such leases is from lands in the western States where water development is a paramount necessity; and

WHEREAS, The distribution of the revenues from this source to the Bureau of Reclamation to be expended in upbuilding the permanent agricultural resources by the construction of water stabilization and control projects, thereby making water available for irrigation and hydro-electric power; the control of floods, improvement of navigation and other purposes is sound and just public policy; and

WHEREAS, Naval Petroleum Reserves are created by Executive Order of the President from public lands of the United States and leases thereon are made under the provisions of said Mineral Leasing Act; and

WHEREAS, Section 35 of said act further provides "That all moneys which may accrue to the United States under the provisions of the act from lands within Naval Petroleum Reserves shall be deposited in the treasury as 'miscellaneous receipts' so that neither the State in which such lands are located, nor the Navy Department of the United States, nor the Bureau of Reclamation, receives any benefit from the bonuses, royalties or rentals, as the petroleum or gas produced from said lands is such that it can only be used by the Navy for purposes of sale; and

WHEREAS, The total revenues from oil and gas leases under the Mineral Leasing Act since February 25, 1920, have been approximately $131,000,000 of which more than $32,000,000, or more than 25 per cent of such revenues have been from Naval Petroleum Reserves; and

WHEREAS, If the State of California had received 37½ per centum of the revenues from lands within Naval Petroleum Reserves situate in California since the adoption of said act up to June 30, 1936, the State of California would have received an additional $11,906,209.39; and

WHEREAS, If the Bureau of Reclamation had received 52½ per centum of the revenues from the lands within Naval Petroleum Reserves since the adoption of said act up to June 30, 1936, the Bureau of Reclamation would have received an additional $17,114,390.79.) and

WHEREAS, Naval Petroleum Reserves in addition to being open oilfields have been created at any time, which render existing law inoperative; the Bureau of Reclamation and the respective States of granting new lease rights in such oilfields would be received; and

WHEREAS, It is not equitable that the oil reserves for the Navy be disposed of a few States to the detriment of others; and

Resolved, That a copy of this joint resolution be transmitted by the President of the United States to the Vice President of the United States, and to each member of the Senate and the House of Representatives of the United States.

Resolved by the Senate and Assembly of the State of California, jointly: That the Legislature of the State of California hereby recommends each member of the Congress to carry legislation which will insure that no revenue derived in hereafter received from business operations, now existing under the Federal Mining Act approved February 25, 1907 (34 Stat. 407), from lands within Naval Petroleum Reserves 593 per centum shall be paid into, transferred and appropriated as a part of the Reclamation Fund created by Act of Congress passed in the Reclamation Act approved June 17, 1907, and 34 Stat. 407, and revenue derived from such business operations and profits shall be paid by the Secretary of the Treasury after the expiration of each fiscal year in the State within the limitations of actual the leased lands at 50 cents per acre.

Relative to memorializing the President to use his good offices to persuade the States that have not thus far ratified the child labor amendment to the U. S. Constitution to do so.

WHEREAS, It is one of the tragic paradoxes of our business that returning prosperity increases the exploitation of children, for with the greater demand for goods, factories are driven to employ more labor, but they seek the cheapest, and since it is no longer possible to get adults at starvation wages, they employ children; and

WHEREAS, This deplorable condition could easily and simply be relieved by the ratification of the amendment to the United States Constitution concerning child labor, which has been before the people of the United States for ratification these several years; and

WHEREAS, The good of such an amendment is self-evident, in that if it were adopted Congress could constitutionally enact legislation providing for a standard below which no State could go and thus alleviate the condition of competition between States which results in the deplorable employing of children; and

WHEREAS, California in 1925 was the first State to ratify the Child Labor Amendment and 24 States have thus far ratified this amendment; and

WHEREAS, The ratification of only 12 more States is needed to make the amendment become a reality; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly and the Senate of the State of California, jointly, That the Legislature of the State of California hereby respectfully urges the President of the United States to continue to use his good offices to persuade the remaining States to follow in the footsteps of the 24 States that have ratified this worthy amendment; and be it further

Report.

The following report by Special Committee, to Investigate the Abstraction of Oil and Gas from State Lands, was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

To the President and Members of the Senate:

The Senate of the fifty-first Legislature on April 22, 1935, adopted a resolution providing for the appointment of a special committee of five members of the Senate to investigate the abstraction of oil and gas from tidelands and other lands belonging to the State and matters in connection therewith, which resolution reads as follows:

"WHEREAS, It has been ascertained and is common knowledge that one of the largest and most valuable oil and gas pools in the State of California underlies the tidelands belonging to the State in the vicinity of Huntington Beach, in Orange County; and

WHEREAS, It is commonly reported and claimed that many millions of barrels of oil and many billions of cubic feet of gas have been taken from said pool, aggregating in value many millions of dollars belonging to the State of California; and

WHEREAS, It is reported that the Director of Finance and the Chief of the Division of State Lands in the Department of Finance in the State are negotiating a settlement of the State's claim in the premises; and

WHEREAS, There are a number of bills now pending in the Legislature relating directly or indirectly to this great oil and gas resource of the State, in the consideration of which the Legislature should have before it all of the facts relating to the State's interest therein and its right to the oil and gas, and the proceeds thereof, and full information in regard to any pending proceedings and proposed settlements with reference thereto; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate at the State of California: That a special committee of three (3). Senators be appointed by the President of the Senate to make full and complete investigation of all connections and dealings, past and present, of oil and all other gas, from whatever source, belonging to the State, and all actions of the Department of Finance and of the Attorney General, with respect thereto, and all and singular the facts, circumstances and thereon or on account of or and with it and from them, pertaining heretofore to the State in the vicinity of the port of Huntington Beach, county of Orange, State of California, and the market value of such oil and gas as of the time of the purchase thereof and of any and all proceedings taken in respect thereto, by the Department of Finance and the Attorney General, and the circumstances, terms and conditions of any proposed settlement by the Department of Finance, and the action thereof, of the actions of the State of California, with reference thereto, and into such additional facts and circumstances as may pertain, with due regard proper to enable the Legislature to take prompt and effective action in the premises and to the oil and gas underlying lands and other lands belonging to the State, and be it enacted.

Resolved: That said special committee be known, authorized to hold sittings at any place in the State of California, and be it enacted.

Resolved: That said special committee in carrying out its duties in behalf of the State and in connection with the production of books, agreements, documents and reports of every kind and description, to cause witnesses to compel the production of testimony and the submission of evidence, and to do any and all things necessary to make a full and complete investigation of the matters herein provided. Each member of said special committee is hereby authorized to subscribe, with, and in the presence of, Article V(1) of Chapter II, Title I, Part III of the Uniform Code, relation to the attendance and nonattendance of witnesses before the Legislature and nonattendance thereof, shall apply to said special committee. Said committee is authorized to sit during the present session of the Legislature and during any recess or adjournment thereof, and to report back to the Senate with recommendations during the present or any future session of the Legislature, and be it enacted.

Resolved: That the usual twenty-five hundred dollars ($2500), or so many thereof as may be necessary for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the committee and the cost of the investigation, in being sworn in and appointed out of the contingent fund of the Senate and the State Controller is authorized and directed to draw his warrants in favor of the group of persons entitled thereto, for such expenditure as may be required to him from time to time by the chairman of the committee, and the State Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to pay the same.

The President of the Senate approved the following Senators as members of the special committee: Senators Oscar Chapman, Steve Hahn, Wagon and Brown.

Your committee held its first meeting at Sacramento on July 20 and 21, 1936, and subsequent meetings were held at Huntington Beach in Orange County and at Los Angeles on August 28 and October 13, 1936, at Anaheim in November 17, 1936, at Oceanside in December 28, January 29 and February 20, 1937. At these hearings your committee caused to be produced and received much of oral and documentary evidence and matter in regard to the Division of State Lands of the Department of Finance, bearing to various and sundry of that department in its dealings with operating companies and individuals with reference to the production of oil and gas from the State's tidelands. A report was made of oral and documentary evidence presented relating to the development, operation, drainage and production from the tidelands of the State, particularly at Huntington Beach in Orange County in which the production value, oil and and documentary evidence relating to the question of the boundary line which divides the State tidelands from the privately owned littoral lands at Huntington Beach. The report of the testimony taken before your committee comprises approximately 1200 pages of typewritten matter and many exhibits, including numerous maps, all of which accompany this report and are filed herewith for reference.

Your committee has also made a part of the record of its investigation testimony given before a committee of the Assembly on April 22, 23 and 24, 1937 a copy of which is therewith presented.

While attention was given and information secured as to developments being and production from the tidelands of the State at other places along the coast of California, the attention and time of the committee was devoted principally to inquiry into developments at Huntington Beach in Orange County and questions affecting the right and interest of the State in the oil and gas deposits underlying the tidelands at that point in accordance with the primary purpose of its appointment as stated in the resolution.

Your committee believes that the facts established in the course of its hearings, viewed in the light of the history of legislation affecting the development and production of oil from the State lands, should be given by it in its annual report.

densed form as possible in order to be of convenient service to members of the Senate in their consideration of needed legislation for the protection of the State's interest in this great natural resource found underlying State lands. With that purpose in view, the order of the report will be as follows:

- A. Location of Proved Oil and Gas Fields in State Tide and Submerged Lands.
- B. Development of Oil and Gas in State Tide and Submerged Lands at Huntington Beach.
- C. Location of the Boundary Line Between State-Owned Tidelands and Littoral Private Property.
- D. Wells Drilled Into and Producing From State Lands at Huntington Beach.
- E. Certain Wells Known to Be Producing From State Lands at Huntington Beach.
- F. Value of Past Production of Certain Wells From State Lands at Huntington Beach.
- G. Legislation Pertaining to State Oil and Gas Lands.
- H. Settlements and "Agreements of Easements" With Trespassers on State Lands at Huntington Beach.
- I. Conclusions.
- J. Recommendations.

A. Location of Proved Oil and Gas Fields in State Tide and Submerged Lands.

The total length of the coast line of the State of California is approximately 1200 miles of which not more than six miles is proved oil and gas land and not more than 14 miles is prospective oil and gas land. The proved fields from north to south are as follows:

The most northerly proved development is at Capitan, north of Elwood in Santa Barbara County. At this locality two wells have been drilled in the ocean on permits issued under the Leasing Act of 1921. These wells are of small production having to date (Jan. 1, 1937) produced a total of 19,435 barrels. The producing area under the tidelands is approximately 18 acres from which future production is estimated at 25,000 barrels.

Southward is the Elwood Field, about 15 miles west of Santa Barbara where more than 60 wells have been drilled from piers on the tide and submerged lands. Approximately three-fourths of the oil structure underlies the state-owned tide and submerged lands. The entire structure is covered by leases issued under the Leasing Act of 1921. Production to date from the tide and submerged portions of this field amounts to 35,694,396 barrels. It is estimated that 20,040,660 barrels will be recovered from this area in the future. The possibilities of production from known deeper sands are good. It is possible that wells drilled on the uplands trespass into the State tide and submerged lands. The field is large and important.

Farther southward on the coast in Ventura County, about 11 miles northwest of the town of Ventura, is the Rincon Field where about 12 wells have been drilled from piers and one island on the tide and submerged lands under authority of the Leasing Act of 1921. Production to date from State lands at Rincon has amounted to 1,229,938 barrels. Estimated future production from the wells is 2,130,000 barrels. The present known oil sands have been entirely developed over about 85 acres of the structure, but the existence of deeper sands is probable. Some wells on the uplands bordering the ocean may slant into the tide and submerged area at Rincon.

At Playa del Rey in Los Angeles County, some 15 miles due west of Los Angeles, wells have been drilled along the shore for a distance of more than a mile. Although no wells are known to have entered into the State tide and submerged lands there, it may be that some of the wells in that field are producing from beneath the tideland area. By geological interpretation the structure is known to extend into the ocean offering a chance for production seaward from the shore.

By the terms of prospecting permits issued prior to 1929 and leases of discovery well portions of the area embraced in such permits under the provisions of the leasing act of 1921, oil wells drilled on tidelands as at Elwood, and on other State lands, pay the State five per cent (5%) of the gross production. That act provides that the rest of the area embraced in such permits shall be leased to the highest responsible bidder, with a minimum royalty fixed at twelve and one-half per cent ( $12\frac{1}{2}\%$ ) of the gross production. As before stated, your committee did not attempt to go into the question of determining whether any wells drilled from the littoral or uplands at any of the above-mentioned fields were producing from the tideland areas.

The most southerly and by far the largest and most important development on State tide and submerged lands, and to which the attention of your committee was mostly given, is at Huntington Beach in Orange County. There, nearly 100 wells are at present known to have either intentionally or unintentionally trespassed into oil deposits in the tideland area. Most of that slant drilling is known to have been intentional. Those wells have been and are now producing oil and gas from the tide and submerged lands. To date, their total known production is approximately 20,000,000 barrels. All these wells are located in the submerged lands of the municipality situated lying beneath the tide and submerged lands. It is estimated that these wells will produce 25,000,000 or more barrels of oil in the future.

The undeveloped portion of the oil and gas containing strata beneath the tide and submerged lands were about ten miles to the northeast to southeast to comprise from 80 to 100 acres. Deposits of strata producing this area range from 45,000,000 to 100,000,000 barrels of oil. These oil wells were practically developed here. For several years before along the littoral land to the northeast boundary trespassers have been drilling in the littoral and submerged lands which have been and are producing a large amount of oil and gas. Some of these wells trespass into and are producing oil from the submerged area. In the future that they are not offset by the state and the littoral area, which have drilling and are now draining oil and gas from the submerged area, which are now being offset by oil wells.

Here, at Huntington Beach, the State has found that in the position of having tide and submerged lands underlying with water bearing of oil and gas that are being drained by wells producing from littoral lands, and beyond the wells extending out under the littoral area, with the state of California, in order to produce taken from the State's lands by trespassers who are drilling in littoral areas for offsetting the drainage wells that are wholly within littoral property.

B. Development of Oil and Gas in State Tide and Submerged Lands at Huntington Beach.

The first indication that oil and gas were under the State tide and submerged lands at Huntington Beach, occurred shortly after the discovery of oil and gas about a mile and a half inland on May 24, 1901.

By the end of 1901, production was developed at a point about three or four miles from the coast. Drilling was done along the littoral boundary and about several miles up and down the coast for four or five years were found in littoral acquired for drilling purposes. Only the littoral strata in the city of Huntington Beach, which lies along the coast, and the State's lands, remained unexplored for drilling purposes. (See Map, H. B. Co. Field made by Department of Natural Resources, Division of Natural Resources, Division of Oil and Gas.)

In December, 1925, Seagram conducted a well on the beach. From this well, 100 feet from the coast. This well was drilled to the bottom of the littoral and the town lot area of Huntington Beach and was drilled by extensive trenching drilling and the drilling of a vertical well in the beach, and from the littoral and referred to as the P. E. strip, including the littoral.

Wells were drilled along the State littoral and as near to the littoral area as possible, the trend of development being to the northeast of Sacramento Street where initial production from the ground. The limits of the field production, however, extended to the southeast as far as Laguna Beach.

During the years 1909, 1910 and 1911, there were considerable land sales in the Huntington Beach area. The limits of production remained in this area developed by successful drilling to depths of 1000 to 1500 feet in 1910 and 1911, however, several failures and unproductive wells were drilled, which caused some production toward the coast. In 1922, oil and gas wells had been drilled and many new wells were drilled and apparently showed to some and others from the tide and submerged lands belonging to the State. Although wells were drilled along the littoral land known as the P. E. strip. This discovery was made proved the existence of large deposits of oil and gas in the State's tide and submerged lands at Huntington Beach.

Mention might be made here of what is known as the State's main well which is located about one mile northwest from the Huntington Beach field proper. This well was drilled into the same strata as the main well, under the Leasing Act of 1921. From it a few years ago, it was found that at a depth below 4250 feet. Permit to continue this well has been given and no further developments are being made by it. This is the main well that has ever been drilled in this vicinity under the 1921 Act.

C. Location of the Boundary Line between State-owned Tidelands and Littoral or Upland.

Section 830 of the Civil Code provides:

"Except where the grant under which the land is held indicates a different intent, the owner of the upland, when it borders on a lake or stream, takes to ordinary high water mark; when it borders upon a navigable lake or stream, where there is no tide, the owner takes to the edge of the lake or stream, at low water mark; when it borders upon any other water, the owner takes to the middle of the lake or stream."

Adjacent to and extending along the tidelands at Huntington Beach northwesterly from Ninth Street the full length of the belt is a narrow strip of land averaging about 150 feet in width known as the "P. E." (Pacific Electric) strip. It parallels the Pacific Electric Company right of way along which the suburban electric trains of that company are operated, and lies between that right of way and the ocean. This strip of land and that occupied by the P. E. right of way are owned jointly by the Huntington Beach Company and the Pacific Electric Land Company. The Huntington Beach Company also owns land in the town-plot area, and is the owner of the Barley Field portion of the Huntington Beach field lying northwesterly from Twenty-third Street. The Standard Oil Company of California (which for convenience will be hereafter in this report referred to as "Standard") is the major stockholder of the Huntington Beach Company and is the operator of the Standard wells in this held under lease and agreement with the Huntington Beach Company and the Pacific Electric Land Company.

The title to the fee ownership of the P. E. strip and the uplands therefrom is derived from a Spanish (Las Bolsas) land grant confirmed under an act of Congress providing for the settlement of private land claims in the State of California. That grant conferred title in Ramond Yorba et al. to Las Bolsas Tract which is described as covering all the land bordering along the shore at Huntington Beach. It describes the oceanward boundary of Las Bolsas Tract as the "high water mark of the Pacific Ocean".

That description was embraced in a survey made for the United States Surveyor General's office at San Francisco, December 23, 1873, and approved by President Grant in 1874. The Pacific Electric strip extends along the shore embracing a natural bluff the average height of which, from the bottom of its escarpment, is about twenty (20) feet. A concrete retaining wall was built by Standard along this bluff extending from about Ninth Street westerly to a point between Twenty-second and Twenty-third Street, a distance of about one mile. At the bottom of this retaining wall and at the bottom of the continuation of the bluff westerly, the ocean sands, or beach, begins.

In January, 1935, the Division of State Lands made a survey of a line reached by the uppermost reach of the waves to points shown by erosion of the water along the shore line or the deposition of debris, seaweed, etc., brought in by the waves, which line is determined by the Division of State Lands as the high water mark. That survey, westerly from Tenth Street, is plotted on Map No. 1 which accompanies the report of the engineers and with reference to which the producing portion of the wells that are found to be producing from the tidelands and the surface location of those wells on the littoral and uplands are shown.

Your committee employed Professor U. S. Grant, Assistant Professor of Geology at the University of California at Los Angeles, specializing in the study of physiographic features found on beaches, and Professor W. C. Putnam, instructor of geology at the Los Angeles Junior College, also a specialist and student of the physiography of beaches, to make a study of the shoreline at Huntington Beach for the purpose of furnishing the committee information upon the question of location of the ordinary high water mark and high water mark of the waves. These witnesses located and made a survey of the escarpment that marks the upper edge of that portion of the shore that is ordinarily washed by the waves. That mark is indicated by an escarpment more or less consistent along the entire beach having an average height of  $1\frac{1}{2}$  feet. The line of that survey is placed on Map No. 1 accompanying the report of the engineers in red. These witnesses also located and surveyed the line marking the maximum reach of the waves which substantially corresponds with the uppermost reach of the waves found by Mr. Alexander for the Division of Lands plotted upon Map No. 1 by blue dotted line (see Map No. 1).

This study of the beach by Professors Grant and Putnam was made in November, 1936.

Colonel Charles T. Leeds, formerly of the United States Army Engineer Corps, now retired and in private engineering practice, appeared as a witness before the committee. He testified that he was employed by Standard to make a survey from which could be obtained any contour which was desired in the vicinity of high water mark. He testified that he plotted for Standard the elevation of neap tides above mean sea level, as 2.44 feet which he understood Judge Ames, of Orange County, had decided was a plane, projections from which could be located the ordinary high water mark. A copy of a decision of Judge Ames was presented giving that elevation as 3.75 feet. The Leeds line is plotted upon Map No. 1 submitted with the report of the engineers by a dotted dark line.

Colonel Leeds testified that he had at no time made any survey of the high water mark or ordinary high water mark reached by the tides and the waves and that this line is not intended to fix the line to which the tides and waves extend. No profiles were taken from this line to determine at what point a projection from this elevation would intercept the beach.

The committee obtained the services of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey which detailed Lieutenant Fish to make a survey similar to the one made by Colonel Leeds and to establish with reference thereto permanent monuments record of their own surveys and other material data to any engineer or committee of engineers satisfactory to that company that your committee might select.

The chairman of your committee received a letter from the Governor in which he stated that after conference with the Director of Finance he had concluded to submit to the Attorney General the matter of the allowance for the expense of surveys and audits. The Governor stated that he felt convinced that it would be impossible for him to set aside the amount required for the use of the committee; that possibly the work could be carried on by employments made through the Department of Finance, but it would be necessary to get the opinion of the Attorney General.

The committee was later advised that Standard had employed the surveyor who had been engaged by the committee to make surveys of its wells upon the understanding from the Chief of the Division of Lands that the money for that expense would not be available for the committee from the executive department, and that it was with a view of facilitating this matter that Standard had taken upon itself the work of having the surveys made of its wells by the surveyor selected by your committee.

The chairman of the committee received a letter from the Chief of the Division of Lands stating that Standard had agreed that it would survey the balance of its wells and any other wells likely to be in the tidelands and turn the surveys over to the Department of Finance or to an engineer selected by your committee, and that he had been advised by the attorney for that company that it had employed the surveyor selected by your committee for that purpose. The Chief of Division of Lands further stated in his letter that immediately upon the completion of that work he would advise the committee. He also expressed the hope that if the committee were advised by Standard that its wells, other than the six admitted by it to be in the tidelands were not in the tidelands the committee would have no objection to the completion of the proposed settlement with Standard, hereinafter explained.

Without funds to proceed with surveys of its own, your committee was compelled to confine itself to examination by engineers and geologists appointed by it, of surveys and other data furnished by operators of the wells and to rely upon the report of those engineers and geologists as to subsurface location of the wells with reference to the tideland boundary.

Dr. E. K. Soper, Associate Professor of Geology of University of California at Los Angeles; Dr. Wendell P. Mason, Professor of Civil Engineering at the same university, and Arthur H. Alexander, petroleum production inspector employed in the Division of State Lands, were finally appointed by your committee for that purpose, and Standard agreed to furnish its surveys and other data to those engineers for their inspection and report.

All the operators were requested by your committee to furnish these engineers all available information, surveys and other data of a technical nature having bearing upon the abstraction of oil and gas from the tidelands at Huntington Beach and the underground locations of various wells with respect to the tideland boundary, including written permission to examine the drilling and production history of the wells filed with the Division of Oil and Gas, which would otherwise be unavailable under existing law.

The work of the engineers so appointed embraced the collection of data requested from the operators, classifying the wells and production data made available to them, compiling and studying wells from production data, and checking and reploting the well surveys submitted, a consideration of the methods used in making these surveys, a consideration of the geological features, particularly as to possible effects upon wells' productivity and gravity of oil and the preparation of their report.

The engineers studied the records and data made available to them of 70 oil wells, and checked the operators' surveys of 53 of those wells at Huntington Beach oceanward from Walnut Avenue (see map), including 26 wells of Standard along the P. E. strip and 23 wells of that company inland therefrom. Their reports made to your committee are made a part of the record of its hearings and are submitted therewith.

That report identifies the particular wells investigated and gives the findings of the engineers upon the data furnished them by the operators as the location of each with reference to said respective lines of survey. It contains tabulations of data furnished and is accompanied by maps showing surface and subsurface locations of those wells investigated which are in the tidelands and the wells which are not shown by said data to be in the tideland. This report of the engineers recommends that 5 wells which have been previously surveyed by the operators be checked by the State by means of resurveys or joint survey, and recommends that nine other wells which have never been surveyed or for which no surveys are available should be surveyed in order to determine whether they are obtaining their oil and gas production partly or wholly from beneath the tidelands. The engineers also point out that there may be other wells inland from Walnut Street to which area the investigation did not extend that may have been drilled or drifted into the tidelands that are not included among those paying royalties to the State under settlements made by the Department of Finance.

E. Certain Wells Known to Be Producing from State Lands at Huntington Beach.

By the report of the engineers data furnished by the operators and other evidence produced it is conclusively shown that the following wells are included among those 80 wells that have made settlements with the Department of Finance extend into State lands. If the present use of State and private owned lands is "high water mark of the Pacific Ocean" on the "concrete high water mark" as approved and plotted by the Division of State Lands and by the United and Public surveys made under supervision of Professor L. S. Corbett and William C. Thomas by your committee.

Standard Oil Company Wells Nos. 1, 3, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12 and 14 on the P. E. strip.

Reston Petroleum Company's "Steam" Well No. 5.

Southern California Drilling Company's "Sevens" Well No. 1.

Standard's Well No. 5 (P. E. strip) is partially within the State land and partially within littoral and subject to tide survey.

Standard's Wells Nos. 14 and 15 (P. E. strip) likewise appear but are not shown to be extended into the State land as marked by State land and surveys.

Data was not made available for the determination of one location of some other wells under investigation, to wit:

Signal No. 1, Ames No. 1 and Fee No. 1 of Consolidated Petroleum Company, and Dealer No. 6 of Decker Oil Company.

This was due to changes in ownership and the fact that the consent of the present owner to examination of data filed with the Division of Oil and Gas is not accepted by the division inasmuch as former owners under the following provisions of Act 1916, Section 7, Statutes of 1929:

"The records of any and all operations which shall work the deposits comprising operators shall be open to inspection to those authorized in writing by each of said operators."

Lack of opportunity to conduct further operations in getting these records prevented the engineers from completing their investigation of these wells.

Certain operations referred to herein was done in the confidence for the commission. No opportunity was given to any one officer of Finance, particularly within your committee since receiving the engineers' reports. As shown by some reports, the Petrol Corporation desired to remove data on the "Steam" Well No. 1 because of pending litigation connected against it by Standard regarding the location of the bottom of that well. And the possibility of this withdrawal before the committee expressed willingness to attend the engineers' survey in this case.

The Superior Oil Company refused to furnish any information to the engineers concerning its wells, but following the subpoena of the committee to appear before the committee, that committee released to the engineers the substantial information concerning those wells filed with the Division of Oil and Gas. Information should be confirmed by the Division of State Lands of any other wells that may be on the tidelands, as indicated in the reports of the engineers.

F. Value of Past Production of Certain Wells from State Lands at Huntington Beach.

The total production of oil to October 31, 1936, and the total production of gas from April 1, 1939 to October 31, 1936, of above mentioned wells from the tidelands area according to the survey of the Division of State Lands are as follows:

Well Number	Total quantity of Oil	Total value of Gas
Standard Oil Co. Well No. 1	1,871,451	732,811
Standard Oil Co. Well No. 3	1,939,678	727,292
Standard Oil Co. Well No. 6	629,710	247,292
Standard Oil Co. Well No. 8	527,881	178,215
Standard Oil Co. Well No. 9	421,895	167,897
Standard Oil Co. Well No. 10	317,268	89,296
Standard Oil Co. Well No. 11	71,986	12,583
Standard Oil Co. Well No. 12	79,529	11,698
Standard Oil Co. Well No. 14	87,764	64,289
Reston Petroleum Co. "Steam" Well No. 5	153,696	52,799*
Southern California Drilling Co. "Sevens" No. 1	200,000	42,500*
Standard Oil Co. Well No. 5 (One half within tideland boundary as surveyed by Division of State Lands)	819,770	377,429

*Estimated.

The value of this total production would approximate $7,000,000 based upon the valuation of the oil as averaging $1 per barrel and of gas as averaging 5 cents per 1000 cubic feet.

The precise amount and value of production to which the State is entitled can only be determined by the courts in the event the operators do not agree that the ownership of the littoral lands extends only to the high water mark of the Pacific Ocean or the ordinary high water mark as measured on the ground by the surveys of the Division of State Land and Professors Grant and Putnam.

This question is involved also in pending actions between the littoral land owners and the operators of certain wells drilled from the town-lot area in which the littoral land owners claim that those wells are bottomed in the littoral and not in the tideland area.

G. Legislation Pertaining to State Oil and Gas Lands.

Prior to 1921 there was no law in California covering the leasing of lands for the purpose of prospecting for oil or gas or the removal thereof from State lands. In 1921 the Federal Government adopted a leasing act under which oil and gas producing lands belonging to the Federal Government have since been prospected and leased.

In 1921 the State of California enacted a law (Chapter 303 of the Statutes of that year) providing for the issuance of oil and gas prospecting permits and oil and gas leases of State lands. This act was patterned somewhat after the Federal Act. It authorized leases of State lands including school sections, tidelands and parts of navigable lakes and rivers. Under this act as amended in 1923 leases were issued to operators at Summerland in Ventura County, California, where small producing wells had been drilled in the tidelands many years prior to 1921.

It was not until about 1926 that any other developments of oil and gas occurred along the coast. Between that year and 1929 about 208 applications were filed in the Surveyor General's Office for permits to prospect for oil and gas in the tidelands at different points along the coast. The issuance of these permits was held up by the Surveyor General. Actions were filed to compel their issuance and in a case which was carried to the Supreme Court it was decided that the Surveyor General had no power to refuse the issuance of permits under the applications filed. (Boone vs. Kingsbury, 206 Cal. 148).

In January, 1929, the Legislature then in session passed an urgency measure identified as Chapter 7, prohibiting until September of the same year the receipt of any applications by the Surveyor General to prospect for oil and gas or the issuance of any lease, and authorizing the Surveyor General to issue permits to all who had obtained the right by virtue of having filed applications prior to January 27, 1929. The 1929 session of the Legislature, following the adoption of this urgency measure, amended the 1921 Statute with provisions that on and after September 1, 1929, no applications for prospecting permits shall be received and no leases for drilling for oil or gas shall be made by the State or any political subdivision for tidelands, submerged lands, overflowed lands or beds of navigable rivers or lakes. No prospecting permits have since been issued for drilling for oil or gas into or upon the tidelands and no such permits and no oil or gas leases of tidelands or the right to produce oil or gas therefrom has since been authorized by any statute that has become effective.

By amendment to section 675 of the Political Code made in 1931, the Director of Finance was given power to lease, upon such terms as he should prescribe, any State land for the production of oil and gas. This provision was defeated by referendum.

By an amendment made to the 1921 Act by the 1933 Legislature, the Surveyor General was authorized to negotiate agreements for compensating the State for the draining of oil and gas from State lands by wells drilled upon private lands.

The 1935 Legislature made certain other amendments to the 1921 Leasing Act but none authorizing the leasing of the tideland areas or the production of oil or gas from the tidelands by means of wells drilled from littoral or uplands.

An act passed both houses of the 1935 Legislature known as Assembly Bill No. 1684 giving the owners of littoral lands the exclusive right to apply for and secure from the State, leases for slant drilling wells into and producing oil and gas from the tidelands areas upon minimum royalty to the State of 16 2/3 per cent of the production. This act was vetoed by the Governor.

A similar measure known as Proposition No. 4 was placed on the November 3, 1936 election ballot. That initiative measure granted the exclusive right to produce from the State's tidelands by means of wells slant-drilled therein from the littoral lands, upon a royalty to the State of 14 2/7 per cent of the production. This initiative proposition was defeated at that election.

Therefore, as heretofore stated, production and prevention of drainage by the State of oil and gas deposits underlying its tidelands by means of leases to private operators or otherwise has not been provided for since 1929.

H. Settlements and "Agreements of Easements" with Trespassers on State Lands at Huntington Beach.

Prior to 1931, Standard had drilled and had produced and was continuing to produce oil and gas from 12 of its 26 wells that have been drilled from the surface

They recite that the grantee (the trespassing oil operator) has drilled a certain well, naming the same, upon real property owned by the grantee in the Seventeenth Street addition to the city of Huntington Beach, California, and has caused the same to cross lands intervening between said Seventeenth Street addition to the city of Huntington Beach and the ordinary high-water mark of the Pacific Ocean, and to enter in, upon and under State lands seaward therefrom, and to enter the oil, gas and petroleum deposits thereof; that the bottoms of said wells and portions of said wells are now, through, in and under said State lands and that said wells have taken and received and are capable of taking and receiving oil, gas and other petroleum products from the oil and gas deposits of the State lands, for which the grantee is willing to compensate the State; that the State is willing to enter into an agreement for such compensation and to permit the grantee to continue to take oil, gas and petroleum products from said land upon the terms therein set forth.

It is then provided that "the State, in consideration of the royalty to be paid and covenants to be observed as herein set forth, does hereby grant to the grantee easements appurtenant to said lands of the grantee, * * * through, in and under the said lands belonging to the State, * * * and the right to drain, take, receive, extract, remove, produce and use oil, gas and other petroleum products, through certain oil wells," designating them, "the tops of which said wells are located upon those certain lands of the grantee" describing the same, and "through any other wells which may hereafter be drilled upon said property with the consent, in writing, of the Chief of the Division of Lands, first had and obtained, and subject to the terms, covenants and conditions contained, in so far as is applicable, and otherwise in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Division of State Lands, * * * for a period of twenty (20) years from the date hereof, with preferential grant in the grantee to renew this agreement for successive periods of ten (10) years each * * * unless otherwise provided by law at the time of the expiration of such periods."

It is provided that in consideration of this grant the grantee agrees to pay the State a royalty on the oil produced in accordance with the formula and schedule attached to the agreement and one-fifth (1/5) of the net proceeds received from the sale of gas produced, whether dry or wet, and upon all casinghead gasoline produced and sold. The grantee agrees that it will not drill any other wells into the State lands without the consent of the Chief of the Division of Lands and that it will not redrill, lengthen or deepen the wells referred to without such consent but the State shall not exact any royalty or royalties in addition to those specified.

The amount of "royalty" payable to the State by the grantee for all oil and gas and other petroleum products produced by the grantee from said wells previous to the effective date of the agreement is set forth, being based upon a certain formula or schedule applicable to past production which is attached to the agreement. Provision is made for payment of this past royalty in monthly installments with interest at six per cent per annum from the effective date of the agreement.

Other provisions of the agreements embrace details as to the mechanics of future operations thereunder.

The formula and schedule upon which future royalties are to be paid the State on oil produced is a sliding scale controlled by amount of average daily production over a period of one month and the current market price per barrel of oil produced. This royalty ranges from 5.42 per cent on the average daily production of 100 or less barrels, when the current market price is 50 cents per barrel, and upward for greater average daily production and higher current market price. The average daily production and the average current market price is such that the average royalties received by the State on all of these wells amounts to about 10 or 11 per cent of the value of the oil.

The formula agreed upon as a basis of settlement for past production is that the average daily production be determined by dividing the total number of days each well was on production by the total number of barrels produced up to the effective date of the agreement.

Since such "agreements for easements" were made in 1934, a few operators, said to have "spudded in" or started wells slanted to reach and produce from the tidelands, have been granted similar royalty easements to drill or conduct drilling into the tidelands, some within the past four or five months. In one case at least, an easement was granted for the drilling from the surface of the land occupied by its derrick.

LEGALITY OF "AGREEMENTS FOR EASEMENTS" DOUBTFUL.

The authority of the Director of Finance to grant these so-called easements allowing for the production from the State lands by trespassing wells is questioned. They are in fact leases of the right to enter and produce oil and gas from the subsurface of State tide and submerged lands by means of oil wells drilled from the uplands. No statute gives the Executive Department specific authority to grant or lease that right. The Director of Finance in making "agreements for easements" with the operators of wells found trespassing in the tideland area at Huntington Beach, and the Attorney General in approving them, rely upon the those wells were taking oil wholly or partially from the State's land oceanward from that line as follows:

Wells		Percentages
Standard HB-PE No. 1	-----	57.4
Standard HB-PE No. 3	-----	100.
Standard HB-PE No. 6	-----	44.3
Standard HB-PE No. 8	-----	100.
Standard HB-PE No. 9	-----	100.
Standard HB-PE No. 10	-----	31.07

A new agreement was drawn up under date of March 27, 1935, which is also referred to as "Agreement for Easement No. 338". The consummation of this agreement was pending in the office of the Director of Finance when the resolution providing for the appointment of your committee was adopted, and it has not been consummated.

That agreement recites that the "bottoms or portions of bottoms" of the above named six wells "and portions of said wells" are now through, in and under said lands of the State, and that "said wells have drained, taken, received, and are capable of draining, taking and/or receiving oil and gas and other petroleum products from the oil and gas deposits of said lands of the State of California".

The agreement then provides for a grant to Standard, in consideration of royalty to be paid and covenants to be observed, of "easements appurtenant" to the littoral lands of Standard therein described "through, in and under the lands belonging to the State of California" therein described, and "the right to drain, take, receive, extract, remove, produce and use oil, gas and other petroleum products" through the said oil wells commonly known as Standard HB-PE Wells Nos. 1, 3, 6, 8, 9 and 10 respectively, the tops of which said wells are located upon those certain lands of the grantee, describing the littoral lands of the grantee as extending "to the line of the ordinary high tide of the Pacific Ocean" and also for a grant to Standard "through any other wells which the grantee may hereafter drill into said State land with the consent in writing of the Chief of the Division of Lands". The lands of the State are described in that agreement as

"beginning at a point in the ordinary high water mark of the Pacific Ocean

and extending oceanward from said line a distance of three miles. The proposed agreement provides that this grant shall be for twenty (20) years with the preferential right in grantee to renew the agreement for successive periods of ten (10) years each on such reasonable terms and conditions as may be prescribed by the State acting through Chief of the Division of Lands.

The proposed agreement provides for the payment of "royalty" on the same percentages of the oil produced from said six wells that are given as the percentages of the producing portions of said wells that are extended into the State lands oceanward from the Leeds line set as a boundary by Standard; the amount of such royalty to be fixed by the application and the formula similar to the formula specified in the agreements made with the operators in the town-lot area.

It provides for a royalty of one-fifth (1) of the net proceeds received by Standard upon the said percentages of the production of said wells of all gas, dry or wet, and of all casinghead gasoline sold either to a subsidiary of Standard or any other buyer.

The agreement further provides that the grantee shall not drill any wells into said lands of the State nor redrill, lengthen or deepen said wells into the lands of the State without consent in writing from the Director of Finance.

Either party is given the right to terminate the agreement as a whole or as to any of said wells or portions upon notice of its determination to do so.

It is proposed in this agreement that the amount to be paid by Standard to the State for all oil and gas and other petroleum products produced by Standard from said six wells up to February 15, 1934, shall be the sum of $473,498.91. The "royalty" thereafter to be paid upon the basis provided for future production.

Standard is given the option to adopt the form of any agreement made by the Director of Finance or Chief of the Division of Lands and any persons other than Standard relating to the taking of oil, gas and petroleum products from wells drilled upon the Seventeenth Street addition to the city of Huntington Beach.

I. Conclusions.

It is clearly shown by the evidence contained in the record of the hearings before your committee, and the report of its engineers shows, not only that the apex of the anticline of the formation containing the oil zone from which oil and gas are being produced from the tideland area at Huntington Beach is out in the ocean a distance of 1000 to 1200 feet, but also that inland from the tidelands is a fault zone which, roughly stated, parallels the shore approximately one block back from the ocean (see map). It is also shown that there are about 100 wells between this fault and the tideland boundary most of which are producing; that 26 of these wells are on the P. E. Strip which extends along the seaward boundary for a distance of about two miles. The positions of the derricks of the P. E. Strip wells are from 50 to 200 feet inland from the tideland boundary.

This fault entirely segregates the productive area seawardward from so that these numerous producing wells along the tideland lands and beyond seaward from the fault have been and are continuing draining the tideland zone. It is anticipated that the greater part of the production of the wells on the tideland and offshore not bottomed in the tideland zone, probably 50 to 60 per cent, comes from the tideland area. If this condition is continued to continue without action on the part of the State to effect this drainage by wells drilled on the State in the tideland zone, eventually in the future considerable amounts from Young's Point, Smith, Lee State will be depleted of oil and gas. It is proposed that new drainage from State lands by such wells be estimated to 25,000,000 or 50,000,000 barrels of oil.

As already shown, no present estimate available for production from the tideland area, and your committee believes that it is of great importance that suitable and proper legislation be enacted for that purpose by the Legislature.

It is obvious from the evidence before your committee and the present known methods of drilling, that the most effective and available and least costly method of securing the maximum production for the State from this zone would be the means of wells drilled on the tideland land about two seawards from the boundary line by means of earth ground or mooring or to some oil platform and barge. All the littoral and offshore are in public ownership. Also lands situated to be under authority of the State from littoral or offshore lands but not yet to be separated the maximum production from the tideland zone would require the removal of production of drilling from two regions of new wells would be from tideland during which the drainage of all such gas from the tideland area to the west in the littoral and offshore would continue.

Your committee also has found that important against the scattering of the heads of the State within the territorial waters in accordance to conditions found at Huntington Beach. There are already already wells drilled at spots extending along the beach for a distance of about one mile which already produce an unsightly. They practically confine the gas of most portion of the beach from any other than oil and development. They will continue to do so until the oil and gas underlying the tideland is extracted and drilling drilling along the beach are removed. Operations for the benefit of the State in areas producing from that point by means of new, more space wells drilling would be more economical to the State and will produce more revenue than the present use of this system of wells for recreational purposes have already shown. There are some of tractors in either drilled from the littoral and some portion of the beach available and more suitable for public use for bathing and other recreational purposes, such as oil fields exist. In fact, the beach there could be made more suitable to the public for bathing and fishing purposes than at present by removing the system of wells built for all with development, which would remove the system for public and access to and open the beach for public use. Your committee also knows that the removal of the State of revenue that may be made available for the public welfare and from which expenditures may be made for the protection and operation of recreational resorts, parks and beaches, would mean the loss of the revenue for the State by means of drilling within the limits of this oil and gas producing area of State land.

As to whether it shall be the policy of the State to proceed with the development by means of drilling for new development having with a maximum recovery and maximum revenue, should be made by means of wells drilled by the State directly or by either or both methods, your committee cannot be recommended because the views of the members are not in exact accord in that question of policy.

J. Recommendations.

Your committee however does recommend as follows:

1. That legislation be enacted by the present Legislature at the earliest possible date, as presently necessary, granting suitable development and production of oil and gas from State lands at Huntington Beach by means of wells drilled oceanward from the shore.

2. That the productive area be drilled and strung extending from the shore to the oceanward, and if developed by means of wells drilled from barge or ground, that shall be so constructed as to provide public access to the beach.

3. That if this development is to be money used by providing for leases to private operators such leases be awarded only to the highest qualified bidder, upon a minimum royalty and such other minimum terms as shall be fixed by the Legislature.

4. If the Legislature shall determine that the State shall or may proceed directly with said development instead of leasing the right to a private owner, that the productive area be developed by the State in similar manner with the requirement that the first wells drilled be spaced to effect wells drilled from the littoral lands now draining the tideland area.

5. That the Director of Finance for and in behalf of the State, shall be authorized and empowered to acquire and possess, for and in the name of the State, any real property, or any right of every easement or other interest therein that may be necessary or desirable for convenient access to the State's tide and submerged lands at Huntington Beach for the purpose of developing, producing and transporting the production of oil wells thereon and all construction work and incidental uses in connection therewith. That it be declared of public interest and necessity that the State shall have and that the Director of Finance for and in the name of the State be authorized and directed to institute condemnation proceedings pursuant to section 14 of Article I of the Constitution and Code of Civil Procedure relating to eminent domain and cause to be condemned and acquired by the State any real property or right or interest therein or thereon for the above mentioned purposes. That any property or right or interest so acquired shall be made available to any person, association or corporation to whom an oil and gas lease may be awarded covering any portion of the tideland area at Huntington Beach, upon such terms as may be prescribed by law or by the Director of Finance under authority vested in that office.

6. That no settlements, easements or leases shall be made or granted to any oil well operator whose well or wells are found producing from the State's land except under such authority and upon such terms as shall be provided by an act of Legislature.

7. That the Department of Finance and the Attorney General be required by act or resolution of the Legislature to take immediate and proper action and procedure to require the payment from all operators of wells drilled from littoral and/or upland area that are found producing or that have produced from the tideland area, the full amount of the proceeds derived from the oil and gas produced by these wells from the State's lands at Huntington Beach, to which the State is entitled.

8. That the Attorney General be directed to intervene in actions between littoral and upland operators for the protection of the interests of the State in cases in which it may be disclosed that any wells involved are bottomed in State lands.

9. That section 7 of Act 4916, Chapter 303, Statutes of 1921, be amended so as to provide that the records of all oil well operators, when filed with the deputy supervisors of the Division of Oil and Gas, shall be open to inspection to those authorized in writing by such operators or their assignees or successors in interest, and of State officials enforcing and administering that act, the Attorney General and his deputies, and to the board of commissioners therein provided for.

Your committee further reports that in order to complete its investigation and furnish the foregoing report, record of its hearings, surveys, documents and other data accompanying its report, it became necessary to secure the assistance of and employ engineers and other experts as indicated in the report. The appropriation from the contingent fund of the Senate of $2500 provided for in the resolution has been exhausted and additional obligations necessarily incurred upon the understanding that their payment depends upon an appropriation being secured to cover payment of same. An account of expenditures, and such deficit (amounting to $6696.21) and the purposes therefor, accompanies this report.

Your committee recommends an appropriation in the sum of $6696.21 to cover this deficit.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON, Chairman.

Special Committee of State Senate Appointed to Investigate the Abstraction of Oil and Gas from State Lands.

(NOTE.—This report was prepared by the chairman in collaboration with other members of the committee and in contemplation that at least a majority of the committee would concur with the report in its entirety, but some irreconcilable differences have arisen, particularly regarding its recommendations, which have resulted in a failure of other members of the committee to join in the entire report. For that reason this report is to be taken as the report of the chairman, each of the other members to express such concurrences or disagreements as they may deem proper.

Former Senator Nelson T. Edwards has notified the committee that he concurs in this report, but not in all its recommendations; that he does not join in recommending drilling on the tidelands from piers, groins or islands because "it would mean that Orange County would not have the right to tax either the equipment used or the oil produced".)

Consideration of Senate Joint Resolution No. 4.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 4.

Relative to memorializing and petitioning the President and the Congress of the United States to include the Central Valley Project in the National program of work-relief.

WHEREAS, California has one of the gravest unemployment problems in the United States, due to the fact that the State has become the haven of unemployed from every section of the country; and

WHEREAS, One of the most constructive methods of coping with the unemployment problem is the building of useful and necessary public works which will confer permanent and lasting benefits as well as afford immediate work-relief; and

WHEREAS, California is in urgent need of the development, conservation and stabilization of its water resources to prevent the abandonment of thousands of farms and homes, and to avert tremendous financial losses; and

WHEREAS, The State of California has prepared a comprehensive coordinated plan for the progressive economic development of the water resources of the State, carefully formulated over a period of 14 years, which provides for the control of floods and salinity encroachment, the improvement of navigation, the conservation and stabilization of water supplies for municipal, irrigation, industrial and mining uses, and for the generation of electric power; and

WHEREAS, The Legislature of the State of California in 1933 passed the Central Valley Project Act which was signed by the Governor and was thereafter approved by vote of the people of the State at a special election held on December 19, 1933; and

WHEREAS, The people in California, in the Sacramento Valley and San Joaquin Valley, desire the water impounded soon, whether a dam be located at Kennett, at Baird, at Table Mountain, or at any two or all of these places, and desire to buy cheap hydroelectric power at the earliest possible moment; and

WHEREAS, Said Central Valley Project has been investigated and approved by at least 13 agencies of the Federal Government and has been recommended for Federal financing; and

WHEREAS, A greater degree of flood protection in the Sacramento Valley is highly desirable as evidenced by the floods on the Sacramento River and its tributaries; and

WHEREAS, The construction of said project will give employment to thousands of workers, now unemployed, not only in California but throughout the Nation, thereby relieving unemployment in many branches of industry, particularly in the heavy manufacturing industries in the East and Middle West; and

Urgency Clause.

SEC. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1, Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, and as such shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity:

The region situated in the San Bernardino Mountains known as and called Arrowhead Lake and Big Bear Lake, and the vicinity surrounding and between said lakes, has become the main recreational area for all southern California and the maintenance of such area for recreational purposes is essential for the preservation of the public health; that annually many thousands of people frequent such recreational area for the purpose of regaining health and for recreational purposes, and many other thousands desire the opportunity to do so; that said recreational area is now reached by means of a State highway leading from San Bernardino by and through Waterman Canyon, along the crest of the said San Bernardino Mountains; that said State highway is wholly inadequate and insufficient to provide means for traffic to safely go to and from such recreational area; that it is necessary in the interest of public peace and safety that additional highways be provided; that the highways hereinbefore described are an essential part of the main thoroughfare to and from such area and are necessary to provide safe means of ingress to and egress therefrom; that the traffic to and from said recreational area has increased so rapidly that the additional roads have become necessary and the immediate construction of such additional roads is necessary in order to promote the said public health, peace and safety; that all of said recreational area is within the Federal Forest Reserve and the Federal Government is interested in the development of such areas and will make a Federal grant for the purpose of constructing said highways; that it is necessary that the highways, hereinbefore described, become a part of the State highway system in order that said Federal grant be available for such purposes; that unless such highways immediately become part of the State highway system it will be impossible for the State Department of Public Works to avail itself of the said Federal grant and said means of ingress to and egress from such recreational area can not be provided; that it is necessary, in order to promote the said public health and the public peace and safety in the manner aforesaid, that such means of ingress to and egress from such recreational area be immediately provided; and if this act is adopted and goes into effect immediately the funds provided by the Federal Government will become immediately available for such purpose and the work of providing such safe means of ingress and egress will immediately start. That unless such highways are immediately constructed many people will be deprived of an opportunity of enjoying the said recreational area and having the healthful benefits thereof, and the safety of many people attempting to enter such recreational area will be endangered.

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, January 21, 1937.

MR. PRESIDENT: Your Committee created by Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 6, to which was referred the following communication, to wit:

DEAR SIR: I attach hereto an affidavit setting forth certain facts as to the hearing of the charge against me contained in the joint resolution to remove me from my office.

I am confident that no member of the Legislature can wish to be associated to vote on this resolution and the charge contained in it with an entire lack of knowledge of facts vitally related to the issues involved.

Based upon that belief and the facts stated in my affidavit I make the following request:

That a sufficient sum of money be appropriated to provide for the preparation of my defense, including a retainer for the fees of attorneys to act in preparing, and in presenting such defense at the hearing before the Legislature.

That such provision be made for the expenditure of said money as the Legislature may deem right, to the end that it be not improperly spent, and, also, that the use thereof may not be hampered and the purpose of its appropriation be destroyed by unnecessary red tape, since its use is, obviously an immediate need.

If attorneys in charge of the preparation of my defense are provided with funds for investigation purposes at once the number of witnesses will surely be much reduced, because it is believed that certain relevant, competent and material facts are within the knowledge of a number of persons, and it is not my purpose to unnecessarily produce cumulative evidence or to improvidently expend the State's money. Again, some persons whom there is reason to believe have knowledge of such facts may be found not to have such knowledge.

The State has no public defender; and as far as I know, there is no public officer charged with the duty of defending a citizen, who is without funds, against charges preferred under the circumstances here present.

Being in jail, it is apparent that I can not possibly prepare my own defense. Able counsel have been appointed to prepare and present the case against me. In spite of the verdict of the jury in my case in the Federal Court, it would seem that my unblemished record of 25 years in judicial office should suggest that my averment that I have a substantial defense is worthy of provision being made for a reasonable investigation of the merit of that claim before any judicial body should be willing to penalize me by removal from office. It would seem that the accused should be permitted to select his attorneys, and that they should use the money appropriated, subject to a rigid accounting for the same.

Respectfully,

GAVIN W. CRAIG.

COUNTY OF VENTURA } SS.

GAVIN W. CRAIG, being duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is the Gavin W. Craig who is a Justice of the District Court of Appeal of the State of California and who is named in a joint resolution of the Senate and Assembly of the State of California, which said joint resolution sets forth a certain charge as a reason for the removal of affiant from his said office; and that the hearing of said charge, as affiant has been notified, is set for the eighth day of March, 1937;

That affiant is confined as a prisoner in the county jail at Ventura, California, for a term of one year, which does not expire until November 15, 1937;

That affiant has no funds, or any means of securing funds, with which to prepare his defense to the charge set forth in said resolutions for his removal from office, or to employ counsel to conduct such preparation for him, or to present his defense at said hearing;

That because of being confined in jail affiant can do little toward the preparation of his defense;

That affiant has been informed by competent lawyers, that he has a good and sufficient defense to said charges, and that he verily believes that he has such good defense;

That affiant is informed by said lawyers, and that he believes, that the facts which he desires to, and if permitted, will prove at said hearing, are relevant, competent and material to the issues presented by said charge;

That affiant has reason to believe, and does believe, that there are 70, or more, persons now in California, each one of whom has personal knowledge of one or more of the aforesaid facts;

That in addition to the said witnesses, several documents, of which some are voluminous, are, so affiant is informed by said lawyers, and so affiant believes, competent, relevant and material evidence in defense of said charges;

That it will be necessary to the proper presentation of affiant's said defense, to be made at said hearing, that each of said documents be copied and the copies certified, and the necessary expense of making said copies and the certification thereof will be approximately $1000, unless said expense is reduced by possible stipulation;

That if all of said witnesses are subpoenaed and transported from their respective residences to Sacramento, and maintained near the place of said hearing until the testimony of such witnesses has been given, affiant is informed and believes and therefore states that the entire expense thereof will amount to several thousands of dollars; however, the exact amount of such expense is unknown to affiant;

That affiant is informed that the Legislature of California has appointed and will employ three, perhaps six, lawyers to prepare and present the case against the affiant at said hearing, and affiant says that to properly prepare and present affiant's said defense, affiant is informed and believes and therefore states that the services of three attorneys will be needed for much of the time from this date until the conclusion of said hearing,—for all of the time during said hearing, and that the duration of said hearing may be as long as four weeks.

GAVIN W. CRAIG.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this nineteenth day of January 1937.

J. C. F. MORRIS, Notary Public.

My commission expires October 20, 1938.

Urgency Clause.

Sec. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgent measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, and shall take effect immediately. The facts constituting such necessity are as follows:

The unified school district law enacted in 1913 (Chapter 77, Statutes of 1913, School Code sections 2,000-2,100) provided that, in the case of unified school districts, notwithstanding such a charter, not in any of the first 1,000 schools, inclusive, now governing schools for an entire school year, there was to be voting on the first Friday in June 1937, to take effect July 1, 1937. Such a measure had the effect of destroying the continuity of policies of administration in said districts to the detriment of the pupils and schools of the districts. This measure eliminates dangers inherent in any abrupt change in management of existing boards of unified school districts by eliminating such abrupt change in management. This measure also makes it necessary reformation of the procedure of law relating to the filing of petitions on governing boards of unified school districts. If this measure is to serve its purpose, it must take effect immediately.

Report.

The following report by Special Committee Appointed for the Purpose of Considering the Contest of Charles F. Remchullar, Contestant, and Thomas F. Keating, Contestee, was received, read, and ordered printed in the Journal:

To the Senate of the State of California.

The Special Committee appointed pursuant to resolution of the Senate adopted on January 4, 1937, to hear the contest of Charles F. Remchullar, Contestant, vs. Thomas F. Keating, Contestee, in the Thirteenth Senatorial District, submit the following report:

After having notified the respective parties to the Senate that a hearing would be held on January 5, 1937, the committee met at two o'clock and after organizing proceeded to hear testimony, statements and arguments on behalf of the respective parties. At this meeting the contestant was represented by his attorneys, Robert D. Duke and Lawrence Cowan, and the contestee was represented by his attorneys, Carlos R. Freitas and Jerome A. Duffy, and after hearing the statements of the respective parties and reading the depositions which had been taken and transmitted to the President of the Senate through the Secretary of State, general at the mutual request of the attorneys for the respective parties, leave to be taken. When briefs had been filed with the committee by the respective parties the committee again met on January 22, 1937, at nine o'clock, a.m., at which time the parties appeared in person and by counsel and presented further oral argument whereupon the matter was submitted.

The committee, after hearing and considering the evidence, arguments and statements, finds that the evidence is insufficient to sustain the charges as set out in the statement of the contestant and there is not sufficient evidence to justify a recount of the votes cast in the said Senatorial District and that said contest be dismissed.

The committee further finds that Thomas F. Keating was duly elected at the general election held on November 3, 1936, as State Senator in the Thirteenth Senatorial District.

PARKMAN.
HOLOHAN.

Report read, and on motion of Senator Hays, adopted.

Bill read third time.

Urgency Clause

SEN. 12. This act is hereby declared to be an emergency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public health, safety and morals, within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of our Constitution, and shall therefore take effect immediately.

The facts constituting the necessity are the dangers to the State and to the people involved in the moratorium laws passed in 1933, and the suspension and terminations which will result in the near future under mortgages, deeds of trust, and contracts of purchase of real property or upon the basis of such property or upon contracts executed for the purchase, mortgage, transfer of interests, or payments by the owner or purchaser of such property. These dangers are the result of exceptionally depressed conditions in this State, which have resulted in a large proportion of the individuals and legal entities of this State being unable to meet their obligations. The danger is the resulting anarchy, as we observe, the suspension of law and order, and a threat to the preservation of our government which has become constituted an important part of the self-governing and constitutionally independent people of this State. This act will enable a speedy and efficient relief from these dangers, from current and future, as well as prevent emergency and bank purchasers to find means of meeting their obligations, and in the same time will protect the interests of creditors. The urgent necessity will, therefore, be justified.

SENATE CHAMBER, SACRAMENTO, JANUARY 21, 1937.

MR. PRESIDENT: Your Committee created by Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 6, to which was referred the following communication, to wit:

Hon. George J. Hatfield, President of the Senate of the State of California, Senate Chamber, Sacramento, California.

DEAR SIR: I attach hereto an affidavit setting forth certain facts as to the hearing of the charge against me contained in the joint resolution to remove me from my office.

I am confident that no member of the Legislature can wish to be compelled to vote on this resolution and the charges contained in it with an entire lack of knowledge of facts actually material to the issues involved.

Based upon that belief and the facts stated in my affidavit I make the following request:

That a sufficient sum of money be appropriated to provide for the preparation of my defense, including a fair sum for the fees of witnesses to act in preparing and in presenting such defense at the hearing before the Legislature.

That such provision be made for the compensation of such witness as the Legislature may deem right to call and that it be not unreasonably exact, and also, that the witnesses called not be harassed and the purpose of the appropriation be destroyed by unnecessary and large sums for the use of absolutely all immediate funds.

If attorneys in charge of the preparation of my defense are provided with funds for investigation purposes at once the number of witnesses will surely be much reduced, because it is believed that serious physical, financial and material facts are within the knowledge of a number of persons, and it is not my purpose to unnecessarily produce confusion and chaos or to unnecessarily expend the State's money. Again, some persons believe there is reason to believe their knowledge of such facts may be vital, but to have such knowledge.

The State has no public defender, and as far as I know, there is no public officer charged with the duty of defending a citizen, who is without funds, against charges preferred under the circumstances here stated.

Being in jail, it is apparent that I can not possibly prepare my own defense. Able counsel have been furnished by counsel and parties who were against me. In spite of the verdict of the jury in my case in the Federal Court, it should seem that a well-qualified group of 25 years in Federal office should suggest that my statement that I have a sufficient defense in answer to questions being made for a reasonable investigation of the merits of the charges before any judicial body should be willing to question me be removed from office. It would seem that the counsel should be permitted to select his attorneys, and that they should use the money appropriated, within a reasonable amount for the same.

Respectfully,

GAVIN W. CRAIG

COUNTY OF VENTURA } ss.

GAVIN W. CRAIG, being duly sworn, deposes and says: That he is the Gavin W. Craig who is a Justice of the District Court of Appeal of the State of California and who is named in a joint resolution of the Senate and Assembly of the State of California, which said joint resolution sets forth a certain charge as a reason for the removal of said Craig from his said office, and that the hearing of said charge, as said joint resolution has been notified is set for the eighth day of March, 1937.

That said Craig is confined as a prisoner in the county jail at Ventura, California, for a term of one year, which does not expire until November 15, 1937.

That said Craig has no funds, or any means of securing funds, with which to prepare his defense to the charge set forth in said resolutions for his removal from office, or to employ counsel in conducting such preparation for him or to present his defense at said hearing.

That because of being confined in jail said Craig can do little toward the preparation of his defense.

That said Craig has been informed by competent lawyers, that he has a good and sufficient defense to said charges, and that he verily believes that he has such good defense.

That said Craig is informed by said lawyers, and that he believes, that the facts which he desires to, and if permitted, will prove at said hearing, are relevant, competent and material to the issues presented by said charge.

That said Craig has reason to believe, and does believe, that there are 50, or more, persons now in California, each one of whom has personal knowledge of one or more of the aforesaid facts.

That in addition to the said witnesses, several documents, of which some are voluminous, are, so said Craig is informed by said lawyers, and so said believes, competent, relevant and material evidence in defense of said charges;

That it will be necessary to the proper presentation of affiant's said defense, to be made at said hearing, that each of said documents be copied and the copies certified, and the necessary expense of making said copies and the certification thereof will be approximately $1000, unless said expense is reduced by possible stipulation;

That if all of said witnesses are subpoenaed and transported from their respective residences to Sacramento, and maintained near the place of said hearing until the testimony of such witnesses has been given, affiant is informed and believes and therefore states that the entire expense thereof will amount to several thousands of dollars; however, the exact amount of such expense is unknown to affiant;

That affiant is informed that the Legislature of California has appointed and will employ three, perhaps six, lawyers to prepare and present the case against the affiant at said hearing; and affiant says that to properly prepare and present affiant's said defense, affiant is informed and believes and therefore states that the services of three attorneys will be needed for much of the time from this date until the conclusion of said hearing,—for all of the time during said hearing, and that the duration of said hearing may be as long as four weeks.

GAVIN W. CRAIG.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this nineteenth day of January, 1937.

SEC. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California and shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity: The boundaries of many school districts, high school districts and junior college districts within the State of California have been established, enlarged, changed or altered within the last two years, and many of such districts thereafter have voted bonds for raising money with which to purchase school lots, for building or purchasing one or more school buildings, or making alterations or additions to same or restoring or rebuilding school buildings damaged, injured or destroyed by fire or other public calamity, for insuring school buildings, for supplying school buildings with furniture or necessary apparatus, for improving school grounds, for liquidating any indebtedness already incurred for said purposes or refunding any valid outstanding indebtedness of such districts evidenced by bonds or warrants thereof. The proceedings in the establishment, enlargement, change or alteration of boundaries of such districts in many instances were irregular and by reason of such minor irregularities and defects in such proceedings not jurisdictional such bonds can not now be sold. The present school facilities of such districts are inadequate to meet the needs of the pupils in such districts, and it is necessary and urgent that such proceedings be validated at an early date.

To the Members of the Senate.

Pursuant to authority vested in me by the original resolution directing me to have printed and to distribute copies of Mason's Manual of Legislative Procedure, I forwarded a copy of the same to the presiding officers of such legislative bodies of the various States as are now in session.

I have received numerous acknowledgements from such officers, one of which, from the Hon. Hugh R. Adair, Lieutenant Governor of Montana, is particularly gratifying. I am submitting it to you in the hope that you may see fit to make it a part of the permanent records of the Senate.

Respectfully submitted,

J. A. BEEK, Secretary of the Senate.

SENATE OF THE STATE OF MONTANA.
HUGH R. ADAIR, Lieutenant-Governor.
M. B. BOSCKIS, Secretary.

HELENA, February 22, 1937.

Hon. Joseph A. Beek, Secretary of the Senate, Sacramento, California.

DEAR MR. BEEK: The copy of "Mason's Manual of Legislative Procedure" which was sent me through the courtesy of the California Senate was received and I have carefully examined same and I am of the opinion that the manual is the most carefully digested and usable small manual for legislative assemblies such as ours that I have yet seen.

The annotations and footnotes are particularly valuable and I know that the compilation of such a thorough and compact manual must have involved a vast amount of painstaking work.

Only yesterday the manual was used and accepted as authority in the settlement of a difference which had arisen in connection with a vote on the adoption of the report of a Conference Committee. The disputed matter was readily found in the index and the text was reasonable and accepted without question.

Mr. H. D. Rolph, the present Speaker of the House of Representatives, would like to obtain a copy of the manual and several other inquiries have been made as to the price of same and where same could be obtained.

One legislator today advised me that he had wired for a copy of the minutes to the California State Printing Office.

The writer has just completed a revision of the Rules of the Senate which carry with same annotations showing the rules that are based on either constitutional or statutory provisions. As soon as these new revised rules are received from the printer, we shall be pleased to supply you with a copy of same.

Kindly express to the Senate my appreciation for their thoughtfulness and courtesy in forwarding me a copy of the manual which I consider most valuable to presiding officers and members of legislative assemblies.

Very truly yours,

HUGH R. ADAIR

Resolution.

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Schottky:

Relative to memorializing Congress concerning pending legislation to increase the number of Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States.

WHEREAS, Legislation has been introduced, sponsored by the President of the United States, to increase the number of Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States; and

WHEREAS, Said legislation provides, among other things, that whenever a Supreme Court Justice, having attained the age of 70 years and having served 10 years upon the Federal bench, fails to retire, an additional justice may be appointed by the President, subject only to the limitation that there be no more than 15 judges upon the Supreme Court; and

WHEREAS, It is apparent from the message accompanying the President's proposal and the public utterances of the President and the chief supporters of said proposal that the reason for the proposal is the fact that certain legislation sponsored by the President and enacted by the Congress has been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States, and that the purpose of the proposal is to enable the President to appoint to the Supreme Court judges who will approve such legislation and declare it constitutional; and

WHEREAS, Under the Constitution of the United States the judicial power is vested in the Supreme Court, and the Supreme Court is intended to be a separate independent branch of our government; and

WHEREAS, The effect of the enactment into law of the said proposal of the President will be to pack the Supreme Court of the United States in order to secure approval of legislation heretofore and to be hereafter enacted by the Congress, and the further effect of the enactment by the Congress of legislation carrying out said proposal will be to destroy the function of the Supreme Court of the United States as an independent branch of our Government, and will in the language of the Senior Senator from California Hiram W. Johnson "render the Supreme Court subservient to the Presidency"; and

WHEREAS, The further effect of the enactment of such a proposal will be to amend the Constitution of the United States by indirection and to disregard the sound advice of George Washington when he said in his farewell address:

"If, in the opinion of the people, the distribution or modification of the constitutional powers be in any particular wrong, let it be corrected by an amendment in the way which the Constitution designates.

"But let there be no change by usurpation; for though this, in one instance, may be the instrument of good, it is the customary weapon by which free governments are destroyed.

"The precedent must always greatly overbalance in permanent evil any partial or transient benefit which the use can at any time yield."

and further to disregard the words of Thomas Jefferson, when he said:

"A single consolidated government would become the most corrupt government on earth * * * What has destroyed the liberty and the rights of man in every government which has existed under the sun, the generalizing and concentrating all cares into one body * * *";

and

WHEREAS, It is vital to the preservation of our American institutions and our American form of government that the three great branches of our Government should remain separate and independent, and there shall continue to be a judicial review by an independent court of justice of the acts of the Congress and of the President, in order to determine judicially whether the individual rights and liberties guaranteed under the Constitution have been infringed upon; and

WHEREAS, The separation of the executive, the legislative and the judicial branches of our Government, and the mutual independence of the three branches, one from the other are fundamental to the genius of our Constitution and our Government; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, That the Senate of the State of California does respectfully urge and memorialize the Congress of the United States to reject that portion of the proposed legislation which will give to the President of the United States the right to appoint additional justices to the Supreme Court of the United States in the event that any of the justices of the Supreme Court fail to resign and to reject any legislation which will destroy the independence of the Supreme Court and render it subservient to the Presidency, and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the President of the Senate of the United States, the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, and to all the Senators and Representatives from California in the Congress of the United States.

6 Article 1. General Provisions.

In Cases Nos. 1 and 6, the titles refer to an unspecified section of an existing code or act.

In Cases Nos. 2, 3, 4 and 5, the titles refer to the amendment of a specific portion of an existing law.

In Case No. 7, the title refers to a proposed new law and in Case No. 8, the title refers to the addition of a new chapter to an existing law.

In considering the question raised by me, I desire to be understood:

First—As to an amendment in Cases Nos. 2, 3, 4 and 5, if the proposed amendment set forth a law which actually amended the specific portion referred to in the title; and

Secondly—If the proposed amendment varied the title as used, I refer to a different section of the law which was actually amended; and

Thirdly—If it was a combination of these two methods.

Your reply to this inquiry before the first of March, 1937, the date of the reassembling of the State Legislature after the constitutional recess, will be greatly appreciated.

Respectfully,

GEORGE J. HATFIELD, Legislative Counsel.

P. S.—For your information, I am enclosing a copy of the Legislative Counsel dated January 18, 1937, addressed to me relating to skeleton bills.

SEVEN W. CALIFORNIA, FARM, DUBLIN, CALIF.

SIX, FARMERS, March 1, 1937

Honorable George J. Hatfield, Legislative Counsel,

State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

DEAR SIR:—I have before me a copy of your communication of January 27, 1937. Therein you refer to sections 2 and 15 of Article IV of the State Constitution and as Presiding Officer of the Senate, ask to be informed whether or not you do not interpret of the constitutional provisions to amend or pass, after the legislative recess mentioned in said section 2 any of the numerous copies of which you set forth your number in your communication, such copies being apparently combinations of bills that may have been introduced at the opening session of the Legislature. Each of such examples is numbered by you, and as there are more than eight hundred I must refer to them by such numbers as convenient for immediate reply.

With your request, you have furnished a copy of a communication to you from Mr. Sidney I. Woodruff, Deputy Legislative Counsel, approved by Mr. Fred R. Wood, Legislative Counsel. Such communication to this end is in response to an inquiry by you of the Legislative Counsel as to whether a bill must contain one or more titles and an enacting clause, and which does not set forth one of two law words or purports to propose, is in fact a bill. In your letter, containing such advice of the Legislative Counsel you have mentioned the general type of such skeleton skeleton bill as follows:

"An act to amend section _____ of _____ relating to _____"

"The people of the State of California do enact as follows:

"SECTION 1. • • • •"

In such communication to you, in response to your inquiry of this, the Legislative Counsel called attention to that provision of section 15 of Article IV of our State Constitution which is to the effect that:

"No law shall be passed except by bill • • • •"

He quoted several definitions of the word "bill" taken from Webster's Dictionary, from Lewis' Standard Southern Constitution and various legal cases, concluding that these authorities indicated that a "bill" is a draft or proposal which may be enacted into law, and that if a bill is introduced and not be passed into law it is not a "bill." In connection with the quoted portion of section 15 he stated:

"The use of the word 'bill' in this sentence necessarily understands that a bill is something which may be enacted into law. This is further confirmed by a consideration of some of the provisions of section 2 of Article IV.

The sessions of the Legislature shall be biennial. • • • • and shall continue for a period not exceeding 30 days thereafter; whereupon a recess of both houses must be taken not less than 30 days. On the reassembling of the Legislature no bill shall be introduced in either house without the consent of three-fourths of the members thereof; nor shall more than two bills be introduced by any one member after such reassembling."

He further stated that such a provision should be considered with reference to the evil to be remedied, and cited Cooley in his work on Constitutional Limitations, Eighth Edition, at page 286, where a similar constitutional provisions from other States were reviewed and it was stated that the purpose thereof is to prevent hasty and improvident legislation, and to compel, so far as any provision law can accomplish that result, the careful examination of proposed laws. The Legislative Counsel further stated that the object to be attained by such provision or provisions would be thwarted by the use of skeleton bills; and under the California system such object is of course thwarted by the use of skeleton bills, but still another object is thwarted, namely the offering of an opportunity to the general public, as well as the legislators, to study the bills during the recess, and to accord such public an opportunity to make known to their representatives their opinions and wishes with reference to such proposed legislation. In accord with such views he referred to an article by Mr. Thomas S. Barclay, Stanford University, in Volume 20, California Law Review, at page 45. In such article Mr. Barclay also stated that the skeleton bill practice violated the theory of the bifurcated session provided for in the Constitution, and nullified one of the basic ideas of such divided session. Summarizing his opinion the Legislative Counsel expressed the view that a bill is a draft which may become a law, that to attribute any other meaning to the word would be to defeat the object of the constitutional provisions, and that the word "bill" could not include a skeleton bill. In conclusion he stated that as to how much language must be inserted in the body of a bill to escape the appellation of a skeleton bill was a question that could not be answered in the abstract, but could be answered only in relation to the particular provisions of each such bill as and when the issue arises.

With the conclusions of the Legislative Counsel I fully concur. As, however, you have presented several examples and requested my opinion in relation thereto, and as the opinion of the Legislative Counsel does not refer thereto, they not being before him, I shall herein apply my views to these examples respectively.

In Case No. I the title refers to an unnamed or unnumbered section of the Political Code. The body of the measure is completely lacking. Such a measure is clearly not a bill within the meaning of the Constitution.

In Case No. II, while the title is sufficient, the body of the measure is completely lacking. Such a measure is, in my opinion, not a bill within the meaning of the Constitution.

The Constitution expressly provides, in section 24 of Article IV, that every act shall embrace but one subject, which subject shall be expressed in its title; but if any subject shall be embraced in an act which shall not be embraced in its title, such act shall be void only as to so much thereof as shall not be expressed in its title; and no law shall be revised or amended by reference to its title; but in such case the act revised or section amended shall be reenacted and published at length as revised or amended. Obviously the measure in question could not be passed in the form stated. In such form it is a nullity and to be of any avail must have some matter added to it.

Obviously such additional matter could now be added to such a measure only by way of a proposed amendment. It is accepted legislative procedure that an amendment must be germane to the matter amended. A thing can not be germane to that which does not exist, and as within the purview of the constitutional provision that which is now represented or presented by the skeleton measure in question is void and has no existence, there could not be legally an amendment offered thereto or passed with reference thereto. An analogy to such matter exists in the well accepted legal principle that a void or repealed law can not be amended.

What is hereinbefore said with respect to the Cases Nos. I and II, particularly with respect to the latter, applies as well to Nos. III to VIII, inclusive.

You state that in considering the questions raised by you, you desire to be advised:

Firstly—As to an amendment in Cases Nos. 2, 3, 4 and 5—if the proposed amendment set forth a law which actually amended the specific section referred to in the title; and

Secondly—If the proposed amendment was to the title so as to refer to a different section of the law which was actually amended; and

Thirdly—If it was a combination of these two methods."

It is my view that all of the examples or cases which you have presented are so far deficient in form that they are not to be considered as bills within the meaning of the constitutional provision and that it would be in violation of the constitutional provisions to either amend or pass any of such measures, or any other measures which might be passed upon a purported amendment of the measures in question, either with respect to the title or body thereof.

Very truly yours,

U. S. WEBB, Attorney General.

The following report was received:

By Senator Gordon:

Report of Division of Fish and Game Pursuant to the Resolution Adopted on January 20, 1937.

DIVISION OF FISH AND GAME,
SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, March 1, 1937.

The Honorable President and Members of the Senate,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

GENTLEMEN: Complying with your order of January 20, 1937, contained in a resolution which appears on page 2 of the Senate Journal of January 20th, we are submitting a report on predatory animal control.

This report consists of three parts. Part I is an accounting of the sum of $80,000 appropriated by the fifty-first session of the Legislature for the purpose of predatory animal control and which summarizes the expenditures requested by your resolution of January 20, 1937. Part II is a summary of the predatory birds and animals taken over a period of time, and Part III consists of an outline of the predatory animal control program as a whole.

We beg to call the attention of your Honorable Body to several things in connection with this report. First, you will note that of the sum of $80,000 appropriated at the fifty-first session for expenditure during the eighty-seventh and eighty-eighth fiscal years, that there will be an unexpended balance of approximately $10,000.

This was due to two things. Firstly, the expenditures seemed to be controlled by a new and enlarged predatory animal control program which demonstrated careful planning, organization and cooperation with other State agencies engaged in the same type of work. Secondly, it concerned the employment of additional personnel. This personnel was not immediately forthcoming. In fact it was almost one year after the passage of the appropriation before the necessary personnel was available to us due to the practices of the Civil Service Administration in the Commission which fairly swamped the Personnel Board in providing Civil Service personnel.

We had no desire to waste this money and this it was much better to proceed slowly and lay a proper foundation both in personnel and organization to meet the intent of the Legislature in making the appropriation.

Some of this money was necessarily spent in providing permanent and semi-permanent organizations. It is now hoped that with this appropriation that a proper and necessary program of predatory animal control as laid out by this commission has been established and that similar sums of money should continue to be available for this type of work.

We call your attention specifically to Part III of this report which outlines in general the cooperative control program that has been made possible as a result of the appropriation that we are now accounting for.

It will be our pleasure to furnish further information or explanation in connection with the sums expended, the results obtained and the program outlined.

Respectfully submitted,

Predatory Animal Control

The predatory animal control program of the Bureau of Fish and Game commenced on January 1, 1932. At that time nine men were employed to trap coyotes and other predators on game refuges. This number being reduced to five on July 1, 1933. In June 1936, the force of trappers was increased to 12, and in January 1937, eight additional men brought the total number of trappers to the full of 20, not including the four men who have been contracted. We are now awaiting the certification of ten additional men and will have a total of 30 trappers working throughout California during the year of the 1937.

Following is a summary of the total number of predators taken and the certification of the predatory animal control program on January 1, 1932, and up to January 31, 1937:

California Predatory Animal Control Program.

By D. D. McLEAN, Economic Biologist.

On the first of January, 1932, a program of predatory animal control on State game refuges was begun by the Division of Fish and Game. Originally, nine men were appointed as trappers during that year, but of that number only four were retained. One of these men was transferred to other work and a new man appointed to work in northeastern California on the first of December.

These men did excellent work, as is evidenced by the catch from January 1, 1932, to July 1, 1936, during which time they took 1495 coyotes and 564 bobcats. Most of their work was done in San Benito, Monterey, Lake, Mendocino, Lassen, Modoc, Placer, El Dorado, Tulare and Ventura counties.

During the spring of 1936, a cooperative plan between the California Division of Fish and Game, United States Biological Survey and the State Department of Agriculture, was worked out whereby the Division of Fish and Game would take care of the game areas of the State and the United States Biological Survey and the State Department of Agriculture the range and agricultural land. This arrangement divided the State into two approximately equal areas. The plan also called for the appointment of additional trappers by the Division of Fish and Game to work in game areas, and on July 1st, seven new untrained men went to work under the supervision of the four experienced trappers. Up to the end of January, 1937, the catch for the prior seven months was 555 coyotes and 141 bobcats, although the trapping was greatly hampered by the bad weather during the winter of 1936 and 1937. However, the new men, being possessed of no preconceived ideas, followed the instructions of their supervisors and most of them began to take coyotes and bobcats on their traplines immediately.

In order to facilitate the work, the State was divided into five districts and a supervisor put in charge of each one. These five districts are as follows: The northwest coast, northeastern California, south Sierra, south central coast and the southern California district.

Whenever complaints of coyote damage to game come into the division's office, it is the duty of the supervisors to survey the critical areas and determine what procedure shall be followed. In some cases, these areas fall within the jurisdiction of the United States Biological Survey or the State Department of Agriculture. The three interested departments keep each other informed of where their trappers are working in order to do away with duplication of effort.

It is also the duty of the supervisors to look for new areas within their districts where coyotes and bobcats are particularly numerous and control work is needed. They distribute their men accordingly, and aid them in the transportation of traps and equipment, as not all of the new men are provided with transportation.

Particularly heavy concentration areas of coyotes have been in San Benito, Monterey, Lassen, Modoc, Placer, El Dorado and Kern counties. The population of coyotes in different areas fluctuates considerably from year to year because of food conditions and perhaps disease. There is also considerable seasonal fluctuation, especially at high altitudes and on migration routes.

All of the trappers state that when a coyote is ranging in a particular region for any length of time, the actual amount of territory covered is relatively small, generally being considered to be not more than five square miles unless food is scarce. Most of their traveling is done over a circuit which may be traversed nightly or over a period of several days. It is on these circuit routes that the trappers place their traps and at some sets as many as 40 coyotes have been taken. In other words, a good route for one coyote is generally acceptable to another. Contrary to the belief of many people, a set really becomes better after one coyote has been caught in it, as the scent attracts others.

A major part of the deer kill by coyotes is done on the winter range, when the snow is relatively deep. From stomach examinations in the laboratory, it was determined that out of 240 stomachs examined with food in them, 100 or 41 2/3 per cent contained deer meat, bones, hair or other parts. Two-thirds of the 100 were taken during and in the month following the deer season, when deer hides and deer bones can be picked up at every hunter's camp. Thirty were taken during the winter and 43 during other seasons of the year.

In San Benito County, at times as many as 100 miles of trap line will catch 20 day-sets to a coyote. In El Dorado County, about 95 miles and 125 day-sets to a coyote. In Lassen, about 50 miles and 25 day-sets per coyote. This indicates the relative abundance of coyotes in different regions. Bobcats were just mentioned in San Benito, Lake and Merced counties, though even in those we do not find bobcats outnumbering the coyotes. In the Sierra Nevada Mountains, most of the coyotes are taken between the 4000 and 6500 foot levels, their part of the mountains are trapped below the 5000 foot level. In the most rugged parts, hunters go to the tops of the mountains.

The division does not intend to slacken its efforts in controlling predators, but rather to increase them. An additional group of eight men has just been put on the trapping force and two experienced trap hunters will be engaged temporarily. The results of this activity of the division will be apparent in the game fields of our State.

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 17. By Senator Parkman.—Relative to directing an investigation and report on acquisition of the San Mateo Toll Bridge across San Francisco Bay.

Consideration of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 17.

Senator Parkman asked for, and was granted, unanimous consent for the consideration of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 17, without reference to committee for purpose of adoption.

Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 17.

Directing an investigation and report on acquisition of the San Mateo Toll Bridge across San Francisco Bay.

WHEREAS, It is the policy of the State of California to acquire and own all toll bridges situated upon or along any part of the highways of the State, and in view of ultimately eliminating all toll charges thereon; and

WHEREAS, The privately owned San Mateo Toll Bridge, extending across San Francisco Bay from a point near San Mateo, California, to a point near Hayward, California, constitutes an important connecting link between highways of the State, and

WHEREAS, The present rates of tolls across said bridge are relatively higher than tolls on other toll bridges, and

WHEREAS, The acquisition of said toll bridge by the State or the California Toll Bridge Authority at the earliest possible date is in conformity with said established policy; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California, The Assembly thereof concurring, That the California Toll Bridge Authority is hereby authorized and directed to conduct a survey and investigation of said toll bridge with a view to the feasibility and practicability of the acquisition, as of the first of October, 1937, and as of the first of July, 1938, of this toll bridge by purchase or condemnation by the State, or the California Toll Bridge Authority, which survey and investigation shall comprehend the appraisal of the value of the structure in case of its acquisition; the amount of compensation to the owner which in the judgment of said authority should be paid on the basis of the value of the structure and the length of time which the franchise has yet to run; the feasibility of providing funds for such acquisition by issuing and selling revenue bonds; the rate of tolls by it estimated as necessary to collect pending the retirement of such revenue bonds, and the reduction, if any, in the rate of tolls which may be effected immediately upon acquisition of said toll bridge; and be it further

Resolved, That as a part of the report hereinafter referred to, the California Toll Bridge Authority shall prepare and submit to the Legislature:

(a) Itemized tables of the annual amounts estimated as necessary to retire such revenue bonds over a 20 year period together with interest thereon computed at 3 per cent, and with interest computed at  $3\frac{1}{2}$  per cent.

(b) Itemized tables of the traffic over said bridge for the years 1932 to 1936, inclusive, showing by years the amount of different classes of traffic and the receipts from each class at the present toll rates together with an estimate of the amount of annual traffic over said bridge at the present rate of tolls, from the first of January, 1937, to the expiration of the franchise on said bridge.

(c) Itemized tables, by years, showing the estimated cost of the operation and maintenance of said bridge and of the estimated cost of collecting tolls thereon for a period of 20 years, together with a report upon the propriety and feasibility of paying such maintenance, operation and toll collections costs from the gas tax fund.

(d) A report upon the effect the lowering of tolls upon said bridge may have with respect to the volume of traffic which may be expected to use the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge; and be it further

Resolved, That the California Toll Bridge Authority shall prepare a report of the results of such investigation and survey and deliver it to the Secretary of the Senate prior to April 27, 1937.

REPORT OF SPECIAL SENATE COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE THE ABSTRACTION OF OIL AND GAS FROM STATE LANDS.

To the President and Members of the Senate:

Your committee, consisting of Senator Olson, Chairman, Senators Hays, Wagy, and Edwards, was organized pursuant to Senate resolution adopted April 22, 1935, by which it was directed:

"to make a full and complete investigation of

"all operations and proceedings, past and present, of land and oil persons, firms, associations, or corporations in connection with the abstraction of oil and gas from tide lands belonging to the State; and

"all acts of the Department of Finance and of the Attorney General with respect thereto; and

"all and singular the facts, information and documents in the hands of oil and gas, if any, taken from tide lands belonging to the State in the vicinity of the city of Huntington Beach, county of Orange, State of California, and the market value of such oil and gas as of the time of the commission, and

"any and all proceedings taken in respect thereto by the Department of Finance and the Attorney General; and

"the circumstances, means and resources of any person or persons, by the Department of Finance, or any division thereof, of the nature of the State of California with reference thereto; and

"into such additional facts and circumstances as said committee may deem proper to enable the Legislature to fully protect the rights of the State in its premises and in the oil and gas underlying tide lands and other lands belonging to the State."

Meetings were held at Sacramento on July 9 and 10, 1935, at Huntington Beach on August 28, 1935, at Los Angeles on October 21 and 22, November 16 and 17, 1935, and October 30, December 28, 29 and 30, 1935.

Transcript of its proceedings, with maps and other exhibits, have been transmitted to the Senate by the chairman.

The investigation was confined to oil and gas deposits underlying the State's tide and submerged lands, especially to such lands in the vicinity of Huntington Beach, in Orange County.

Consideration of the facts requires preliminary reference to:

- (a) Legislation Pertaining to Oil Well Drilling on Tide and Submerged Lands;
- (b) Surveying and Directional Drilling of Oil Wells; and
- (c) The Law and Evidence Received Relating to the Boundary of Tide lands.

(A) Legislation Pertaining to Oil Well Drilling on State Tide and Submerged Lands.

The Act of May 25, 1921 (Stats., 1921, Ch. 303, p. 404), authorized issuance of oil and gas prospecting permits, and oil and gas leases covering lands belonging to the State, including tide and submerged lands. This was the first legislation in this State on the subject.

Numerous applications for such permits were filed with the Surveyor General, who refused to act thereon. In December, 1928, the Supreme Court held that the withholding of permits was unauthorized and directed their issuance (Boone vs. Kingsbury, 206 Cal. 148). The Legislature (on January 17, 1929; Stats. 1929, p. 11) amended the Act of May 25, 1921, by prohibiting the granting of any permit or lease covering tide, overflowed or submerged lands fronting on an incorporated city and for one mile on either side thereof, and forbidding the presentation or reception of any application for prospecting permit prior to the first day of September, 1929 (Stats. 1929, p. 11). The latter act was further amended on May 28, 1929 (Stats. 1929, p. 44).

By an act approved May 15, 1931, section 675 of the Political Code was amended by adding a subdivision, No. 10, authorizing the Director of Finance to lease, upon such terms and conditions and under such rules and regulations as he might prescribe, any land belonging to the State for the production of minerals, oil, gas or other hydrocarbons (Stats. 1931, pp. 843, 846). Afterwards, but on the same day (May 15, 1931), another act was approved, amending the same section, by deleting the authorization above referred to. On referendum, the deletion was sustained.

In 1935, the Legislature passed the act commonly known as Assembly Bill No. 1684, extending to littoral landowners the exclusive right to apply for and obtain State leases for drilling slanted wells into and producing oil and gas from tidelands and prescribing a minimum royalty to the State of 16 2/3 per cent of the production. This act was vetoed by the Governor.

At the general election on November 3, 1936, the initiative measure known as Proposition No. 4, proposing to authorize the granting of the right to produce oil from State tideland by means of wells slanted from littoral lands, was defeated.

It will thus be seen that, since 1929, drilling in tidelands has been expressly forbidden by law, and that the people have, by popular vote, twice expressed disapproval of tideland oil wells (Shadle, 1-210).

(B) Surveying and Directional Drilling of Oil Wells.

Your committee heard considerable testimony with reference to the development of appliances adapted to the making of underground surveys, particularly with reference to their use in the survey and directional drilling of oil wells. (Atherton, 1-163, 193; Bush, 7-565; Garrison, 6-390; Little, 6-384; Anderson, 2 20; Emerson, 4-83, 85; Kemnitz, 5-185; Shadle, 1-208.)

It seems to be generally conceded that, up to a few years ago, no one was able to determine the direction or the location of the perforated portion of an oil well (Atherton, 1-163).

As observed in the course of the testimony of Mr. Shadle: "The matter of trespass underground was never gone into before because * * * probably surveys never advanced far enough to determine where the bottom of the well was; maybe the driller of the well himself did not know." (1-208)

The testimony before the committee was also to the effect that survey and directional drilling of oil wells was very largely developed during the campaign of slant well drilling into the State tidelands at Huntington Beach in the spring of 1933 (Atherton, 1-193).

(C) Tideland Boundary.

The general subject of precise location of the boundary between littoral and tidelands has long been the subject of controversy. It is, of course, essentially a judicial question.

Your committee will not attempt to solve the question. A brief statement, however, may contribute to a better understanding of some of the exhibits and testimony, especially the maps accompanying the report of the Special Committee of Engineers and Geologists hereinafter referred to.

Section 830 of the Civil Code and section 2077 of the Code of Civil Procedure of California, declare that when tidewater is the boundary, the upland owner "takes to ordinary high water mark."

The Supreme Court of the United States held, in a recent decision, that the expression "high water mark" does not mean a physical mark upon the ground by the water; it means a line of high water as determined by the course of the tides."

Borax Company vs. Los Angeles, 296 U. S. 11, 22.

The Supreme Court of California has defined the method of locating the line of high water as follows:

"The method of locating the line of high tide by ascertaining the intersecting line of the plane of water at mean high tide with the surface of the land, and using this line of intersection as the boundary line between the tidelands of the city and the adjoining lands of the defendants was used in the case of City of Los Angeles vs. San Pedro etc. R. R. Co., 182 Cal. 652, although a slight change in elevation resulted in a variation of a foot or more in the line of high tide. * * * this is the only possible method of locating the boundary line fixed by statute (San. S. Co. Order on the boundary of lands bordering on tide water). The place of ordinary high tide is a rising-tide point fixed by observation and comparison on the mean average high tide and its location is fixed by running of this line on the shore."

Miller & Lee vs. State, 103 Cal. 715, 717.

The location of the boundary of the State lands then, begins upon the tide line.

Our State Supreme Court has not been entirely clear as to the proper method of determining the boundary line. This confusion is referred to and the California decisions concerned in by the Supreme Court of the United States in the Beach case, from which the concept here is quoted in Beach. There, in Beach vs. Beach, the tide boundaries of a possession patent were involved. There seemed to have been determined that the mean high tide line is the level of all the high tides.

"In ascertaining the limit of the Federal grant, its surveyors, in construction for taking neap high tides, or the mean of the tides, as the boundary between upland and tideland and for those extending from the shore the land which is actually covered by the tides must at the time. In order to include the land that is then occupied it is necessary to take the mean high tide line, which as the court of appeals said, is neither the spring tide nor the neap tide, but a mean of all the high tides."

Beach vs. Beach, 241 U. S. 11, 36.

The city of Huntington Beach is within the boundaries of the Los Berris Rancho, a Mexican grant confirmed and patented by the United States pursuant to treaty and congressional enactment. One of the covenants in the patent donation, and that involved in this investigation, is to a "post at high water * * * thence along the sea shore at high water mark."

Mr. Alexander of the Division of State Lands made observations on certain days in November, 1934, and in January, 1935, for the purpose of ascertaining and locating the mark left by the water on the beach on the days indicated. A line showing the results of his observations, surveyed by a survey line the eastern ranch of the waves in November, 1934, and by a dotted line a corresponding mark left by the waves on January, 1935. As stated by the witness:

"The line we have been referring to as the high water mark is the point which is either shown by erosion or the deposition of debris. (Vol. 2, p. 20) it represents the approximate point of all the waves as they pass over the beach along the beach" (Vol. 7, p. 62).

Dr. I. S. Grant, Associate Professor of Geology at the University of California at Los Angeles, an expert on physical features on the beach, and in the junction with Dr. W. C. Patton, Professor of Geology at the Los Angeles Junior College, employed by the committee to examine and report upon shore conditions at Huntington Beach. Dr. Grant testified that "high water mark is a legal term that we don't use in marine survey work" (Vol. 4, p. 181), but Dr. Patton mapped the position of the "scarp" or ridge in sand marking the upper edge of the foreshore" on Friday, November 11, 1935, on the map the dotted or dashed line indicates the "upper scarp" that marked the "average" level of the waves, which in the field we call the storm scarp or storm line" (Vol. 4, p. 102).

Dr. Grant further stated that the physiographic feature indicating high water mark is a feature which varies greatly, not only seasonally but annually (Vol. 4, p. 105).

At the request of the chairman of your committee, the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey caused observation and survey to be made by Lieutenant G. B. Fish, detailed for the purpose. Certified copy of the results of Lieutenant Fish's work was received by the committee and has been transmitted to the chairman to the Senate. The Fish line is indicated on Map No. 1 accompanying the report of the Special Committee of Engineers and Geologists by a green line.

Colonel Charles H. Lewis, retired, formerly of the United States Army Engineer Corps, has had such experience in harbor lines and other water matters, particularly in southern California. He was employed by Stanford Oil Company to make a survey from which could be located any contour desired along the shore at Huntington Beach. He was a witness before the committee. His testimony shows that he plotted, in the course of his employment by Stanford, mean high water mark, ascertained by the same method used by Lieutenant Fish and in accordance with the practices of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey referred to in the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States above referred to, and also plotted the mean high tide line as interpreted by Judge Ames of Orange County. His survey was such that therefrom there can be ascertained the elevation and location on the ground of any line which may be designated as the boundary. He made profiles along the beach at intervals of every block and a half. His testimony shows that the United States has maintained primary tide stations at San Diego, the records of which have been kept for 20 years, and that by correlating those records with actual observations at Huntington Beach, tide levels at the latter place can be and have been readily ascertained. The Leeds line is considerably oceanward of both the Alexander and Grant-Putnam lines. It is indicated on maps numbered 1 and 2 accompanying the report of the Special Committee of engineers and geologists, by a dotted dark line.

The Fish line, also indicated on Maps No. 1 and No. 2, is somewhat farther oceanward than the Leeds line. The lines of both Colonel Leeds and Lieutenant Fish are based upon the same mean high tide level, the difference being accounted for by the difference in condition of the beach on the occasions when their respective surveys were made.

The subject matters of this report will be presented in the following order:

1. Location of State Tide and Submerged Lands Other than at Huntington Beach, Having Present or Prospective Value for Oil and Gas.

1. Location of State Tide and Submerged Lands Other Than at Huntington Beach Having Present or Prospective Value for Oil and Gas.

El Capitan, Santa Barbara County.

The most northerly tideland area in California having oil prospects or production is at El Capitan, Santa Barbara County.

Some years since, a number of drilling leases were made by the State under the Leasing Act of May 25, 1921, covering tidelands in this area. The wells were, however, with two exceptions, nonproductive. Of the latter, one is producing seven and the other about ten barrels per day (Dahlman, 7-533). Except as to the wells last referred to, all tideland leases at El Capitan have been cancelled.

Production from El Capitan tidelands has been 19,435 barrels;

Ellwood, Santa Barbara County.

Oil was discovered at Ellwood in 1929.

Under leases pursuant to the Act of 1921, some 40 or more wells have been drilled from piers projecting into the ocean (Kemnitzner, 4-23).

Production has been about 36,500,000 barrels;

Goleta, Santa Barbara County.

At Goleta, a few oil and gas wells have been developed near the ocean, no discovery has been made or attempted in tidelands. Tideland oil prospects are apparently not considered good (Kemnitzner, 4-24).

Mesa, Santa Barbara County.

At Mesa, the oil field is on littoral land and small in area; no discovery of oil or gas has been made or attempted in tidelands, production within 800 feet of the ocean is the only circumstance called to the committee's attention suggesting possibility of oil in tidelands (Kemnitzner, 4-26).

Summerland, Santa Barbara County.

Tideland production in this field commenced in 1900, by wells drilled from piers in the ocean (Shadle, 1-17).

The field is pretty well depleted, said to be flooded with water (Kemnitzner, 4-27); and appears to be of minor importance.

Rincon, Santa Barbara County.

At Rincon, operations in tidelands are pursuant to leases under the Act of 1921. There are about a dozen wells drilled from piers projecting into the ocean, and one well derrick on an artificial island (Kemnitzner, 4-28).

The field is said to be substantial, with possibilities of deeper production; suggestion has been made that wells may have been slanted into tidelands, but no facts are available in this respect (Kemnitzner, 4-28).

Venice and Playa del Rey, Los Angeles County

At Venice and Playa del Rey, 200 or more wells have been drilled in littoral lands close to the ocean. Mr. Kennitzer testified that there is a regime for development of oil in the tidelands (Kennitzer, 4-30).

Redondo and Hermosa Beach, Los Angeles County

The same witness testified that there are possibilities of oil and gas in the tidelands at Redondo and Hermosa Beach. No tidal-land exploration has been attempted (Kennitzer, 4-30).

Newport Beach, Orange County

The same witness testified that there is possibility of oil and gas in tidelands off Newport Beach. No exploration therefor has been attempted (Kennitzer, 4-31).

2. Huntington Beach Tidelands

General Description

The most important tideland oil and gas deposit in the State is at Huntington Beach. Because of the large amount of oil already produced from this important the circumstances of such production, and the extent and nature of subsidence of the oil structure therein, particular attention was given by the committee to this area.

To date 88 wells are shown in large horizontal cross-sections on the Huntington Beach tideland area. Of course all but six were information obtained from the State's land. About 28,000,000 barrels of oil have been produced since 1921, with more produced by these 88 wells (Pemberton, 7-577). Practically all of these wells are bottomed in the easterly part of the tidal-land structure. It is estimated that there are about 100 acres in the area in which these wells are located and that it has a future potential of 25,000,000 or more barrels of oil (Pemberton, 7-579, 584).

The undeveloped portion of this tideland oil structure is estimated to contain from 80 to 500 acres, estimated as to the future potential of 25,000,000 to 350,000,000 barrels of oil (Andrews, 6-373; Pemberton, 7-582; Kennitzer, 4-31).

A brief description of the conditions at Huntington Beach and a chronological statement of oil activities involving tideland there may contribute to a better understanding of the facts and problems presented.

The city of Huntington Beach, a city of the sixth class, was incorporated February 17, 1909; it fronts for about two and one-half miles on the Pacific Ocean, Ocean Avenue, 100 feet wide, extends from one city boundary to the other along the ocean front.

The so-called Town Lot area is on the landward side of Ocean Avenue and extends northwesterly from the southeasterly city limits to 23d Street. The subdivision occurred long before May, 1920, when oil was first discovered at Huntington Beach.

From 23d Street to the northwesterly city limits there is a large cemetery, and area commonly referred to as the "Barley Field".

On the oceanward side of Ocean Avenue is the Pacific Electric Railroad right of way, 60 feet wide; between said right of way and the Pacific Ocean there is a precipitous bluff some 20 or more feet high, from the bottom of which the land beach slopes to the ocean;

The area between Ocean Avenue and the Pacific Ocean is commonly called the "Pacific Electric Strip", subject to the railroad right of way; it is and has been since 1926 held and operated by Standard under an oil lease from Pacific Electric Railway and Huntington Beach companies. The oil wells therein are between and right of way and the top margin of the bluff above mentioned.

(a) Oil Discovery and Development

Oil was discovered at Huntington Beach in May, 1920, about a mile and a half from the ocean. Development proceeded rapidly oceanward in the Town Lot area.

A portion of the Town Lot area, extending from Ocean Avenue about two or three blocks landward and from 23d Street southeasterly was used against oil development; in December, 1925, these restrictions were removed, and intensive oil drilling ensued therein.

Standard leased the Barley Field from the Huntington Beach Company for oil development, and drilled wells therein. In 1926 it also leased the Pacific Electric Strip, and drilled wells between the railway right of way and the edge of the bluff, off-setting the wells on the opposite side of Ocean Avenue.

No wells have ever been drilled on the beach at or in the vicinity of Huntington Beach, except the Shallmiller Well, near the northwesterly city limits. This well was drilled under a State tideland lease issued under the Act of 1921.

There is a well known geological fault approximately parallel to and a short distance oceanward from Walnut Street (the latter being the first street landward from Ocean Avenue). This fault acts as a barrier between the oil on the landward side and oil on the oceanward side thereof (Shadle, 1-34; 1-35).

By 1933, the intensive Town Lot production had so depleted the area landward of said fault that many of the oil wells therein had been abandoned, production from those continuing to operate was negligible and the area was generally conceded to be practically exhausted (Shadle, 1-30).

Conditions indicated that the oil measures on the seaward side of the fault extended into the State's tidelands (Atherton, 1-106; Shadle, 1-200), and that the wells along the shore were draining oil therefrom. The statutory restriction against tideland drilling prevented the drilling of wells in the ocean to offset this drainage.

(d) Negotiations for Drainage Compensation

The Director of Finance initiated negotiations with Standard to obtain compensation for such drainage by its wells on the Pacific Electric Strip (Atherton, 1-108, 109; 1-117; Shadle, 1-231). There was no evidence or suggestion that any of the latter wells had trespassed into the State's land.

Tentative agreement, subject to legislative approval, was prepared, requiring payment of 5 per cent royalty on production from all of Standard's wells on the Pacific Electric Strip. (Shadle, 1-23, 24; 25; 27; 62; Sturzenacker, 3-269).

The Legislature in 1933 amended the act of 1921, by providing that

"whenever it appears to the Surveyor General that wells now drilled upon private lands are draining oil and gas from the lands belonging to the State * * * upon which drilling is now prohibited by law, the Surveyor General is hereby authorized and empowered on behalf of the State * * * to negotiate in the name and on behalf of the State, agreements whereby the State will be compensated for such drainage."

Negotiations were, however, dropped, for reasons about to be stated.

Negotiations concerning drainage compensation were dropped because of the discovery that the Standard's wells on the Pacific Electric Strip were already offset by slanted wells drilled through its property into the State's lands. The circumstances of that discovery are as follows:

As early as 1931 the Division of State Lands suspected that wells whose derricks were on town lots were being slanted under the tidelands, and unsuccessfully sought legislation authorizing surveys (Shadle, 1-19):

Flush production from wells drilled in the depleted Town Lot area behind the fault in late 1932 and early 1933 inspired activity by State officials (Alexander, 1-211, 214; Shadle, 1-20, 27):

Operators denied that the wells were slanted (Shadle, 1-31). The wells were spudded in at night, and much difficulty was encountered in obtaining evidence warranting institution of proceedings to protect the State against trespasses.

State officials sought and received the cooperation of Standard and other companies in obtaining the facts (Shadle, 1-200, 202).

The investigation disclosed that more than 80 wells had been purposely slanted from the Town Lot area into the State's tidelands; that more than 20,000,000 barrels of oil and an unknown amount of gas had been extracted from tideland, and production was continuing.

The existence of a valuable oil deposit in the State's tideland and extensive and illegitimate drainage of oil therefrom were thus demonstrated; it was also demonstrated that the wells on the Pacific Electric Strip, compensation for drainage by which was being negotiated for, were already more than offset by the trespassing wells, for which the State was receiving no compensation.

After this discovery, and prior to August, 1933, the Director of Finance negotiated an agreement with Standard proposing to extend to the latter right to slant wells from its littoral lands northwesterly of 23d Street oceanward into the tideland oil deposit. These negotiations were prompted by the consideration that the illegitimate slanted wells were producing from the area to the southeast, and it was felt that production from the same structure in front of the Barley Field was proper and in the State's interest (Shadle, 1-57). Such an agreement was signed by the Director of Finance on August 14, 1934 (designated No. 328). It was understood that said agreement was subject to legislative approval, and on September 21, 1934, it was stipulated that it would "not be effective unless and until approved by an act of the Legislature which convenes in 1935," and if not "approved and or confirmed by the Legislature at the session * * * which convenes in 1935, the said agreement shall be wholly null and void."

There was no legislative action thereon.

Following the discovery that six of Standard's wells were trespassing, and on March 27, 1935, an agreement, designated "Agreement for Easement No. 338," hereinafter referred to, was executed.

Similarity of the numbers of this and the agreement previously referred to—328 and 338, respectively—is perhaps responsible for the confusion in assuming that they were related transactions; they were not.

Actions were filed by the Attorney General, on behalf of the State, to enjoin the operation of the slanted wells and for accounting and payment for the oil and gas extracted from the State's land. Because, in order to reach the tidelands the wells necessarily trespassed across the lands of the Pacific Electric Railway, Hunt-

Hunting Beach and Standard Oil Companies, and pass through the hands of the latter was required for the service of such property for the last named companies were included as deductions, namely, 1.42, 1.01. They accordingly counterpoised, asking the same total paid for by the State.

(g) Settlements

In November, 1933, conference was held in Governor Lodge at Sacramento. It was attended by many operators and other interested parties and State officials including the Attorney General and Director of Finance. Settlements were strenuously urged. As a result the Governor directed that settlements be made, if possible. The Director of Finance and Director of State Lands consequently undertook negotiations contemplating continued operation of the slanted wells (Shadle, 1.29, 7.615).

Because of difficulties as to the authority of the State officials to make the settlements, an action (Utt vs. Huntington) was filed in the superior court at Sacramento against the Director of Finance to test the authority of doing it and that the settlements were withdrawn (Shadle, 1.414, 941; Shadle, 7.620).

No settlement by the State contemplating continued operation of the slanted wells was possible without the consent of Standard Pacific Electric and Huntington Beach companies that the slanted wells could be continued along their land. The Director of Finance asked Standard for such consent, and was answered that Standard the possibility that some of the latter's rights on the Pacific Electric Strip may have trespassed on the lands, and urged surveys be made. It was said that it found to be trespassing like settlements be made. There was no evidence showing that any of Standard's wells had trespassed on State lands, and the suggestion that if they had, the trespass was done prior to 1926 and 1927, before surveying and directional control of wells was practiced (Shadle, 1.351).

Several of Standard's wells had been drilled in 1926 and 1927, before surveying and directional control of wells was practiced (Shadle, 1.351).

The Company's vice president, the late Mr. Omar Soto, assured the State authorities that the wells would be drilled and in the same process was the covered settlement as suggested would be made (Shadle, 1.39, 400).

Mr. Soto also assured State officials that when settlements were made with the slant well operators, permits to cross the Pacific Electric Strip would be given with appropriate reservations, of course, protecting the company's property and operations therein (Shadle, 7.618, 621).

The director fixed November 15, 1934, as the dead line for settlements with the slant well operators (Shadle, 7.615).

Operators of some 88 wells responded.

The State presented royalty for production from slanted wells on a sliding scale, graduated on price, 25¢/bbl. etc., in accordance with a formula similar to that applied by the United States in its settlements with trespassers of oil wells withdrawn by presidential order in 1909 (Shadle, 1.181).

Payments for past production were required to be made either in cash or in four annual installments with interest at 6 per cent. The latter arrangement was in the opinion of State officials necessary because of inability of operators to pay cash. In order that there might be no entry with which the State and Standard could deal and thus facilitate adjustment, most of the slant well operators formed the Huntington Beach Taxpayers Association, a corporate corporation (7.480).

Pursuant to the settlement agreements, the operators have paid to the State the money consideration required, have received easements from the State passing permits from Standard have been applied for through the Association. Most of the latter have been issued, agreement has been completed with practically all of the operators. Under the settlements the State has received, or will receive, the following amounts:

Amount of principal paid on above, March 1934-Dec. 31, 1936	729,542.94
Balance of principal due on above deferred royalties	$ 621,818.48
Amount received on current royalty from Huntington Beach tideland wells, March 1934-Dec. 31, 1936	$2,217,995.92
The total royalty production of the Huntington Beach tideland wells to date of settlement with the State: 5,896,406 barrels of oil, 1,036,070 m.c.f. of gas.
Since the date of settlement to December 31, 1936 16,968,412 barrels of oil, 15,147,988 m.c.f. of gas.

(h) Standard Settlement

In accordance with the assurance theretofore given, the results of surveys of Standard wells on the Pacific Electric Strip were submitted to the State. They showed that six old wells, drilled during the years 1926 and 1927, to wit: Pacific Electric Nos. 1, 3, 6, 8, 9 and 10, had pursued irregular courses; that the bottoms of Nos. 3, 8 and 9 were wholly in tidelands, and the bottoms of Nos. 1, 6 and 10 were probably partially so.

Whether any part of the producing portion of either of the last three wells is in tidelands depends upon the location of the tideland boundary. For the purposes of the settlement, the boundary was agreed upon in accordance with a line located by Colonel C. H. Leese. That line, as heretofore explained, is the place where Colonel Leese found that the place of the mean high tide, established in accordance with the practice of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, meets the shore at Huntington Beach.

Based upon the Leese line, 57.4 per cent of the producing portion of Pacific Electric Well No. 1, 44.3 per cent of the producing portion of Pacific Electric Well No. 6, and 31.07 per cent of the producing portion of Pacific Electric Well No. 10, is in State tidelands; and 100 per cent of the producing portion of Wells Nos. 3, 8 and 9 is in State tidelands. (It is to be noted that according to the line ascertained by Lieutenant Fish of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, no part of either of these three wells is bottomed beyond the mean high tide line.)

The State's percentage of the production from the six Standard Wells just referred to up to December 31, 1936, is as follows:

Well No. 3, 100 per cent of total production, 1,919,422 barrels of oil, 731,108 m.c.f. of gas.

Well No. 6, 44.3 per cent of total production, 306,900 barrels of oil, 97,300 m.c.f. of gas.

Well No. 8, 100 per cent of total production, 533,606 barrels of oil, 181,119 m.c.f. of gas.

Well No. 9, 100 per cent of total production, 433,709 barrels of oil, 142,144 m.c.f. of gas.

Well No. 10, 31.07 per cent of total production, 99,102 barrels of oil, 28,558 m.c.f. of gas.

(Note: Cumulative gas production dates from April 1, 1930, earliest date gas figures shown on Standard's records.)

Settlement agreement was accordingly drawn and executed by Standard. It contains the same terms as those made with operators of intentionally slanted wells, except that it provides that it may be cancelled and the wells plugged up and abandoned at any time, and except, also, that it contains the following stipulation:

"This stipulation is made on the basis of the present facts and figures at hand, and should any investigation hereafter, either public or private, disclose any different facts or figures, the same to be adjusted accordingly."

The total royalty required to be paid for production to February 15, 1934, is $473,498.91. Payment for current and future production is required on the same basis prescribed in the settlements with operators of intentionally slanted wells.

Recapitulating: In 1933, the trespasses were discovered, and actions commenced, the Governor directed settlements with the trespassers; a judicial decision and the advice of the Attorney General sanctioned the legality of the settlement; the settlements were openly arrived at; the State has received and is receiving the money payments prescribed thereunder; State easements have been granted which expressly contemplate permits from Standard to cross the Pacific Electric Strip; such crossing permits have been requested and many granted; Standard voluntarily submitted surveys of its wells, which could not have been compelled, and was assured that if trespass was shown, like settlements would follow; settlement agreement has been executed, but not delivered, because of the suggestion from the chairman of this committee that the matter be deferred; the Assembly Committee, after full hearing, approved and recommended consummation of the settlements.

Whether the settlements were all that the circumstances warranted seems beside the issue; the State's Chief Executive and other officers took notice of the situation, the Assembly investigated and gave its sanction, all parties to the settlements have materially changed their position and parted with substantial consideration. The honor and good faith of the State had been pledged, and fair dealing would seem to dictate that settlements be carried out.

(i) Efforts to Ascertain Whether There Were Trespasses for Which Settlements Have Not Been Made.

Actions were commenced against all operators of wells concerning which the State had evidence warranting resort to the courts (Atherton, 241).

Because, however, of the suggestion that other wells at Huntington Beach than those concerning which settlements had been made or negotiated were trespassing on tidelands, an investigation was made in that respect.

The committee concluded that if data concerning all wells oceanward of Walnut Street and its projection northwesterly across the Barley Field were available for examination and report by qualified experts, it would have substantial bases for determining whether the suggestion of additional trespassing wells was well founded.

It appears that there is a general recognition among the part of engineers to the desirability of publishing their data. One practicing civil engineering engineer in the requirement that data from wells of the Province of Oil and Gas be kept confidential. The engineering men, therefore, unanimously advising the committee that a special committee of engineers be designated to secure the necessary legal sanction for their data, the engineering type selected to report were the members of this organization without disclosure of details, authoring statements in which found to be either in, or in some in doubt, as to their proper handling. (See Alexander, 2:223, 2:235; Anderson, 2:26; Stephens, 2:277; Anderson, 2:299, 2:31; Alexander, 2:34; Higgins, 4:118, 4:167, 168.)

Your committee accordingly selected the following engineers and geologists to make the examination:

Dr. F. K. Sayer, Chairman, University of California at Los Angeles.

Dr. Wendell F. Mason, and

Arthur H. Alexander, engineer of the Division of State Lands.

The operations, with a few exceptions, required three months in the spring committee. The latter generally accepted and studied the original records of operators, including surveys of wells. These records and the supplemental studies have been transmitted to the Senate by the chairman of this committee.

So-Called "Border Line" Wells

The first report of the Special Committee of Engineers and Geologists to this committee is dated December 28, 1936. It appears that said committee found that, on comparison specified by your committee for data pertaining to wells at Huntington Beach, made available to it, the said data pertaining to said wells, including the methods of well surveying, showed and required on well surveys and records the more geological testimony at the time but not related alone at Huntington Beach. The report states that:

Standard Oil Company of California permitted members of the engineering committee to inspect the well survey plots and the well survey data in the company's possession for all their wells on the line given to this report. The engineering committee was also permitted to view the surveying records and resolution data pertaining to all these wells. Most were complete and operators . . . responded by authorizing the State Division of Oil and Gas to release all data in its files concerning the wells mentioned . . . . A few operators sent the data given to the engineering committee to the Senate Committee of the Senate. It was found that two few wells on the line were then those of the Standard Oil Company of California had been surveyed.

Said report is substantiated by two maps. On May 4 a boundary STANDARD line, whose bottoms are close to it except at the highest. (A boundary line indicated thereon. All of the wells on the boundary, except the one well on the line mentioned has been registered, and located at the line line.

Map 2 indicates bottoms of wells at other parties plots are separated at the Alexander line.

Except for the six wells heretofore referred to, no well of the Standard Oil Company was found by the committee to be bottomed beyond the mean high tide line indicated by Colonel Lees.

Unless and until there is a judicial determination that the all companies are to be hereby indicated by the Alexander line, and that the line of mean high tide is defined by the Supreme Court of the United States and determined by Lieutenant Fish and Colonel Lees is not the bottom line, as it is to be used any well bottomed landward of such mean high tide line is known to be producing from State lands.

The production of oil on October 31, 1936, and of gas from April 1, 1936, to October 31, 1936, from each of the so-called border line wells referred to by the Special Committee of Engineers and Geologists is as follows:

Well No.	Barrels of oil	cu ft of gas
Standard No. 5 ( $\frac{1}{2}$ below Alexander line).....	\$19,770	377,429
Standard No. 11.....	71,086	1,281
Standard No. 12.....	76,520	11,098
Standard No. 13.....	39,190	8,141
Standard No. 14.....	87,164	14,280
Bottom No. 5.....	152,056	2,500 (est.)
Southern California Sevens No. 1.....	200,000	42,500 (est.)

With reference to Standard wells, the engineering committee found that:

"A total of 47 Standard Oil Company wells were studied and surveyed, and all other data asked for relating to these wells were given promptly to the Engineering Committee by the Standard Oil Company of California . . . .

Six of the wells on the Pacific Electric lease, namely, P. E. No. 1, P. E. No. 2, P. E. No. 6, P. E. No. 8, P. E. No. 9, and P. E. No. 10, are situated to be bottomed beneath State tideland. Three of these wells, P. E. No. 3, P. E. No. 8, and P. E. No. 9, have their perforations (Producing portions of the wells) wholly beneath the State tideland; the remaining three (P. E. No. 1, P. E. No. 6, and P. E. No. 10) have parts of their perforations beneath the State tidelands, and according to the survey by the Division of State Lands all of the perforations are beneath State tidelands. These six Standard Oil Company wells are covered by Easement No. 338, not yet accepted by the State of California. Meanwhile, pending completion of the agreement, accurate record is being kept of the oil and gas production from the wells. The total cumulative oil production of these wells to October 31, 1936, and the total gas production for the period from April 1, 1930, to October 31, 1936, is shown in the following tabulation:

"Of the remaining 41 Standard Oil Company wells studied, the data shows that five wells have all or part of their perforations beneath the present beach and therefore near the tideland boundary. These wells are P. E. 5, P. E. 11, P. E. 12, P. E. 13, and P. E. 14. * * * These five wells, which existing well surveys show to be bottomed beneath the beach but not oceanward from the high water mark of the survey known as the Leeds survey (See Map 1), may be regarded as border line wells, for the reason that the position of the boundary of the State tidelands is a controversial question. If the courts should decide at some future date that the line established by the Leeds survey is not the true boundary of the State tidelands, then the status of certain or all of these five wells might be changed so as to make them trespassers on the State tidelands. It should also be pointed out that if errors have been made in the surveys of any of these five wells, the status of such wells with reference to the tideland boundary might be changed." (Tr., pp. 426, et seq.)

With reference to the five Standard wells above specified, the Committee of Engineers made the following recommendation:

"In order to remove all doubts as to the exact positions of the bottoms of these wells * * * and of the perforations in the oil strings in the wells, it is our opinion and we recommend that joint resurveys or check surveys of these five wells should be made. If these check surveys should indicate that any of the wells have encroached upon State lands, then a third or umpire joint survey should be made in such well or wells, the result of which survey should be final." (Tr. p. 430)

Your committee approves this recommendation and urges that it be put into effect.

In said report of December 28, 1936, and in a supplemental report dated January 19, 1937, the Special Committee at Engineers and Geologists set forth the result of its examination of data concerning wells of other operators, and made the following recommendations:

Consolidated Petroleum Company wells, Signal No. 1, Area No. 1 and Fee No. 1 (Block 116, Huntington Beach): There was insufficient time to obtain the consent of the predecessors of the present operators of these wells to the examination of records; therefore, further investigation is suggested.

Southern California Drilling Company Sevens well No. 1 (Lots 5 and 7, Block 221, Huntington Beach): The committee of engineers states that it is "located on State tidelands a few feet beyond the line of the Leeds survey."

As to the following wells, the engineering committee found conditions indicating that all or some part of the producing portion thereof may be in tideland, and recommended that each "be surveyed to determine whether the productive portion of the well is located under the State tidelands":

The Texas Company well, Jones No. 1 (Lots 1, 2, 3 and 4, Block 119, Huntington Beach);

Wilshire Oil Company, H. B. Well No. 1 (Lots 7 and 8, Block 118, Huntington Beach).

Wilshire Oil Company, H. B. Well No. 2 (Lots 5 and 6, Block 118, Huntington Beach).

Wilshire Oil Company, H. B. Well No. 3 (Lots 7 and 8, Block 118, Huntington Beach).

Superior Oil Company, Concord well No. 1 (Lots 7 and 8, Block 113, Huntington Beach).

Dollar Oil Corporation (Affiliated Oil Company, Dollar well No. 3 (Block 113, Huntington Beach).

Your committee also concurs in the foregoing recommendations.

Said committee also prints and files H. B. 1937 (194) in its opinion.

"There may be other wells in the Concord zone (Huntington Beach) drilled prior to 1934 not on the list submitted to the committee for consideration, which may have drilled under the title H. B. 1937 and which are not giving royalties to the State."

Among the wells to which attention has been called are to which title has not been presented in Superior Nizon No. 2.

The discovery of wholesale intentional violations of such wellhead restrictions of oil from the State's tideland at Huntington Beach was made in 1934; ample opportunity has been afforded taxpayers to submit the facts and merit for their transmission. It would seem under the circumstances they are well equipped who continue to contribute of lawlessness and failure to well head of the opportunity to settle this alleged, should be held to strict accountability.

Your committee recommends that the present State authority make prompt investigation and take vigorous action against any future violation the local and any well is or has been producing from State lands, for which settlement has not been made.

Your committee further recommends:

That recovery of the Eyr Standard Wells (Nos. 1, H. B. 11, 12 and 14) be made as suggested by the committee of engineers, that on completion of any such survey, any part of the producing portion of either of said wells be determined to be oceanward of the so-called beach line, that it be included in the settlement therefore negotiated covering the six Standard wells referred to be made on specially bottomed oceanward of said beach line. That such settlement cannot constitute that if it be hereafter judicially determined that said lands are in fact the correct boundary line between said Pacific Eastern Strip and the State lands, the settlement be rendered accordingly.

Your committee further recommends that as to each of the following wells, to wit:

Consolidated Petroleum Company, S. 2nd No. 5, Southern California Drill- ing Company, Severns No. 1, Severn Pacific Oil Company, Lucas No. 1,

Texas Company, Jones No. 1, Wilshire Oil Company, Wells H. B. No. 2,

H. B. No. 3 and H. B. No. 4, Superior Oil Company, Nizon No. 1 and

and any other well or wells as to which settlement has not been made, the payment thereof be requested by the State Department of Finance in payment with survey and other data as will enable said department to determine whether the producing portion of any such well is located on the State lands; that, if any part of such producing portion is so located, settlement be made, including arrangement with Standard Oil Company for permit to operate such well and give such Pacific Eastern Strip, in the same manner that such settlement and payment permit has been arranged with reference to each well as to which settlement has been made by the State for slanted wells at Huntington Beach.

Your committee further recommends that, as to any well concerning which survey or other information is, after reasonable opportunity to furnish the same, refused, and as to any well as to which there is reasonable cause to believe, from the data presented, that it is or has been producing from State lands and as to which settlement for such production is refused, the Attorney General being and vigorously prosecute appropriate action or actions to enforce all of the rights of the State with reference thereto.

It is further recommended that careful inquiry be made concerning several law suits pending in Orange County involving alleged slanted wells, to the end that any interest of the State therein may be protected by intervention at other appropriate action.

c. Conclusion

Your committee has undertaken this investigation and makes this report with one primary purpose in view, that of determining how the interests of the State in the tideland oil deposits may best be protected. Within the scope of this inquiry your committee has reached the conclusion that the development of the tideland reserves at Huntington Beach by upward drilling must be restricted in particular instances. Correspondingly, it has of necessity reached the conclusion that the interests of the State in these tideland deposits at this point may require development from the surface of the tidelands under certain prescribed conditions. Your committee realizes that the people of the State have caused their opposition to tide-land drilling, but in view of the fact that a particular situation and condition exists at Huntington Beach, your committee suggests that an exception be made and if the State interests can not be protected by upland directional drilling, then tidal land drilling be authorized in this restricted area.

(k) Recommendations.

The recommendations of your committee may be summarized as follows:

1. That regardless of whether the legality of existing easements granted trespassing operators has been definitely established, it is felt that the honor and good faith of the State require that the settlements regarding them be carried out and confirmed.

2. Specifically, that the Director of Finance execute on behalf of the State and deliver to Standard Oil Company of California, Easement No. 338, in substantially the same form as that agreed upon on March 27, 1935, but containing a clear provision that the settlement set out in said agreement is based upon the line fixed by the Leeds survey, and that if at any future time a definite boundary line between tidelands and uplands is established by judicial determination the easement shall be adjusted accordingly. The easement shall further provide that if the establishment of such new line shall result in a determination that either present or future wells of the operator, other than those now specified in said easement, are found to be bottomed on State lands, or if any present existing and allegedly trespassing wells shall be found to be not bottomed upon State land, that said easement shall be adjusted accordingly.

3. That the operators of boundary line questioned wells be given a reasonable time in which to provide proper State office with authentic surveys of their wells and that if such are found to be trespassing, they shall be granted easements in the same form as that heretofore granted to other operators. If the question of trespass involves the location of the line separating tidelands from uplands, the Leeds line shall be taken as the boundary for the purpose of settlement, but the easement shall include the provisions for adjustment described in Recommendation No. 2 above in connection with easement No. 338;

4. That the proper State officials take immediate steps to obtain a judicial determination of the boundary line separating tidelands from uplands.

5. That where operators of questioned wells have not submitted to the State surveys and or other pertinent information bearing upon the direction or location of their wells, if there is reasonable cause to believe that such wells are trespassing on or under State lands, immediate steps be taken by the proper State officials to establish the facts and to recover the full value of oil or gas produced by those wells from the tidelands;

6. That the Attorney General be directed to intervene for the protection of the interests of the State in any actions disclosing wells bottomed in State tidelands;

7. That necessary legislation be enacted at the present session of the Legislature to authorize the Director of Finance to grant a lease or leases as a result of competitive bidding for drilling from the uplands or from piers, groins, or islands situated on the tidelands. It is the further recommendation of your committee, however, in view of the present overproduction of oil in the State of California with resulting proration to a point where total production approximates consumption, that the development of this pool be restricted for the time being by the terms of such lease or leases to wells necessary properly to offset wells which are now draining such pool.

Respectfully submitted,

EDGAR W. STOW,
J. I. WAGY,

WESTERN UNION, March 2, 1937, 4:45 p.m.

Ray W. Hays, Senator, State Capitol.

I am in accord with the recommendations of the committee report with the exception of tidal land drilling. I do not favor tidal land drilling because the voters of California have decided against it on two different occasions, and furthermore because the county of Orange and the city of Huntington Beach, who would furnish police, fire and other protection for the property involved, would receive no revenue and could not assess for taxation purposes either the property involved or the oil produced.

NELSON T. EDWARDS.

Motion.

Senator Hays moved that 300 extra copies of the above report be printed under separate cover.

Motion carried, and such was the order.

"This message has dealt with four present needs. First, to eliminate congestion of calendars and to make the judiciary as a whole less static by the constant and systematic addition of new blood to its personnel:

If these measures achieve their aim, we may be relieved of the necessity of considering any fundamental changes in the powers of the courts or the Constitution of our Government—changes which involve consequences so far-reaching as to cause uncertainty as to the wisdom of such course."

I am sure that we are familiar with American history. We know that after our Nation gained her independence the Articles of Confederation were adopted. Those Articles of Confederation did not bind the several States together into an effective union and the dissatisfaction was so great that it was decided to hold a Constitutional Convention at Philadelphia for the purpose of adopting a Constitution of the United States. So there met in Independence Hall in Philadelphia in 1787 seventy-two of the ablest men of that time, or in fact of any time, whose purpose it was to try to give to the new Nation a Constitution that would endure through the ages. That convention was presided over by George Washington, father of our country, whose picture looks down upon us in this Senate Chamber as we debate this issue so fundamental to our Republic. The men who met in that convention labored over a period of several months and with extraordinary intelligence, wisdom, and courage. Their task was to establish liberty as well as a government. They understood the civilizations of the past and had studied the failures of government in every age. They were familiar with the cruelties of unbridled power. They determined to erect a government dedicated to all the noble purposes of government, and at the same time, so restrained as not to be able, under any circumstances, to deprive the humblest man of rights which they had declared in the Declaration of Independence to be inalienable—the rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. They created a government of specified powers. They created a dual form of government, of States having control of the local activities and functions and of a Republic having control of foreign affairs, of National defense, of money and currency, of foreign commerce, and commerce between the States. They wrote out the fundamental rights of man in the charter of the new government and expressly recognized the powers reserved in the people. And over the exercise of the vast powers of the Government by the Executive, by the Congress, by the States, and the people they erected a Supreme Court, sole and independent, to preserve this Constitution, to declare whenever its powers were exceeded, and so to protect the people against every attempted encroachment upon their liberties. And finally they gave to the three great arms of the Government, the executive, the legislative, and the judicial, each a sole independence, and distinctly declared function, in order that any one of them, or any two, might check encroachments by any one of them beyond its prescribed power.

It has been asserted and will perhaps be asserted here that the Constitution of the United States does not give to the Supreme Court the power to declare acts of the Congress unconstitutional. This assertion is not borne out by the Constitution itself because a reading of the Constitution will demonstrate that such power must necessarily be given to the Supreme Court and was given. Section 1, Article 3 of the Constitution of the United States reads as follows:

"The judicial power of the United States, shall be vested in one Supreme Court, and in such inferior courts as the Congress may from time to time ordain and establish. The judges, both of the Supreme and inferior courts, shall hold their offices during good behavior, and shall, at stated times, received for their services, a compensation, which shall not be diminished during their continuance in office."

In Article 6 of the Constitution it is declared as follows:

"This Constitution, and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof; and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding."

From these quotations it will be observed that the judicial power of the United States is vested in the Supreme Court and in the inferior courts and that the Constitution is the supreme law of the land. And it would be difficult to understand how any government could function under a written Constitution such as ours unless there was a final tribunal to pass upon the constitutionality of acts of the Congress and of Legislatures. James Madison, the Secretary of the Constitutional Convention, and later the fourth President of the United States, perhaps the most acutely comprehensive and dispassionate mind of his day, declared that the court would "be an impenetrable bulwark against every assumption of power in the legislative or executive". Furthermore, the power and right of the Supreme Court to pass upon the constitutionality of acts of the Congress has been definitely established and accepted for more than 100 years, and the President himself in proposing the appointment of additional Justices to the Supreme Court recognizes the fact that the court has the power to pass upon the constitutionality of acts of Congress because he is, in my judgment, afraid that the court can do what he himself constituted, will declare unconstitutional the acts of Congress which he has just after propose. I have before me the proceedings of the Constitutional Convention and also the articles of James Madison in the "Federalist," and there can be no doubt that the framers of the Constitution of the United States intended that the Supreme Court should have some power, and desired that the Supreme Court should have such power.

Mr. President, I do not forgive the authors of the Federal of the United States in making the proposal that we have made. I am willing to concede that he is acting sincerely and for what he believes to be the best interests of the Nation. But I do believe that the effect of the proposal of the President will be to destroy the independence of the Supreme Court as a separate branch of our Federal Government and to place what was of our fundamental constitutional ideal in jeopardy to the continued existence of a Republic with a constitutional form of government.

I can do no better than to quote on this point from the monumental work of James Bryce, "The American Commonwealth." "Who could write in a good English writer more than 50 years ago in perhaps the best study of the American form of government that has ever been written. Mr. Bryce writes:

"Suppose a Congress and President began by doing something which the Supreme Court deems contrary to the Constitution. They pass a statute. A case arises under it. The court, on hearing of that case, unfortunately declares the statute to be valid, and being beyond the control of Congress, Congress furtherly passes and the President signs another statute, thus doubling the number of statutes. The President responds to this last judgment, ships men, who are obliged to hold the former statute unconstitutional. The Senate confirms his appointments. Another case arising the validity of the disputed statute is brought up to the court. The new statute remains the old one, the statute is held valid, the statute remains and the protection of the Constitution is gone like the morning mist."

I assert that the result of a law such as the President proposes will be to push the Supreme Court of the United States in order to destroy freedom, freedom upon legislation desired by the President. I make this assertion without the desire to attribute any form of weakness or any weakness to the President. Any of this is not the purpose behind the proposal. I say so to you to understand what the purpose can be. I cannot, therefore, the President's personal attempt to do indirectly what can not be done directly. That is, attempt to amend the Constitution by indirection.

If an amendment to the Constitution of the United States is possible, then that amendment should be achieved in the manner provided by the Constitution. Let us heed those words of George Washington in his Farewell Address:

"If, in the opinion of the people, the interference or amendment of the constitutional powers be in any particular thing, let it be removed by an amendment in the way which the Constitution prescribes."

And let there be no change by usurpation, (as though there is, and perhaps, more in the usurpation of power, is in the confidence placed by voters and governments in the usurper.)

The President must always remain subordinate to government and not attempt to represent himself as the government of the Nation.

One week before the President sent his last message to Congress United States Senator Henry F. Ashurst of Arizona, Chairman of the Senate Committee on Judiciary delivered a speech in the United States Senate. This speech was evidently delivered without knowledge on the part of Senator Ashurst that the President's proposal was to be made to Congress, and it is therefore particularly significant. Senator Ashurst said:

"Mr. President, I do not know that I should say out of my mouth this morning in discussing the asserted power of the Supreme Court of the United States to declare acts of Congress beyond the powers of Congress further than to say that in any tyrannical government, no matter what day be there, whether an oligarchy, or, as Thomas Jefferson said, 148 men, no person, no group, makes any progress whatever unless and until he seems to have found the legislative, the executive, and the judicial powers. Men, in Europe, some may call these 'tyrants,' would be effectively hampered in their efforts unless they hold in one hand the legislative, the executive, the executive, and the judicial powers. So the first thing a wise, prudent, ambitious, monarch in Europe does if he wants complete control is to secure legislative, executive, and judicial powers."

Let me say that I have no sympathy with attempts to whittle or to chisel, by indirection, circumlocution, and periphrasis, and "house-that-Jack-build" methods, in order to acquire power. Let us manfully stand up and say "Mr. President, we ought to have more power. We need more power." The way to obtain it is by consulting the States.

In my judgment the way to reach the desired objective is by bold frankness, by asking the people of the States to ratify the necessary amendments. If we think the Supreme Court should not exercise the power of passing upon laws, let us say so by amendment. In the long run there will be niches in the hall of time, and places in the record of history, for men who act directly in that way; but there will be found no niches, no place in the record of history, nor will there be a glowing tribute on the page of any history book for a Congress which by such methods as I have indicated tries to do indirectly that which it can not do directly."

Woodrow Wilson, twice elected President of the United States, twice the nominee of the Democratic Party, a great scholar, a master of government, the foremost liberal of his time, wrote in his book entitled "Government Under the Constitution":

"It is within the undoubted constitutional power of Congress, for example, to overwhelm the opposition of the Supreme Court upon any question by increasing the number of justices and refusing to confirm any appointments to the new places which do not promise to change the opinion of the court. Once at least it was believed that a plan of this sort had been carried deliberately into effect. But we do not think of such a violation of the spirit of the Constitution as possible, simply because we share and contribute to that public opinion which makes such outrages upon constitutional morality impessible by standing ready to curse them."

When considering the Supreme Court of the United States, it is well to consider the following facts: Congress has enacted 24,902 laws in the years since 1789. The Supreme Court, in all of that time, has found only 73 of those acts—or parts of them—to be in conflict with the Constitution. Out of those 73, barely 16 concerned acts of Congress that affected the everyday lives of citizens—57 were largely technical. The legislative mill ground out an average of 170 laws in each year. The judicial appraisal disclosed an average of one piece of legislation in each two years that could not pass the constitutional test. Yet today the courts of the country are under fire from the President. A National debate is opening over the future of the Supreme Court and of the Constitution. One or the other is accused of standing in the path of progress.

Why the sudden burst of this problem into the National limelight?

A glance at the facts and figures may show. That glance quickly discloses that during 144 years the Supreme Court found only 61 legislative acts of Congress or parts of them to be in conflict with the Constitution. But during the last four years the Court has found 12 to be in conflict—an average of three a year.

Even more important: Out of 16 Supreme Court decisions that bore on economic and social problems, eight were decided in the last two years.

From the foregoing figures it will be seen that very few acts of the Congress have been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. And the records of the court further show that during the past year the number of cases considered and disposed of was higher than the number considered and disposed of in any year in the history of the nation. The report of the Solicitor General of the United States shows that cases are speedily disposed of in the Supreme Court and that the delay is not in the Supreme Court but in the time that is required for cases to get to the Supreme Court. So it can not be demonstrated from the records that the age of the members of the Supreme Court has hampered their efficiency because as the average age of the court has increased, the number of decisions rendered by the court has likewise increased. Under the Constitution, judges of the Supreme Court and of all Federal Courts hold office for life during good behavior. This provision was placed in the Constitution in order to remove the court from the temptation of majorities and from political pressure. If it is desirable that the judges shall not serve on the Supreme Court after they have reached a certain age, then this question should be submitted in the form of a constitutional amendment and passed upon by the several States.

It has been asserted by some that because President Roosevelt was elected by tremendous majority at the last presidential election, this was in effect an endorsement of his program. Upon this point I desire to quote from an editorial written by David Lawrence on the issue in the United States News of February 8, 1937.

"It is a serious thing to impugn the good faith of a presidential policy however well-intentioned may be the motives of the President himself. But it is always the duty of the press to speak frankly and point out the dangers to our system of government occasioned by a President's bold assertion of political power.

Mr. Roosevelt's hostility to the present membership of the Supreme Court became known when, on the day after the NRA was declared unconstitutional by a unanimous vote of all nine justices, liberal and conservative alike, he exhibited a surprising pique. This, it was insisted by his supporters during the recent campaign, was abandoned because public opinion voiced nationwide disapproval. Millions of conservatives in the Democratic party voted for Mr. Roosevelt on that supposition.

Not a word did Mr. Roosevelt say during the last campaign about his intent to change the tenure of Justices on the Supreme Court. He refused to answer the challenge of the opposing candidate who wanted to know if the Supreme Court would be "renewed." The American voters' (President) answer voted for him. Mr. Roosevelt emphatically has constituted any and all judges on a blanket endorsement to do what he pleased, granting all those things he had not mentioned in his speeches.

The President would be right in assuming that the American people bestowed on him a general grant of leadership, but he can not by any stretch of the imagination believe that they had done a thing as important as to bestow the strength of our judicial system on his whims. The responsibility is a far heavier one than he might be able to carry.

What structure it will be, is entirely up to him. Any thing he may want to do in the remodeling of Justice on the Supreme Court, especially that part are beyond him.

There can never be any question as to what is the responsibility and duty in the American way. If life tenure for Federal Judges is wrong, if 70 or 75 should be the maximum retirement limit, may the American people should have an opportunity to give voice that permanent justice differ?

There is no doubt that President Roosevelt had a strong hand in the difference and confusion of the American people. For that matter, why not willing to give to the President unlimited power to do as he may desire, but at the same time, to effect a curbing on the power given to the President, may not make him the Supreme Court, as they have not understood it, may be the least wanted that it will establish a precedent that may be the thing to do in the future. President Roosevelt will not attempt to President, with all the way, may make President, and as well understood, what is if the President is substituted and the power is given.

There is no doubt that the American people in Washington were a proper listened to with interest by all Californians. That is the voice of the Senior Senator of California, Hiram W. Johnson, whose name and name was written with a not only upon the history of California, but also the history of the Nation. The Nation has been told in California, that is, in California, that the progress of the people has been a long struggle toward the rights of the people, one who has been a constant to the people, for the rights of the people, one Senator Johnson, whose history in Washington, from Pacific with. The man stepped of all these people in the State. Since the American people is understood in the President.

That Mr. President is the same history as the American people, that is, the American people. Do we wish to keep an independent Supreme Court of the United States to protect the nation's rights and the government by the Constitution, which is the American have the Constitution of the United States, should be the same, the same enactment? Who can say what the Constitution of the United States will be two years from now? The Constitution of the United States is a living document and there is no tribunal to determine the constitutionality of any act of Congress.

I desire to close with the words of a distinguished American Senator of the United States Senate, Senator Charles W. McNary of the State of Oregon. Senator McNary is a (Hiram Johnson) and a distinguished member of the Democratic Party. He is the president of the President, because he regards the proposal as dangerous to the American institutions and the American form of government. Speaking on this issue he said in a recent address:

"We have a great people, but we have a great people of people, at the same of millions and millions of people, of President and Congress, of State and individuals, how could any man or any government have long enough the history guaranteed by the Constitution. The Constitution of the United States of Independence. I can see no reason that history, since we have been trusted with unlimited power, that there is no one who is not a person, to the high places of power. To whom would one look? To government? Then he takes his rights of being and they are the history and the right to the memory. His rights are preserved as the history of a part of the story. Are we so ignorant of what is going on in the world that we are so willing of the question of liberty and the constitution of the American people of government in the past and present of President, National, State, and Congress, through the history and the past of Asia? Of the constitution of States and the degradation of men? Are we so stupid as not to realize that the only remedy to these conditions is the selective assistance that there is something better for man than liberty?"

There is no substitute for our inalienable rights. There is no compensation for liberties taken away. There are no safeguards save those safeguards in the Constitution, the present knowledge which the history has got. We remove them and only we can find the way to the end of civilization."

Members of the Senate, I ask you to adopt this resolution.

By Senator Jespersen:

Mr. President and Members of the Senate:

I have been very much interested in the remarks of the Senator from the San Joaquin Valley who has presented this matter to the Senate today. I yield to no one in my high regard for the integrity of the members of the United States Supreme Court but I recognize that extreme old age naturally to some extent causes a slow-down and certain incapacities in every man. This would apply, of course, to members of this very August Body. I feel that a certain amount of hysteria has been aroused over this issue, but cool and calm consideration has forced me to the conclusion that where a justice of any court fails to retire that it may become necessary in the public interest to appoint an additional justice to assist him in his work. I do not feel that the adequacy of this change necessarily comes from those who have given careless thought to the matter and call your attention respectfully to an editorial in the Sacramento Bee of today in which Professor Roscoe T. Steffen of the very conservative Yale School of Law ridicules the opposition to the change. I would like your indulgence while I read this editorial.

"Yale Law Professor Urges Court Reform."

Professor Roscoe T. Steffen of the Yale Law School ridicules the uncalled for "fuss and fury" inaugurated by the Old Guard opponents of President Roosevelt's court reorganization program.

In an article in the New York Times, he shows how much of this opposition is due to ignorance, to political prejudice, to an ultra conservatism that refuses to read the signs of the times.

And he challenges critics with the declaration that in the last fifty years 'the supreme court has been steadily assuming—not to say usurping—greater and even greater power.

'There is no question it is exerting far more power than the fathers ever intended to give it. It is no longer merely content to construe the Constitution—it has undertaken to rewrite that document to conform with the court's own economic view.'

Dr. Steffen cites in particular the use the court in recent years has made of the phrase "due process of law" as illustrating most clearly the assumption of vast powers not committed to its trust by the Constitution.

Since the time of the Magna Charta in the Thirteenth Century, "due process of law" had meant the regular and legal procedure in the enactment of legislation and in the enforcement of the law.

It was written into the Fifth Amendment in that sense. It was repeated in the Fourteenth Amendment so that no State, any more than the Nation, should deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law.

It was so interpreted continuously by the Supreme Court itself until 1885. Then what happened. This is what Steffen says:

'To begin with, hesitantly, but in recent years boldly, these words have been used to upset literally hundreds of State and National statutes designed to provide for the social and economic welfare of the citizens.

'The words adopted to protect the individual citizen, have been turned about in their tracks by the United States Supreme Court and used instead to protect large business interests in disregard of the individual.

'The late Associate Justice Holmes spoke but the obvious truth when he declared that nothing but the sky and the conscience of the court—of which he evidently had doubts—set any bounds to the court's power to invalidate legislation under its new and novel construction of "due process".'

Reviewing the action of the court in nullifying the New York law providing minimum wages for women, Dr. Steffen points out that this statute was held a violation of the due process of law clause because it interfered with the liberty of a woman to work for any wages she pleased.

And he asks, was such a doctrine or such a finding dictated by the Constitution? And he answers:

'No. There is probably not a person alive today who would deny that the court simply was legislating its economic and social views upon the country.'

And those views are an archaic survival of the horse and buggy era in our history.

President Roosevelt's proposal to give the modern point of view proper representation on the court has the vigorous support of Dr. Steffen. He puts it this way:

'Life tenure was granted to the judiciary on the assumption that it would perform a strictly judicial function. When it departs from that course and trespasses on the rights of the Legislature, the mildest and most conservative check possible is to authorize the President, in and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to appoint and remove to sit with those eminent men who still present in the Federal Judiciary legislative ideas of a higher generation.

The suggestion is not only wholly constitutional, but it again restores the checks and balances between the three departments as conceived by the founders of our Government. Legislation passed by our Government suffers from the defect we have in point of a legislative oligarchy responsive only to the market place. The proposal is a brilliant piece of statesmanship.

Now, Mr. President, I was very much impressed by this editorial and find that Professor Stetten of the Yale Law School, who has given long and conscientious to this entire question and who has been a member of the Committee and of the Supreme Court for many years, and who is much closer to the seat of power than we are here, has a very deep understanding of the issues involved. I know that many of the great members of the legal profession are very much misled when they can point to the fact that only one generation of men pass that institution. I know from talking to them that they have a very deep respect and high regard for the hand of the Yale Law School. Certainly they would not accuse Professor Stetten of being misled in any sense of the word and certainly they must be impressed with his views on this matter.

We have been fighting for a number of years for adequate pensions for our people of California. I have been presenting this question of pensions for a number of years so that today a number of very large corporations in the United States provide pensions on retirement on the age of 65 or 70 years. We, in California, have provided a very adequate pension at the age of 65 for our people and we do this because of the fact that at the age of 65 men and women were frequently and unaccountably burdened with old age. In other words, we have adopted a policy of retirement at 65 years of age. This is not a very thought in the sense of the word, and I feel that the President of the United States, who was endorsed by 27 million American voters, is doing what he believes is the best interest of the people of the United States. Feeling as I do on this question, therefore, I will oppose the resolution even on the hand of the Yale Law School would oppose it.

By Senator Westover

Inasmuch as I am one of the baby members of the Senate I have been rather hesitant in participating in debates on the floor of this house as I understand that there is a feeling on the part of the "oldsters", whether it is in the Senate of the State of California or in the United States Supreme Court, that "youngsters" should be seen and not heard. However, the matter before the Senate today is of such importance that I feel it is necessary for me to express myself upon the question.

Being a newcomer to this body I have possibly received impressions that might have escaped those who have been here for a long time. When I first came to the Senate I discovered that there was a well expressed sentiment that the Legislature of California should be nonpartisan and several bills have been introduced making the Legislature nonpartisan. No I find in contradiction of this sentiment there has been brought upon the floor a very partisan issue. This issue was decided yesterday in the Assembly upon a partisan basis and it will be decided today in the Senate upon a partisan basis.

I discovered shortly after coming to the Senate that there was quite a sentiment against memorializing Congress and several of you have spoken from the floor of the Senate against memorializing Congress, admitting that such a procedure was a vain and useless act. We now find ourselves in a position upon this body is entering into a partisan conference and using a vote and business act.

If we act favorably upon the resolution before us we are going into contradiction to the Assembly because the Assembly yesterday, by a vote of 41 to 41, favorably endorsed the President's plan of reorganization of the Supreme Court. We are doing nothing more, if we act favorably upon this resolution, than telling the President and the Congress of the United States that the Legislature of the great State of California can not agree upon this question.

This is not the first time that charges have been made in the history of the country about packing the Supreme Court. There have been other times when Presidents have been accused of such procedure. The Supreme Court has not been a constant body and has been changed from time to time in the history of the country.

During the Civil War it was necessary for the United States—I would correct that—it was necessary for the northern States to raise finances in order to carry on the war. Finances were raised by the issuance of greenbacks, and during the war and thereafter questions arose as to the legality of the greenbacks issued by the Government for the purpose of obtaining money to carry on the war. I wish to read, if I may, from Volume 16 of the Virginia Law Review a short discussion in regard to the so-called legal tender cases:

"* * * when the case was taken up, on November 27, 1869, it was found, after a conference of several hours, in which all members of the court participated, that the eight judges then on the court were evenly divided. They thereupon proceeded to the consideration of other cases, and in the course of the discussion of another case during the same conference Mr. Justice Robert C. Grier, then 75 years of age and unable to walk alone, made a statement inconsistent with his previous vote in favor of the constitutionality of the legal tender provision. This led to further discussion of the question with him, and, after being reminded by another member of the court of what he had agreed to in a private conversation, he changed his vote, and joined those who were against constitutionality. The court then stood five to three against constitutionality. Within a week all the other members of the court united in advising Mr. Justice Grier that it was their opinion that his physical condition was such that he ought to resign. He submitted his resignation, to take effect February 1, 1870, and retired from the court on that date, dying the following September 26th.

It was contemplated that the decision in Hepburn vs. Griswold, the legal tender case, would be handed down January 31st, in which event Grier would have participated in it. It was, however, postponed one week, at the request of the minority, in order to enable dissenting opinions to be prepared, and consequently was not rendered until February 7, 1870, six days after Grier's resignation had taken effect. Thus the decision was technically participated in only by seven Justices, divided four against three, in a court legally composed of nine. * * *

Dramatic events followed fast upon announcement of the decision. An act had been passed on April 10, 1869, increasing the membership of the court from eight to nine, to take effect the first Monday in December, 1869, and on February 7, 1870, the day the decision in Hepburn vs. Griswold was announced, President Grant sent to the Senate the nominations of William Strong and Joseph P. Bradley as Associate Justices, one to fill the vacancy by Grier's resignation and the other to increase the number of Justices to nine."

With the help of the two new appointees the original decision was reversed, and the Supreme Court held the Legal Tender Act constitutional.

I say again that this is not the first time in the history of the country when Presidents have been accused of packing the Supreme Court. To my mind the question before the Senate today is of more importance than the question of packing the Supreme Court. We here are supposed to represent the people of the State of California and if we vote in favor of the resolution before us we do not represent the people. The people of this county, the people of this State, the people of this Nation indorsed, last November, President Roosevelt and his program, and if we do not support the President in this program now before us, we are not following out the indorsement of the people whom we are supposed to represent.

As far as I can remember there has never been a question of governmental policy discussed as much on the street as this question is and has been discussed. The people are interested; the people feel that President Roosevelt is attempting to work out a program for their benefit; they are keenly interested, and they have discussed this matter on many occasions. During the past few weeks I have received many letters from my constituents relative to the Supreme Court. I want to read a letter which I received from a resident of Orange County several days ago. I do not believe I would know the writer if I were to see him upon the street. I do not know whether he was a supporter of mine, but to me he expresses the opinion of the people upon the street who are in favor of the Roosevelt program:

"SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, Feb. 19, 1937.

DEAR SIR: We wish to commend you on supporting the President's desires to modernize the Supreme Court and make it adaptable to modern conditions.

So far as we can determine from our observations, the only people in this vicinity who are opposed to the present action are the same who opposed the election of Mr. Roosevelt, many of them being "Stand Pat" Republicans. I have been a strong Republican for many years, but the "Old Guard" and its methods are simply passing out, and the kicks are quite hard. Anything that modernizes government and makes the government for the people, instead of yolkng the people by the government, is going quite hard with the opposition.

Roosevelt and the New Deal have made a Democrat out of me, temporarily at any rate. So far as I can see, there is nothing wrong in his court proposals."

secure appointments to the Supreme Court and all other courts of judges who look upon social and economic questions from their standpoint and not from the standpoint of the laborer, the farmer and the working classes generally. And through that influence there has ever been a continuous packing of the Supreme Court. If the proposed measure results in an unpacking in such cases it will be an added achievement of the Roosevelt Administration.

I studied my constitutional law at the feet of members of the Supreme Court of the United States in Washington. They were my college teachers. Like many other lawyers my ideal was and is yet that every court of justice should be not only respected but held inviolate of any outside influence in holding even the scales of justice and reaching conscientious conclusions in cases submitted to it; that it should occupy a position of sanctity and so conduct its work as to be above reproach or question. That ideal has not always, but, I regret to say, too often been shattered. No court is sacrosanct. However, venality or conscious wrongdoing is not to be attributed to, in fact it is rarely found in the conduct of the judges of our courts. They are honorable men and I am sure all will agree that neither President Roosevelt nor any other President would knowingly appoint to the high office of Justice of the Supreme Court any but honorable men and capable lawyers.

But there is no question that vital decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, in cases involving economic and social questions, are decided by the judges of that court in accordance with their economic and social views. The divergence of opinion in the court itself, irreconcilable as it sometimes is, proves this.

It is stated in the resolution proposed by me declaring in favor of the recommendations of the President that the proposed law will not only cure defects, prevent injustices, secure more efficient administration of justice, but also will tend to restore confidence of the people in the court. Is it any wonder that that confidence is shaken when the same judges of that court hold in one case that an act of the Congress fixing minimum wages in the production of commodities for shipment in interstate commerce is unconstitutional as not being within the power granted by the States to the Federal Government to regulate interstate commerce, and in another case hold that an act of a State Legislature fixing minimum wages for women in the production of commodities in that State is also unconstitutional, as being in violation of a provision of the Federal Constitution that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law?

Will not the people ask if the States did not grant that power to the Federal Government and all other powers are reserved to the States, why the States for the protection of the health, safety and welfare of its citizens may not enact and enforce such a law? And wherein does such a State law deprive any person of his life, liberty or property?

When Judges of the Supreme Court of the Land become so scholastic in the interpretation of the Constitution of the United States as to say that it is not due process of law for the Legislature of a State to protect working women and children from penance by means of minimum wage laws on the theory that it deprives those persons and their employers of freedom of contract, is it any wonder that confidence in the court is shaken?

The measure recommended by the President respects the Constitution. It does not challenge the validity of the doctrine of interpretation that the Supreme Court has the right to declare acts of the Congress invalid when it deems them in conflict with the plain provisions of the Constitution. It only seeks to bring the courts into more harmonious working order with Congress at the same time maintaining a Judicial Department separate from and not subservient to either of the other departments of the Government. All the hysteria raised over this very mild proposal is supported, promoted and encouraged in the centers of great corporate interests dealing with the lives and welfare of the masses of the people, ever seeking judicial decisions that buttress them in the power of exploitation without interference on the part of Government for the protection, safety and social welfare of the masses of the people.

President Roosevelt, like Abraham Lincoln, believes in the American people. He does not, nor will the American people, fear that the mild measure of judicial reform proposed by him will either tend toward or tempt any President to reach for dictatorial powers in America. It is a great disappointment to me to observe that some of the liberal members of the Senate have seen fit to voice opposition to that measure on the ground that it is executive encroachment on the powers of the judiciary. At the same time those members advocate a constitutional amendment which would give the Congress the power to override decisions of the Supreme Court as to the constitutionality of statutes.

To talk of a tendency to dictatorship in the adoption of such a measure when any power given to the President today by the Congress can be taken away tomorrow, and when no act of the President in reference to reconstituting the Supreme Court or in the manner of making appointments to it can be exercised without the approval of the Congress and the Senate, seems an idle speculation indulged in for lack of better arguments.

It was not until John Marshall's decision in the case of Marbury vs. Madison that it was in any way officially declared that the Supreme Court had the power to declare acts of the Congress invalid. And that doctrine, though early and denominated from the interpretation of the Court, was not when operations were now made against the proposed amendment of the Constitution. It is true that finally that there would have been great reaction against it, but the social and economic problems of changing conditions during the history and growth of our Nation had the Congress from the beginning been the one judge of the constitutionality of its own acts. No Congress will ever declare the rights of that fundamental rights enshrined in the Constitution and they to be null. No one will say that individual liberty and property and all that is dear to persons and to the more seriously guarded by England, where the Parliament was indeed the supreme constitutional institution, was without any further meaning from the constitutionality of its law.

The arguments here today are based on government today. A majority vote of this body upon these resolutions will not support the doctrine of the people of California. I say that for the reason that the majority of this Senate does not represent a majority of the people of the State. If the majority of the Senate, Senator Schuyler is right, and you persons, what I have pointed to myself, which will probably be the case, is moved only from the consideration of less than 15 per cent of the population of the State, we are not a majority of the State. We have gone on record against the President. I cannot go any further than three-fourths of the voters of California would vote to remove the President in this hour.

By Senator Knowland

Mr. President, Gentlemen of the Senate:

The United States is facing one of the most important issues since the Civil War period. The President's plan to subvert the Supreme Court carries with it the germ of destruction for the American system.

We, in this country, are among a few of the few nations in the world that have guaranteed certain rights so that no temporary majority could ever legislate them out of existence. It was this set up in limited government and only limited majority of a majority, but it is against the institution, however, that we are in a majority. Thus, we find in this Nation, in the years of the great social, economic, economic or political, are given the protection of the law in the name of the Nation of Europe.

There are some who say, however, the Supreme Court is not a part of the government, upon the constitutionality of government, and it is not a part of the government. It is true that the logic of the constitutional amendment, and even the Supreme Court has passed. The founders of the Republic set up a system, and the Supreme Court is the institution and by the method of amendment the American people have passed constitutional amendments from time to time. For any man to hold that the Supreme Court would not have the power to pass upon the constitutionality of the acts of Congress, would be to set a precedent for the Constitution to a mere act of legislation. Their position falls under the same weight, the way would a person, before making, for amending the Constitution, be set up if the amendment contained in that amendment could in fact be changed by legislative action.

Some believe that constitutionality by the Senate of presidential appointments to the Supreme Court is a violation of government, and it is not a part of the government. My answer to that is that members of Congress have during the last few years approved legislation that they had no right to do, and that with no seen in print or the way of the Chief Executive. There are men who hold that Congress itself has shown a tendency to be subservient to the President. We, who are opposing the President's plan to pack the court, do not wish to use the Supreme Court as an institution, because subordination to the Chief Executive. The Constitution set the Supreme Court up as one of the three great branches of government, providing us with our system of checks and balances. We wish to see the Supreme Court remain a coordinate branch of our Government. Unless it does so remain, American institutions, as we have known them, will be almost at an end.

With whatever faults the American system may have, this hour at least has been said in its favor. It has outlasted us from a nation of less than 100,000,000 people to one of the most powerful countries in the world with a population of over 120,000,000. The system set up under the Constitution has survived the Civil War and foreign conflicts. It has given the people of this country the highest standard of living of any Nation on the face of the globe. Even during the period of the economic depression the standard of living of the American people was far higher than that in many other nations during their periods of greatest prosperity. I do not hold that our system is perfect, but maintain that the American people, as a whole, do not care to trade it for the systems that have been set up under either Communism or Fascism.

We do not state that the present Chief Executive now seeks the power to set himself up as a dictator. We do maintain, however, that if this precedent is allowed to go unchallenged that it may be used in the future to plague the American people. There are two methods used in setting up a dictatorship, one is the coup d'état in which armed men, by a bold stroke, seize control of the functions of the government. The other is where the instruments of democracy are used to gain power and the power, once having been gained, is used to destroy democratic institutions.

Not many years ago the German people were living under a Constitution and a government that they thought was both democratic and subject to constitutional restraint. The then Chancellor of Germany was a firm believer in democracy. In order to meet a National emergency, however, he found it necessary to use a loophole in the German Constitution which permitted him to adjourn the Reichstag and govern, for a time, by a decree. Little did he realize that he was setting up a dangerous precedent that would be used later by Hitler to destroy the rights and liberties held dear in democratic countries. However, the precedent established by a believer in democracy was used by an opponent of democracy in establishing himself in power. It did happen there. It must not happen here.

This is no partisan issue. Men, regardless of party affiliations, are uniting in the Congress of the United States to defend the President's plan to pack the Supreme Court. I wish here and now to commend the efforts of such men as: Carter Glass of Virginia, Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, Joseph W. Bailey of Texas and Hiram W. Johnson of California and all others who have joined together, regardless of their partisan affiliations, to defend American constitutional government, as we have known it.

This Senate has an obligation to the people of California to make known its protest against this attempt of the Executive to seize control of the Supreme Court of the United States. I sincerely hope that this Senate will today approve of the resolution offered by the Senator from Merced.

By Senator Crittenden:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate:

I am in favor of the Schottky Senate Resolution. I believe it involves the most important question which has come before this Senate since the admission of the State of California. It is a question involving a change in the fundamental principles of our government. I do not believe it to be a party question, or a political question in the common sense of that word. I believe it to be a question in which every citizen is vitally interested and should express himself, free from party feelings. However, if it is a party issue, I accept the challenge.

I do not believe it to be a question involving any personal criticism of the President of the United States. On the other hand, I do believe every citizen has a right to read the statements of the President of the United States and differ with them as his conscience may dictate. I now wish to quote from the statement of the President's message as it appears in the public press:

"If all of these things were done (referring to his proposed bills enlarging the Supreme Court and reorganizing the Judiciary) we should go a long way toward our high objectives. If these measures achieve their aim, we may be relieved of the necessity of considering any fundamental change in the powers of the courts or the constitution of our government—changes which involve consequences so far reaching as to cause uncertainty as to the wisdom of such course."

These are the President's own words. Therein he states the purposes of the proposed legislation.

It is clear from that statement that the President by the enactment of his proposed bills enlarging the Supreme Court, and pursuant thereto by the appointment of new members to the Supreme Court proposes to have enacted laws by Congress, the constitutionality of which will be sustained by the Supreme Court, which will be of such a character as would be unconstitutional under the Constitution as heretofore interpreted by the Supreme Court.

In this I am not imputing the motives of the President. I am not charging him with stacking wrongfully the Supreme Court. I am taking him at his word. Every school child knows that our government consists of three separate parts, a Congress consisting of two houses which enact our laws; a President or Executive Department, who has the power of veto of any law, and also the power and the duty of administering our laws; and third, the Judicial Department which consists of the Supreme Court of the United States, which is a court of last resort.

The Constitution of the United States is a written document through and by which the complete form of our democratic government is prescribed and upon which all of the rights and liberties of our people depend. The interpretation of this written statute, this Magna Charta of America, can not be interpreted by every citizen in his own way; necessarily there would be a wide divergence of opinion. Many are incompetent to interpret such a statute and apply it to all of our lives; therefore, we have provided in the Constitution for a Supreme Court, whose duty it is to interpret and to apply the principles of the Constitution in all issues arising from governmental or individual controversies. It is then the Supreme Court of the United States that breathes into this otherwise cold document the breath of life.

Thank God for Hiram Johnson—the man who has given his life in the interests of the people, who has in these halls here in Sacramento, and in Washington, always fought against predatory wealth and for the people. He has protected us from foreign wars. He has kept us from wasting our moneys with foreign countries, and again he comes forward to protect the liberties of the people and to preserve to them the right of amending their own Constitution.

It is fortunate that we have leading Democrats like Senator Bayley of North Carolina, and Senator Wheeler, and Progressive Republicans like Senator Borah and others, who place patriotism higher than politics and are fighting to protect the liberties and the rights of our people.

I sincerely urge, gentlemen, that you vote for the Senate resolution before us!

By Senator Garrison:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate:

It is amusing to me to note the insistence of the sponsors of this resolution that it is a nonpartisan issue, particularly my good friend Senator Schottky from Merced who has introduced practically the same bill at this session which I introduced upon this floor in the 1927 session, making the Legislature nonpartisan. It is also amusing to me to note the ardor with which my good friend, Senator Knowland, praises our beloved Senator Hiram W. Johnson for his stand on this issue, whereas, I have never yet had the privilege of hearing him praise the Senator on a single one of the thousands of stands Senator Johnson has courageously taken on behalf of the working people and the common ordinary citizens of this Nation. He has been significantly silent on the Senator's splendid progressive record up to this time. It is with no thought of belittling Senator Johnson that I take the opposite view upon this question, realizing as I do that no matter how great the statesman, we can not expect to agree upon every single issue.

In listening to the arguments in support of this measure on this floor today, while I recognize the voices of the Senators of California, the words are the words of the reactionary press of this State and Nation who suffered defeat at the last election by the largest landslide in the history of the country. Neither do I hear a single criticism from the distinguished Senators of the actions of the Republican Presidents who have heretofore enlarged the membership of the Supreme Court of the United States. It seems to me to be a question of "whose ox is getting gored," and the best test of whether or not this is a partisan issue will be the roll call upon which this resolution is passed or defeated today.

We have no better right to criticize the motives of President Roosevelt, who in my humble opinion, is the greatest President the United States has had since Lincoln, than we have to criticize the motives of those Republican Presidents who have increased the membership upon the Supreme Court. Neither should we impugn the motives of the Senate of the United States, because that honorable body must approve, under President Roosevelt's plan, any nomination for Supreme Court Justice submitted by the President. It seems presumptuous to me for this body, the Senate of a single State of this great Union, to say to the United States Senate and to the President of the United States that we know more about the business of the Congress than does the Congress itself. We are placing ourselves in the ridiculous position of "the tail wagging the dog."

There has been no argument presented that President Roosevelt's plan is contrary to the Constitution of the United States. My good friend, the Senator from Merced County has stated that he would favor a constitutional amendment providing for compulsory retirement of Supreme Court Justices at the age of 70 years. Therein, he defeats every argument he has presented in favor of his resolution. Because, were such a constitutional provision now in effect, President Roosevelt would have the appointment of six Supreme Court Judges. Could it be argued that he would be less likely to appoint judges in sympathy with his own economic views under that arrangement than under the one he has proposed? Can it be expected that any President, be he Republican or Democrat, would appoint Judges of the Supreme Court or heads of any other department of government known to him to be opposed to his philosophy of government?

Much has been said here with reference to insulating the courts against outside influences. Regardless of to what lengths we go in this regard, we must realize that judges are still human beings and subject to the frailties and imperfections of mankind. It is only for the purpose of keeping the judiciary of this Nation in step with the progress of its people that the President has presented this admirable plan of supplying new blood, new talents and younger men to this most high tribunal. Personally, I feel it should have been done years ago.

It has been argued that this plan was not an issue at the last campaign, but I wish to remind you gentlemen that President Roosevelt's plan of recovery and his philosophy of government was the only issue at the last campaign, and it was with full confidence that he would continue in his efforts to relieve the suffering of human kind that the people gave him such an outstanding victory at the last election. Our good Senator from Merced has expressed the apprehension that we may not always have a Franklin D. Roosevelt in the President's chair. I join him in that apprehension and, to the extent, agree with you that it would be more unfortunate indeed should we ever have another proslavery Resolution at this high office.

I am at a loss to understand how and Senators representing a great farming community, in view of the President's heroic efforts to relieve the distress of the farmers, can oppose this upon this issue. Here we recognize the great drive preceding President Roosevelt's first term in office and how our farmers appeared to him personally for some aid to put the farmers on an economic basis whereby they could pay a living and a decent wage to their labor. Have we forgotten the hard times we have sent representatives some of those members of this honorable body to Washington seeking not only the Congress but the personal assistance of the President to help us in solving our economic problems? He has taken a personal interest in our George Valley Water Project, as well as our domestic and social. Even now we are seeking his intervention for assistance help for some work in this State. Personally Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate, I am not one of those who would help the hand that feeds us.

My good friend the Senator from Alameda County fears we might come to have a dictatorship in this Nation. Strongly believing as I do, that that you will never come to pass, I say to you gentlemen, that should such a time come, I would rather see a dictatorship such as we have in a state of the people rather than be named revolution. And I say to you that I fear nothing so much as our social and external economic ruin to the working man and the country citizen of this Nation. We are faced with some such revolution and I could but remind you of my understanding experience of that danger, the international labor union as exemplified by the outburst which springs up all over this Nation.

Now I say to you that we may not control the actions of the other houses of this Legislature, but we must be responsible for our own actions in this body, and should we pass this resolution today, we alone will bear the responsibility of placing this State in a most perplexing position in the eyes of the Nation. It is one thing to oppose and condemn the actions of our President and the Federal Congress, and quite another to pass resolutions reflecting their failure in the office they are making. Who are we to fly in the face of the wishes of our people as well expressed by the tremendous popular vote returned on President [Roosevelt] in this State at last November's election? I say to you that, in face of that vote and the attitude of some of the Senators upon this floor. The least that we could do would be to take no official action upon this question. Therefore, Mr. President, I wish to move that this resolution be called and I say to you, Senators, that if my motion succeeds, I will make a motion to name Table Senator [Harris] resolution amending the proposed change in the National Guard. I believe that is the sensible and logical manner for us to take and should move that the resolution presented by Senator Schuchert be called.

By Senator Keough

Mr. President and to members of the Senate:

I have listened to the flow of oratory and big words with great interest. Some of the words were a bit difficult for me to understand, as they had to burn down the school to get me out of the fourth grade. However, I do know that if, when you return to your homes and you want to be able to go to the Post Office to get your mail you had better vote "No" on this resolution.

By Senator Seawell

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate:

I have sat patiently all day and listened to the arguments presented on both sides regarding this Supreme Court problem. I have heard it stated here that the issue is nonpartisan and one that affects only the fundamental principles upon which our Government and its institutions were founded. The Senator from Orange County read a letter from a constituent, not constituting, and based this letter as expressing the feelings of the people of California as being wholeheartedly in favor of the President's program. It may be that the Senator from Orange has never heard of a county called Placer which I happen to represent along with Nevada and Sierra counties. But I can assure him that the people of those counties have not indicated to me either by person or by letter their feelings on this matter. The only knowledge that I have regarding the Supreme Court issue is that information that I read in the daily newspapers and whose editorials indicate to me that the newspaper fraternity certainly is not in full accord with the proposal. It is my honest opinion that this Legislature is not in order when it attempts to resolve Congress as to what the Congress should do regarding the issue which all speakers have stated affects the fundamental structure of our American Government. We have two United State Senators who are widely apart on the issue and 20 Congressmen who represent this State in the National Congress and it is my belief that the people of California can better express themselves by direct communication to the Congressional Representatives rather than through legislative action of the California Legislature. The last roll call on the motion to lay the resolutions on the table clearly indicated to me that this issue is being made a partisan issue. I am of the sincere opinion that every member of this body is either voicing his personal opinion on this subject or is bound by partisan ties regarding the issue involved and is not indicative in my mind that any one of you are in a position to honestly state that your vote will be the feeling of the people of your district which certainly is a part of the State and partially explains the views of the people of the State of California. I believe these resolutions are based upon partisanship and not introduced for the purpose of expressing the feelings of the people of this State to Congress. I must oppose the same in order to let the people express their feelings to the Congressmen and individual opinions rather than through me and my vote as a member of the State Senate.

WHEREAS, The climate of the District of Columbia is insufferably hot during the summer months to the extent that the President of the United States and the executive officers thereof are forced to seek refuge in a cooler portion of the country; and

WHEREAS, The Chief Executives of recent years have during the summer months left the District of Columbia and gone to various camps or resorts; and

Consideration of Committee Amendments.

Pursuant to the report of the Committee on Insurance, the following amendments to Senate Bill No. 1037 were read and adopted:

Amendment No. 1.

Article 3. Acquisition and Withdrawal of Members.

11950. A policy shall not be issued by any association organized under this chapter until applications for insurance have been received from a sufficient number of employers having annual pay rolls large enough so that the deposit premiums collected thereunder before commencement of business will aggregate at least $100,000, nor until the amount of the assets of the association are in a sum sufficient to discharge all liabilities and to maintain a surplus of $125,000 over all liabilities, of which surplus at least $25,000 must be surplus exclusive of deposit premiums.

Whenever the association fails to maintain said surplus, then no further policies shall be issued until additional contributions to surplus are made so as to bring said surplus to said minimum of $125,000.

Any insurer organized under this chapter having a certificate of authority on or before December 31, 1936, shall have until December 31, 1937, to make good a deficiency in such surplus requirements.

11951. Every employer accepting a policy in any insurer organized under this chapter thereby becomes a member of such insurer and becomes liable for his proportionate share of losses and operating expenses, as set forth in section 11970.

11952. Unless a longer period of notice is provided in the policy of insurance between the insurer and the member, any member of any insurer organized under this chapter may withdraw at any time after giving 30 days' written notice of his intention to withdraw, surrendering his policy and discharging all his obligations to the insurer existing at the time of his withdrawal.

11953. The termination of the insurance does not release the withdrawing member from liability for the payment of his share of all assessments made to make up deficiencies due to injuries happening while he was insured by the association.

11954. Upon the member's withdrawal, there shall be returned to him the excess of the premium for his surrendered policy over the customary short term premium for the time during which the policy was in force. This section does not require the return of any portion of the original deposit premium.

11956. The association may cancel any policy after giving the insured five days' written notice to that effect and returning to the insured his proportionate part of the premium. Such proportionate part is the ratio which the time the policy was in force bears to the total period covered by the premium. The proportionate part of the premium to be returned to the member shall not reduce the premium to be retained by the association below the deposit premium stated in the policy in those cases in which the policy has been canceled by the association because of nonpayment of premium by the member.

Article 4. Assessments.

11970. Every insurer organized under this chapter shall in its by-laws and policies fix the contingent liability of the members for the payment of losses in excess of its available cash funds. Such contingent liability shall not be less than an amount equal to one annual premium and shall be in addition to the annual premium charged.

11971. Whenever any insurer organized under this chapter is not possessed of cash funds sufficiently in excess of the total reserve for claims and liabilities, so that such excess will pay incurred losses and expenses, such association shall assess the amount needed to pay such losses and expenses upon its members in proportion to their several liabilities, as set forth in section 11970.

11972. Such insurer shall cause to be recorded in a book kept for that purpose:

(a) The order for such assessment.

(b) The amount of the assessment called for.

(c) A statement setting forth the condition of the insurer at the date of the order, including the amount of its cash assets and contingent funds.

11973. Such record of assessment order and supporting data shall be signed by the directors who vote for the order. Approval of the record by the commissioner shall be procured before any part of the assessment is collected. Any person liable to assessment may inspect and take a copy of the record.

Article 5. Annual Statement and Finances.

11990. Every insurer organized under this chapter shall file its financial statement with the commissioner on or before the first day of March of each year. Such statement shall exhibit the condition of the insurer on the preceding December 31st. Such statement shall be made as provided in the blanks furnished by the commissioner.

11991. The administrative expenses for any calendar year of any insurer organized under this chapter, including commissions and fees to agents and officers but not including expenses incurred for the prevention of injuries, shall be limited to 30 per cent of the aggregate amount of gross premiums actually received during that year. The liability prescribed in section 11992 accrues when expenditures are made in excess of this amount.

11992. Expenditures in violation of section 11991 render the officers, directors and all persons having similar powers in relation to the insurer jointly and severally liable to it for the amount of any such excess. In the event that such insurer fails or refuses to recover such excess of expenditures, the commissioner may sue for and recover the excess from any person liable, for the benefit of the insurer's members.

11993. In the case of a person whose duty it is to determine the character of the risks and to decide what applications shall be accepted and what applications shall be rejected by such insurer, such person shall not receive a commission upon premiums as any part of his compensation. Such person's compensation shall be a fixed salary and such share of the net profits as the directors or trustees determine.

11994. In estimating the financial condition of any insurer organized under this chapter, the commissioner shall observe the following rules:

(a) He shall charge as liabilities the same premiums as are reported of incorporated insurers issuing noncancellable policies on a reserve basis.

(b) There shall be allowed as admitted assets the actual paid deposit premiums of members.

(c) The paid deposit premiums of members shall not be charged as liabilities.

(d) No deposit premium unless actually collected shall be considered an admitted asset.

(e) An assessment levied as provided in this chapter and not collected shall in no event be allowed as an asset.

11995. The directors of every such insurer shall maintain a sum sufficient to provide a surplus of $125,000, $250,000 of which shall be from surplus accumulations of a surplus accumulated from members' deposit premiums.

If such insurer has an excess of assets over liabilities including the maintenance of such surplus of $125,000, the directors of every such insurer may, in their discretion and if it appears in their judgment advisable for the best interests of the insurer, either declare a cash dividend to its members or allow them a credit on their renewal premiums, out of any funds not used above such surplus.

11996. A dividend shall not be declared without previous approval by the commissioner.

11997. The funds of any insurer organized under this chapter shall be invested in the manner allowed for the investment of the funds of other insurers.

Article 6. Insolvency.

12010. Whenever the liabilities of any such insurer for losses reported, expenses and taxes, together with its claims receivable, exceeds a greater amount than its admitted cash assets, such insurer is insolvent.

Article 7. General Powers.

12020. The directors of any such insurer shall make and enforce reasonable rules and regulations for the protection of members on the premises of members. For this purpose the inspectors of the insurer shall have free access to all such premises during regular working hours. Any employer or employers organized by any such rule or regulation may petition the Industrial Accident Commission for a review, and it may affirm, amend or annul the rule or regulation.

12021. Any insurer organized under this chapter may own, hold and acquire such property as is necessary or convenient for the transaction of its business.

12022. Any such insurer may sue and be sued, with the same rights and obligations as a natural person. In addition to the powers otherwise enumerated, it shall exercise all such rights and powers as are necessarily incident to the exercise of the powers expressly granted to it, and its directors may do any and all things necessary or convenient for the proper conduct of its business as fully and completely as any corporate insurer transacting the same type of business.

12023. Auditors, inspectors, and other agents of the insurer shall, for the purpose of verifying pay rolls, have free access to the wages, accounts, and pay rolls of members."

(1) The word "Commissioner" means the Commissioner of Corporations of the State of California, or any deputy, investigator, auditor or any other person employed by him.

(2) The term "personal property broker" as used in this act, includes all who are engaged in the business of lending money and taking in the name of the lender, or in any other name, in whole or in part, as security for such loan, any contract or obligation involving the forfeiture of rights in or to personal property, the use and possession of which property is obtained by other than the mortgagee or lender, or all who are engaged in the business of lending money and taking in the name of the lender, or in any other name in whole or in part as security for such loan, and lien on, assignment of, or power of attorney relative to wages, salary, earnings, income or commission.

(3) The word "broker" as used in this act shall be deemed to include all who are engaged in the business as agent of the borrower, or otherwise, in negotiating, for a compensation, a loan to be made by a personal property broker.

(4) The term "personal property broker" and the word "broker" as herein defined shall not include employees of the "personal property broker" or a "broker" regularly employed by such "personal property broker" or "broker" at the particular location specified in the license of such "personal property broker" or "broker."

(a) No broker shall arrange, negotiate, procure, or cause any loan to be made by a personal property broker, and charge, contract for, or receive at any time from or at the expense of the borrower any compensation for services in arranging, negotiating or procuring any such loan, unless such broker has previously obtained a license from the commissioner as hereinafter provided, nor unless such loan is made in accordance with the provisions of this act and the rules and regulations made and issued by the commissioner under the authority of this act.

(b) No personal property broker shall by exacting charges as hereinabove defined receive from a borrower more than ten per cent per annum upon any loan or forbearance of any money, goods, or things in action, unless such personal property broker shall have previously obtained a license from the commissioner as hereinafter provided, nor unless such loan or forbearance is made in accordance with the provisions of this act and the rules and regulations made and issued by the commissioner under the authority of this act.

Sec. 3. Section 21 of said act is hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec. 21. All who shall be engaged in business as personal property brokers, or brokers as herein defined, either directly as principal or indirectly as agent, employee, manager, fiduciary, representative or in any other capacity, or at any

No personal property broker shall, directly or indirectly, receive from a borrower any amount in excess of the charges herein provided for, but nothing herein contained shall be construed to deny to any personal property broker the right to charge, contract for and receive from any borrower the necessary cost of insurance, if any, and the lawful expenses, if any, actually paid by the personal property broker to any public officer for acknowledging, filing, recording and releasing in any public office any instrument securing the loan, or the right to collect such expenses when the loan is made or at any time thereafter, nor the right to recover costs in any suit and to recover reasonable attorney's fees when authorized by the contract of loan. If the total amount charged, contracted for or received is in excess of that permitted under this section, the contract of loan shall be void and no person shall have any right to collect or receive any principal, interest or charges whatsoever thereon.

(b) The payment of $500 or less in money, credit, goods, or things in action, as consideration for any sale or assignment of, or order for, the payment of wages, salary, commissions, or other compensation for services, whether earned or to be earned, shall for the purpose of regulation under this act be deemed a loan secured by such assignment, and the amount by which such assigned compensation exceeds the amount of such consideration actually paid shall, for the purpose of regulation under this act, be deemed interest, fees, bonus, commissions, discounts, or other compensation upon or for such loan from the date of such payment to the date such compensation is payable. Such transaction shall be governed by and subject to the provisions of this act.

Sec. 23. Any personal property broker or broker as herein defined having a license in effect under Chapter 634, Statutes of 1909 as amended, shall notwithstanding this amendment thereto be deemed to have a license as a personal property broker or broker for the calendar year 1937 only to operate as such personal property broker or broker at the particular location specified in such license; provided that such license may be suspended or revoked for cause in the manner and on the grounds specified herein. Relative to requesting the advice of The Federal Land Bank, the Federal Home Owners Loan Corporation and the Federal Housing Administration concerning the effect of the proposed legislation to prohibit deficiency judgments upon the loaning of Federal funds to the citizens of the State of California.

WHEREAS, Numerous bills have been introduced in the Senate and the Assembly of the State of California, proposing to limit or abolish deficiency judgments following foreclosure sales of encumbrances of real property within the State of California; and

WHEREAS, It is essential to the proper housing of the citizens of the State of California and to the growth and prosperity of the State of California that money be kept available for farm land development and the construction, improvement and maintenance of California homes; and

WHEREAS, At the present time the Federal Government has loaned and is loaning to the citizens of California sums of money in a sufficient amount greatly to stimulate the building of new homes and the improvement of existing homes of the citizens of the State of California on a wide scale; and

WHEREAS, It is reported that the abolition of deficiency judgments following foreclosures in the State of California would greatly jeopardize the lending of money to the citizens of the State of California and would influence the Federal Government to cease to make such loans within the State of California; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Assembly and Senate of the State of California, jointly. That the Legislature of the State of California respectfully requests The Federal Land Bank, the Federal Home Owners Loan Corporation and the Federal Housing Administration to advise the Legislature of the State of California whether or not in their opinion the adoption of legislation in this State abolishing deficiency judgments, would have a tendency to hamper, curtail, make difficult or prevent the continued granting of The Federal Land Bank, the Federal Home Owners Loan Corporation and Federal Housing Administration loans to the citizens of the State of California; and be it further
